20,000 Men Will Make New Ford Auto Tractor

Detroit, Mich., June 19.—In an interview today Henry Ford confirmed the report that he had invented an auto-tractor, that he had purchased thousands of acres of land near his home at Dearborn, Mich., and that he would begin the manufacture of tractors within two years. He plans ultimately to employ 20,000 men in this industry. His tractor is the result of 24 years of work. The solution of the problem was in sight when the engine for the Ford car was perfected. "What this machine will do that is of world-wide importance," he said, "is to keep young men on the farm. It will reduce the cost of tilling the soil by one-half or one-third and it will produce food in abundance for an increased population. It will make work, lots of work. It will take ten years to develop this suburban plant to its highest state of efficiency. It is my plan to make all my motors and tractors, and finally the tractors and the motor cars. In fact, all the iron work will be done here. I expect to plant the factory on 600 acres.

JITNEY'S FUTURE UP TO SERVICE BODY

Commission Will Likely Devote Part of August to Public Hearing

The proposition of how to regulate the jitneys was put up to the Public Service Commission late yesterday afternoon and will occupy considerable attention of the commission for weeks to come. The question has so many angles that it is likely that the commission will devote some time in August to a general hearing in order to get the views of all concerned and to determine the measure of service the jitneys are rendering the public and how far the investors in street railway companies are entitled to protection. The proposition, which has been before the commission in the shape of a protest against the incorporation of the Jitney Service company, of Williamsport, suddenly assume State-wide importance last night. It was precipitated by H. E. Gill, a Philadelphia lawyer, who is counsel for the Pennsylvania Street Railway association. He presented a petition asking the commission to issue an order to the effect that no jitney can be operated either by a person or a company, until he receives a certificate of public convenience from the commission authorizing him, or it, so to do and by said order forbid the rendering of service until the jitney operator shall have filed and posted their tariffs and schedules in accordance with the provisions of the Public Service Commission Law. The petition further requests that all such operators shall file with the Commission a bond in the sum of not less than $5,000.00 for each vehicle conditioned for the payment of all damages that may be recovered against such operator by reason of the operation of such vehicle, and that said operator shall give continuous service between hours specified and over certain specified routes, and make such other reasonable regulations as to the Commission may seem proper.

Held Under Adjudgment

The Commission held this application under adjudgment. Commissioner Alney remarked that if the Jitney operators deem themselves common carriers they ought to file and post the tariffs required. The Pennsylvania Street Railway Association operates street railways representing 3,383 miles, and the property owned by them is represented by their capital stock and bonded indebtedness of $28,514,194. These properties constitute 74.5 per cent of the total street mileage of railways and the investment represents $1.5 per cent of the total investment in street railways in Pennsylvania. In the Williamsport case, C. E. Hewitt, manager of the Jitney line furnished figures tending to show that his company is prosperous. On an investment of $1,000 the total receipts are $600 a week. The gross receipts from each car are $13 a day, and it costs $8 per day per car to operate, or 4 cents per mile for each Jitney.

JESS WILLARD WILL MEET JIM COFFEY

It Is Likely Fight Will Take Place at Brighton Beach on Labor Day

Special to The Telegraph New York, June 19.—It is almost a settled fact that Jess Willard and "Jim" Coffey are to meet in a 10-round argument at the Brighton Beach arena on Labor Day. The horde of managers and promoters entangled in guiding Willard's affairs have been dickered with Promoter Harry Pollok and Coffey's manager, Billy Gibson, and have about agreed on terms. Coffey is recuperating following his hand-lusting contest with "Jim" Flynn and it is understood he won't battle before Labor Day.
