ELECTRIFICATION NEARING COMPLETION

Pennsylvania Railroad Drilling Men to Take Charge of Trains; Ready by July 1

At a cost of $4,000,000—a sum which would buy a right of way and build 400 miles of ordinary track—the Pennsylvania Railroad company is now completing work which will give it the most modern and efficient 20 miles of electrified railroad in the world.

Motormen and crews are receiving daily drills, construction work its finishing touches and cars and motor-vehicles are being put into operation. It is expected that the work will be completed and the electric service in operation about 1.

Construction is Big Task
Between West Philadelphia and Broad street station the concentration of traffic made the work of construction a task of almost unprecedented difficulty. Through the "throat" of six tracks at the first interlocking tower west of Broad Street station, where 55 switches and 52 signals are located, no less than 2295 separate movements of trains and engines occur daily. It was necessary to devise means by which the construction gangs could work without interruption to this immense traffic.
