FOREIGNER ATTACKS

Veterans of Steelton, Highspire Her Screams Bring Assistance, and Middletown Salute but Assailant Makes Departed Comrades Getaway

Alone in her bedroom at her home in Good street, shortly after 1 o'clock this morning, Mrs. Catherine Brunner was attacked by an unidentified foreigner, choked and brutally beaten. The assailant evidently gained entrance to the Brunner home through a rear window. Without disturbing anything in the rooms on the first floor, according to the police, the intruder went direct to Mrs. Brunner's room. Her husband was absent.

Mrs. Brunner was awakened by the feeling of the foreigner's hands about her throat. Before she could scream her assailant tightened his grip, making it impossible for her to make a sound. Terrorized, Mrs. Brunner began to fight back at the brute who hissed terrible threats as the grip about her throat was tightened. With a superthroat and struck the assailant full across his leaning face.

Before she could spring out of bed to summon help, however, he made another lungs at her, striking her over the face with his fig sonized scream for her leaves and fire the cover the face with his fig sonized scream for his fig sonized scream for her leaves at her, striking her over the face with his fig sonized scream for her leaves and fire and field.

Members of the family and neighbors came to Mrs. Brunner's aid and a physician was summoned. To-day she is in a precarious condition. The police have been notified of the attack and and a present will likely be made before the day is over.
