When You Think of Something Good to Eat in Summertime You Ought First Give a Thought to the Refrigerator

Bohn Syphon Refrigerators are sold exclusively in Harrisburg in the Dives, Pomeroy & Stewart Basement, but you will find them in general use throughout America in homes, in clubs, and in hospitals where quality is given first consideration.

Whenever you sit down to dinner in a Pullman dining car you need not speculate on the refrigeration of the food you order because

A Bohn Syphon is Part of the Standard Equipment in All Pullman Dining Cars.

The Bohn Syphon is so well thought of from a scientific basis because of its superiority of construction and because it is perhaps the only refrigerator made that maintains:

- Low and uniform temperature
- Pure atmosphere
- Perfect circulation and absence of odors
- Freedom from moisture
- Economy in consumption of ice
- Perfect drainage

The provision chambers in all Bohn Syphon refrigerators are lined with porcelain enamel. There are many styles to be seen in our Basement Housewares section. Prices start at $40.00 and go by easy stages to $117.00.

PEACH TREES NOT KILLED BY SPRAYING

No Evidence That Lime Sulfur Solution Has Been Injurious to Orchards

Dr. H. A. Surface, the State Zoologist, in a letter to Professor F. N. Fagen, of State College, declares that there does not exist as far as he can ascertain any support for the published statement that peach trees have been killed by the use of lime-sulfur mixture for borers, but that frost has done the harm.
"Dr. Surface says, in part: 'I note that you and Professor Adams are saying that thousands of peach trees in commercial orchards through the Cumberland Valley and in Western Pennsylvania have been killed by arsenical poisoning through applications of lime-sulfur and arsenate of lead for the purpose of controlling the peach borer,' and that you advise peach growers to discontinue the use of this preparation. As one who has given this subject most careful study I beg liberty to make a correction. The damage to peach trees over this State is certainly by freezing, correctly called frost girdle injury, and not by any lime-sulfur or arsenate of lead or any other spray treatment. I can show you trees that have been treated for five years successfully with lime-sulfur and arsenate of lead without any injury whatever. I can name one like Mr. Barr, of Lancaster, who regularly treats his peach orchard with lime-sulfur and lead arsenate, and at the recent demonstration of the Division of Zoology at the Masonic Home at Elizabethtown he publicly offered any man five dollars who would find a borer in any one of his eight thousand peach trees. None of his trees has been injured at the crown or in any other way by the material used. Practically the same can be said of successful results in controlling borers by W. H. Banzhaf, president of the Lycoming County Horticultural Society, of Muncy, Pa. He has had no damage from the material used. On the other hand, I have many reports such as Herman Haase, of Wayne county, also a large grower in Erie county, and dozens of others whose names and addresses I can give, whose peach trees have been killed by the frost girdle injury or freezing and who never used any arsenate of lead or lime-sulfur solution for the control of the borers. This frost girdle injury is especially conspicuous in the western part of Pennsylvania this year. It is to be seen in orchards where no spray materials were used on the trunks of trees and especially where arsenate of lead has never been applied. Finally, Dr. M. B. White, United States plant pathologist, Washington, D. C., sent a representative to examine some trees that were supposed to be injured by some other cause, such as that which you mention, and decided that the damage was due to winter freezing.

"If you wish to look into this subject further, I shall be glad to give you all help possible through the records in my hands."

BRYAN WILL SPLIT DEMOCRATIC PARTY

between President Wilson and Secretary Bryan will project itself far into the politics of the future and result in as wide a breach in the Democratic party as the circumstances that led to the downfall of the Republican party in 1912. That the consequences will be as serious from a party standpoint is generally feared by Democratic leaders.

Mr. Wilson and Mr. Bryan came together as a result of one of those mysterious happenings in politics that sometimes unite men mutually antagonistic in habit, thought and principle.

The union of their interests in the Baltimore convention of 1912 was dictated by political expediency. Once Bryan became convinced that the Presidential nomination was beyond his grasp he made a fight for Wilson that was dramatic in the extreme.

The final separation of the two men is equally dramatic, coming as it does at a time when an international crisis threatens, and portending for a certainty a desperate contest between determined men and factions.

"Cocked Hat" Note
The same hand that a few years ago planned the famous political note which suggested that for the good of the party Mr. Bryan should be "knocked into a cocked hat" signed the document that probably makes certain a historic political struggle.

No one in Washington doubts that from this time forth Mr. Bryan will speak his mind fairly on the Administration. In fact the belief is quite general that Mr. Bryan, who excels in attack, is more contented than he has been at any time since March 4, 1913, when he became Secretary of State.

There is reason to believe that Mr. Bryan felt out of joint with his surroundings from the beginning of the Administration. He was compelled to play a subordinate part in politics as well as statescraft, and the role was a new one for the Peerless Leader.

Democratic leaders are fearful that the dominance of their party will come to an end on March 4, 1917, as a result of the break between Mr. Wilson and Mr. Bryan. They admit that Mr. Bryan has a large personal following, large enough to encompass the defeat of the ticket in 1916 should Mr. Wilson be a candidate for re-election, unless in the meantime there should be a political understanding between them.

His Candidacy Probable
They will not be surprised if Mr. Bryan is a candidate for the Presidential nomination with "peace and order" as his issues. They think they foresee a fight in the party convention of 1916 with Bryan, as in 1912.

To Make Your Figure Slim and Attractive

If you are one of the many who suffer from obesity you know only too well the humiliation and discomfort one suffers when they are too fat. The cause of obesity is undoubtedly due to faulty assimilation. Too much of your food is turned into fat and too little into strength and vitality. To correct this eat sparingly of starchy foods and get from any good druggist a few oil of korelin capsules and take one after each meal and one before retiring at night. They cost little, act quickly, are pleasant to take and are perfectly safe. After starting treatment weigh yourself, once a week and do not skip a single dose until you are down to normal.

This is such a simple, safe and reliable way to reduce one's weight that it readily appeals to everyone burdened with superfluous fat.—Advertisement.
