Before an audience which filled the Technical High School Auditorium, the members of the class of 1915 of the Harrisburg Conservatory of Music creditably demonstrated the results of serious application in the study of music.

From the first number of the program the "Theme and Variations" of Taner, played with the necessary delicacy of touch by Miss Fannie Willams, to the last selection, Liszis "Second Rhapsody," in which the youngest member of the class, Miss Lucretia Boyd, displayed an exceptionally clear technique, the interest of the listeners showed itself in enthusiastic applause.

Miss Lulu Allen, Miss Alice Decevee and Harry Trawitz showed unusual planistic ability. Saint Saens "Fantaste Caprice" for violin was given with excellent tone and a command of the most difficult technical passages worthy of a professional.

Mrs. Roy G. Cox sang delightfully, accompanied by Miss Ruth Conkling.

The Rev. Henry W. A. Hanson, of Messiah Lutheran Church, in his address made an appeal for higher ideals in this commercial age, especially in the sphere of music, that art which has done so much to elevate the thought of mankind.

After the address Mr. Decevee, the director, presented the diplomas to the graduates.
