

Paying More and Getting Less.

Is What Happens When $15 to $18 of your money goes for clothes that are not in any particular better than ours at always $10.

It stands to reason that a manufacturer, doing business with consumers direct, can sell his product for less than can the retail merchant.

Your chief concern in considering our clothes is to know whether or not we, as makers of the clothes we sell, have priced them at their actual wholesale worth.

If we have, you are certain of saving the middleman's profit, which in our clothes means $5 to $8 to you.

Public opinion has placed its stamp of approval on our price, on our clothes, and on our way of doing business.

A few moments' time spent in our store will add the weight of your opinion to that expressed by scores of hundreds of men who have found our "Factory to Wearer Service" real.

Just Two Profits---Yours and Ours No Middleman's
