EFFICIENCY FIRST IN HIGHWAY DEPT.

Keynote of Address By Commissioner Cunningham at Huntingdon Banquet

Huntingdon, Pa., June 18.—"Efficiency will be the first requisite of those now in the State Highway Department. Those holding positions and for whom there is work will be retained and given an opportunity to demonstrate their fitness and ability to hold the places they now occupy. Political pressure, or the pressure of a political boss, will not hold anyone in his position if he lacks efficiency."

This was the keynote of an address delivered by State Highway Commissioner Robert J. Cunningham at the banquet given by the Huntingdon Chamber of Commerce here last night. Governor Brumbaugh, who had spent the day here, was also a guest at the banquet. Commissioner Cunningham reviewed the subject of good roads in general and compared the problem confronting Pennsylvania with that of other states in the Union. He pointed out that New York state, which is now expending $100,000,000 on its highways, has approximately one-half the system that this state has to maintain. New Jersey about one-fifth, Maryland about one-ninth and Massachusetts less than one-tenth.

The commissioner further said: "This Highway Department, as our Governor so aptly expressed it, is a business man's proposition, and we expect of all employees the best that is in them and their fullest co-operation in order that we may demonstrate to the public generally that every dollar expended on our roads is being honestly and efficiently used. No dead wood will be carried in the department. Drones and those who expect to hold their positions through political leanings are being rapidly removed."

Court's Attention Called to Narrows Along River

The court's attention has been called to the unsatisfactory condition of the "Narrows" around Peter's mountain in Upper Paxton township by Constable Jacob Hoy in his quarterly statement of highway conditions. Before the State Highway Department took over the maintenance of this road Constable Hoy says the Pennsylvania Railroad had kept it in good shape, but since then little if any improvement at all has been made to it. Bad roads are also reported in Lower Swatara and repairs in the road leading from Union Deposit to Sand Beach.

Colonel Joseph B. Hutchison, chief of police, made the only specific report on the city's peace. He referred especially to the growing tendency of white men to frequent the rooms maintained by negroes and of the trouble the police are having in breaking up this practice.

Silver-haired Defendant and Cripple in Invalid's Chair Appear in Court

Across the counsel table in No. 1 court room to-day a silver-haired old woman faced a thin-faced woman half prone on an invalid's chair as defendant and plaintiff, respectively in a larceny action.

Mrs. Margaret Emmenheiser and her son, Albert, were charged with having kept and sold several thousand dollars worth of furniture belonging to Miss Lulu Clark who formerly lived with them. The plaintiff's story was that she moved her goods to the Emmenheiser house and agreed to allow them the use of her furniture, if they would care for her as long as she lived. At her death she said the goods were to go to the Emmenheisers. Several months ago, she contends, the Emmenheisers sent her to the almshouse and sold her furniture.

Dainty Woman's Needle-Work

Embroidery for Home Decoration
ORIGINAL DESIGNS

Picture Frame—How to make it

BY MADAME JEAN

THAT it is possible for the dainty woman to have frames in the colors to which her best friend or her band or her children or—her sweetheart—is most partial and in which their photographs may repose in artistic background as well as being preserved from dust and other forms of vandalism, may delight the devotee of the embroidery art.

Chose any delicate shade of linen, or pure white and make this dainty and tiny design on it. White with the forget-me-not colors is always pretty, or pale pink or pale blue, either worked in a little deeper blue than would be used on the white background would be effective. The edge should be worked in the heavy over and over stitch.

(The above designs and more than 450 other transfer patterns from the World Famous Embroidery Outfit, with a complete equipment to make them, including hoops, needles, footlets and booklet, telling how to make all the stitches, can be secured from this paper at the nominal cost of 68 cents (7 cents extra for postage with mail orders) by clipping one Embroidery Coupon from this paper, coupon appearing in the paper every day.)

Look Out For This Man!

