

PREPAREDNESS FOR WAR IS URGED BY FLAG DAY ORATOR

Until Day When Wars Shall Be No More, American Men Should Be Taught Use of Gun, Declares Speaker at the Elk Observance in Reservoir Park

RITUALISTIC SERVICE ATTRACTS HUNDREDS Concert by Commonwealth Band, History of and Tribute to Flag Features of the Celebration of America, the art of handling a gun and saber, something of the implements of battle, of trenchment and tactics, on sea as well as land. Not that we should become a military nation, but that if occasion ever arose, we would all know something of the requirements of warlike rather than be raw recruits and novices.

The program included special ritualistic exercises, patriotic music, tribute to the history of the flag, and the address by M. Kabatchnick. The master of ceremonies was Benjamin W. Demming, exalted ruler of Harrisburg Lodge No. 113, B. P. O. E.

The exercises opened with a concert by the Commonwealth Band, under the direction of W. Fred Weber. The exercises which were of a most impressive character started at 4 o'clock. The Elks, including many out of town members of the order, went by trolley car to the park. They were met at the new Market street park entrance by the Commonwealth Band. In a body, they marched to the Meade D. Detweiler monument where they gathered for the observance.

Beginning to-day George Greenbaum will go on duty as an extra park officer to guard the city's river wall and steps from the deprivations of vandals who persist in damaging the concrete by rolling rocks down the slopes. During the last few weeks not only have the walk and the steps been chipped and cracked, but the newly planted shrubbery and the freshly filled slopes have suffered greatly. Prompt arrests will be made and the offenders will be severely punished.

Urges Preparedness "Still, until there will be methods for peacefully enforcing international arbitration, there will be war, and some will be righteous and some unrighteous, and while we hope we may with honor be spared the necessity of becoming involved in any conflict, the American people will have to be prepared, if necessary, to compel to enforce their rights and maintain their honor, with all the might and patriotism of their historic past.
