VETERAN GOLFER HUMBLING OLD RIVAL

Travis Eliminates Travers by One Up in Metropolitan Championship Series

Special to The Telegraph New York, June 4.—In one of those matches which make for golf history, Walter J. Travis, veteran of a thousand battles on the links, former international, national and metropolitan champion, yesterday defeated Jerome D. Travers, once ranked as the peer of American golfers, in the second round of the metropolitan amateur championship on the course of the Apawamis Club. The margin was one up. This contest was the outstanding feature of the day.

Meanwhile, Oswald Birky, of Englewood, the titleholder, survived. He first defeated John M. Ward, of baseball fame, and then eliminated Spottswood D. Bowers, of Brooklyn, in rather comfortable fashion. Roy D. Webb, the medal winner, went down to defeat at the hands of Henry J. Topping in the latter part of the day by two up.

There was only one extra hole contested in the championship division during the day. That was between John Anderson, former Massachusetts titleholder, who recently became a resident of this district, and E. Mortimer Barnes, of Englewood. Anderson won on the 20th hole. Max Marston, playing well both morning and afternoon, won both his matches, and so did Philip Carter, the metropolitan junior titleholder. Percy Platt, winner of the Lakewood tournament early in the Spring, played like a champion in the afternoon, defeating Charles Seely, a former metropolitan titleholder.

It Is Back to Minors For Former Tri-Stater

Special to The Telegraph St. Louis, Mo., June 4.—Having failed to arrange a trade with some other American League club for First Base star, it is now probable that Branch Rickey will send the promising youngster to the Rochester club of the International League. Rickey is hot on the trail of Fritz Coumbe, the pitcher Cleveland secured from the Boston Red Sox last year.

The Browns' pilot will confer with Owner Charles Somers at Cleveland today with a view to putting through a deal whereby Kauffman will go to the Indians. Should this effort fail, Kauffman will probably be turned over to Rochester before the end of this week. Ivan Howard and Dee Walsh were sought by Manager John Gangel of the Rochester Club, but Rickey informed Gangel yesterday that the Browns intend to keep both players.

New York, June 4.—Harry Smith, manager of the Newark International League baseball club, was given an unconditional release yesterday by George L. Solomon, owner of the club. A policy of financial retrenchment due to a poor season was given as the cause of Smith's release.