FREDERICK SPENCE ESCAPED "LIFER"

Ossining, N. Y., June 18.—The arms of little children will reach in vain to give their daddies a goodby hug and the men of Sing Sing will have to go grieving back to their cells for the new regime, and it all because Frederick Spence broke his trust with Warden Osborne, the reform Sing Sing warden, and escaped from Sing Sing, where he had been sentenced for murder, after a moving picture show. Osborne promised the men a number of privileges, all tending towards their own betterment and the production of better citizens for the State of New York. If they themselves kept certain rules laid down by their own Welfare League. By Spence's act 1,700 men lose some of their most cherished rights under the new regime, and it is safe to say that Spence, when he is brought back to Sing Sing, will be the most unpopular man there. Threats of ostracism are being made against him though, oddly, no one blames Warden Osborne for his curtailing of the former privileges of the convicts. All realize that the prisoner has broken faith with the warden and that he must act as he does. A delegation of prisoners, representing the Welfare League, waited upon the warden and offered their services and deposited $100 made up of funds of the prisoners themselves as a reward for Spence's capture.

The escape of Spence is the first ever tried since Osborne took charge of the prison and organized his Golden Rule regime.

LOOKS BRIGHT FOR CAMP HILL PAVING

Special Election To-morrow; All Concerned Promise to Do Their Part

Every effort is being made to get out the vote for the Camp Hill paving loan election to-morrow. Burgess Milhuse has issued a circular letter to the voters on the subject and the public improvement element of the borough is active in behalf of the enterprise.

One of the most encouraging features of the proposition up to this time is the reception by the burgess of the following letter from State Highway Commissioner R. J. Cunningham:

"In reference to our conversation of even date relative to State aid for Camp Hill borough, would advise that any money that may become available for State aid construction in Cumberland county during the years 1915 and 1916 will be held for the Camp Hill borough improvement."

In an interview with the president of the Valley Railways Company this morning he authorized the publication of the following statement: "The Valley Railways agrees to pave between the rails and twelve inches on the outside of each rail, with the understanding that the borough will guarantee the legality of the present ordinance, and also that the borough and Traction company will agree upon a proper form of jitney regulation in Camp Hill."

The present franchise of the company requires that the company keep its tracks in condition to be crossed by wagons, but makes no mention of paving, so that the offer to pave at an expenditure of from $20,000 to $30,000 on the part of the company, comes merely from the desire of the management to see Camp Hill improved and to do its share in that direction.

GERMANY WILL BE ABLE TO... HOLD OUT UNTIL END OF WAR

London, June 18., 3:55 a. m.—According to the Times an important debate on trade subjects and the maintenance of important industries during the war occurred in the budget committee of the Prussian Diet Monday. All the published reports of the proceedings were carefully edited but it is stated that Deputy Hirsch, who is reporter to this committee, said that although trade was not brilliant, Germany could certainly, if the present state of affairs was maintained, hold out economically, whatever the duration of the war might be.

FIND TRUE BILL IN BURNED BOY SUIT

Among the weary little witnesses that created a lot of sympathy about the courthouse to-day was youthful Paul Erb, who reclined in an invalid's chair. It is the boy who, about a year ago, was seriously burned when another lad placed a lot of lighted fire crackers in his pocket. The boy was visiting at the home of Joseph and Annie Albitz, in the upper end of the county, at the time and the boys, it is charged, furnished him liquor. The June grand jury to-day found a true bill against the Albitzes on a charge of furnishing liquor to minors and without license.

Declares Passage Was Secured For Only One Man

Burlington, Vt., June 18.—Dr. Anton H. Appelmann, German exchange professor at the University of Vermont, in a signed statement to the Burlington Free Press says:

"I want to refute the charge published in many papers that the German embassy by securing safe passage for a personal envoy of the German ambassador had sent out two men, one by the name of Dr. A. Meyer and the other by the name of Dr. A. Gerhard. This is not true. For one man only passage was secured. One man only sailed and his name is Dr. Anton Meyer-Gerhard. This is the full and real name of only one man. I know from my acquaintance with him and from our correspondence (at any one's disposal), in which he has always signed himself in full."
