"I Would Be a Murderer If I Allowed This Man to Hang," Says Governor

Atlanta, Ga., June 21.—Leo M. Frank's death sentence was commuted to life imprisonment to-day by Governor Slayton.

Announcement of the Governor's decision came several hours after Frank had been secretly taken from the jail and hurried to the State prison farm at Milledgeville.

Frank was sentenced to be hanged here to-morrow for the murder of Mary Phagan in April, 1913.

Governor Slayton was completing a long statement giving his reasons for his actions, and this he said, would be made public later.

When early reports that Frank's sentence had been commuted began to circulate crowds began to gather on the principal downtown corners.

A FRIEND WHO WAS A FRIEND

When Steelton Man's Wife Wrote Letters to Him, He Turned Them Over to Husband

The story of a pretty woman's intrigue to form the inevitable triangle, the testing of the husband's "friend," how the friend stood the test and shattered the one side of the triangle that was never really formed—these were only a few of the highlights of the case that defied Judge McCarrell's court during the June session of desecration court this morning when Sevastia Evonoff brought action against her husband Spiridon for nonsupport.

And a suggestion of the distant shadows of the throne of Bulgaria added its touch to the story.

According to Spiridon he married Sevastia, one of the loveliest of the younger girls in Steelton's Bulgarian colony, on April 18.

But Milan didn't care a straw for the pretty wife of Spiridon—and he reminded Spiridon was his friend.

EMPEROR WILLIAM TAKES COMMAND OF FORCES NEAR GALICIAN CAPITAL

London, June 21, 12:58 P. Some of the claims put forward by the Germans and Austrians of decisive results are still to be substantiated, but there is no question that they have won new victories both west and north of the Galician capital.
