BEDFORD-BLAIR ROAD WORK PLAN

Highway Commissioner Cunningham Tells Delegation What He Proposes to Do About It

A delegation from Bedford and Blair counties which called on State Highway Commissioner Cunningham late yesterday was informed that $15,473 had been set aside for the maintenance and repair of route 286, from Roofing Springs by way of Martinsburg to Woodbury, this being the piece of road in which they were interested.

The delegation was headed by Representative Samuel McCurdy and H. Atlee Brumbaugh, of Blair county. The spokesman was Lawrence R. Over, of Curryville. Others in the delegation were M. R. Brumbaugh, of Martinsburg, treasurer of Blair county; Ira E. Brumbaugh, also of Martinsburg and president of the borough

GOVERNOR PLANS TO START SYSTEM

Taking a Keen Personal Interest in the Inauguration of the Workmen's Compensation

Governor Brumbaugh plans to take as keen a personal interest in the organization of the new workmen's compensation system for the State government as he will in the reorganization of the Department of Agriculture under the commission he is shortly to name and in the betterment of the condition of the roads. He signed the compensation bills last night after having had them thoroughly gone over by Attorney General Brown and carried out the agreement with the miners by approving the bills to bring them under compensation earlier in the day.

The compensation act takes effect on January 1 next and the general appropriation bill carries funds for the establishment of the bureau to administer it in the Department of Labor and Industry and the creation of the insurance fund.

Compensation will be administered by a board of three and there will be ten referees, attorneys, clerks, experts and others; in short a complete bureau with liberal allowance for expenses.

The State insurance fund will also have a number of officers, including a manager at $7,500 per year.

All of these places will be filled under the eye of the Governor, who also plans to look over appointments in other branches of the Department of Labor and Industry and in all other departments of the state government.

The bills are as outlined in the Telegraph weeks ago. They carry out the big pledge of the Republican state platform and are among the monumental legislation of the decade. Compensation discussion was started four years ago. A commission was named by John K. Tener in 1911 and while the bill failed in 1913 the commission was continued and its work made the basis of the present acts. Attorney General Brown took personal charge of the bills and they represent in a large measure his labors.

STREET RAILWAYS CAN'T RUN JITNEYS

Governor Vetoes Bill Which Would Have Allowed Them to Enter New Field

Governor Brumbaugh last night gave notice that he had vetoed the bill to allow street railway companies to operate motor buses or to conduct jitney services in connection with their systems on the ground that such powers would stifle competition. A few days ago the Governor signed the bill to enable cities to regulate jitneys and he says regarding the bill he vetoed that it would be unwarranted extension of charter rights "with no regulation control save the consent of the local authorities. It destroys competition. It makes for monopoly. The jitney service is too young and too uncertain to warrant such legislative treatment. Better allow each community to work out this new problem in its own way as was done with other transportation agencies until experience shows the way to state-wide regulation."

The Governor also announced veto of the House bill to supervise the operations of insurance rate making bureaus. The Governor says that the body of the bill is broader than its title and that the Insurance Commissioner is given authority to examine bureaus but not individuals and associations. He says: "While it is designated as a bill to prevent discrimination in rates, it in reality precludes all possibility of competition save as to purely mutual companies. Why should the rate fixed by self-appointed boards wholly without the control and regulation of the Commonwealth? It is an attempt to stifle competition and increase the cost of insurance."

The House bill to repeal the act of 1911 regulating the use of billiard tables, etc., for Philadelphia was vetoed with the comment: "If this business required regulation, then it surely needs it yet. The city has not advanced morally so fast as to warrant the removal of the safeguards now provided by law."

In vetoing the bill to permit the city treasurer of Philadelphia to have sole power to name mercantile appraisers for that city the Governor said: "They are now appointed by the Auditor General and the city treasurer. This tax is a state tax. The city treasurer is the agent of the Commonwealth for the collection thereof. It seems unnecessary to point out that this takes all power in these appointments from the party concerned, namely, the Commonwealth, and bestows it upon the agent of the Commonwealth. To establish such a principle of procedure is in violation of the fundamental doctrine that the State's supervision should follow its fiscal obligation."

Other bills vetoed:

Senate bill exempting from women's employment law of 1913 women connected with educational, charitable and religious institutions. On this the Governor says that it would make "distinctions without a show of reason."

Senate bill placing selection of assessors in hands of county commissioners in counties having between 200,000 and 230,000 population. The Governor says the "classification is without warrant or precedent" and that it is a movement away from government by the people, who now elect the assessors. He adds: "It gives commissioners a strategic advantage in promoting their re-election."

Senate bill amending school code requiring the State to pay tuition for inmates of orphan asylums, children's homes, etc., the Governor says: "The genius of our school system puts this obligation upon the local school districts concerned. They can now and should provide for these children's education. This would open wide a door of unpredictable expenditure of state funds."

Senate bill repealing act of 1867 relative to salary of county treasurer of Lehigh, on which the Governor says that the bill does not disclose its purpose and "in the absence of any reason for it and because it is so enigmatical it is idle to speculate upon its purpose."

TYPHOID WARNING BY CITY HEALTH HEAD

Dr. John M. J. Raunick, city health officer, last night warned all persons who are taking trips to nearby places to be careful of the water they drink because of the prevalence of typhoid fever. Dr. Raunick in speaking of the city water supply and milk supply said that the people have little to fear, but that care should be taken in purchasing ice cream from questionable manufacturers.
