OMNINOUS WORDS TO DAVID FULFILLED

King Who Had Sown the Wind of Sin, Reaps the Whirlwind of Sorrow

SUFFERED DOUBLE BITTERNESS

The International Sunday School Lesson For July 4 Is Absalom's Failure (By William T. Ellis.)

A curious notion prevails that "summer literature" should be light and exciting. The latter condition is certainly fulfilled by the great story that is crowded into the nine chapters of the Second Book of Samuel, which tell of the experiences of David after the Prophet Nathan had accused him. "Thou art the man," all the elements of a great romance are here, even to the aspects of the modern novel. The tale is one of adventure and intrigue crowded with plots and conspiracies, with villains and heroes. It is a narrative as unlike usual dry history as a novel is unlike a problem in geometry. Every line is crowded with human interest.

The study is one in royal retribution. We find the king who had sown the wind of sin, reaping the whirlwind of sorrow. The ominous words of the man of God to David were terribly fulfilled: "Wherefore hast thou despised the word of Jehovah, to do that which is evil in His sight? Thou hast smitten Uriah the Hittite with the sword, and hast taken his wife to be thy wife. Thou shalt never depart from thy house, because thou hast despised me, and hast taken the wife of Uriah, the Hittite to be thy wife. Thus saith Jehovah, Behold, I will raise up evil against thee out of thine own house." The double distilled bitterness of seeing his own sons share his traits had to be drunk to the dregs by heart-broken David. The sword remained in his house until he ended his career in sorrow. Verily "There is a man, but the end thereof are the ways of death."

Our Day's Crop of Absaloms The classmate of a certain notorious murderer, whose wealth has enabled him to make the process of justice a travesty and an international scandal, once said in my hearing, "He was simply a selfish and spoiled boy. He had his own way in all things. Anybody who is allowed to do as he pleases throughout youth, is bound to become a menace to society." The modern instance parallels the case of Absalom, King David's son, who was a spoiled boy. His youth of self-indulgence bore its natural fruit of rebellion and anarchy.

Some of us who are not old fogies yet in real alarm these products of the manicure tables, the barber shops and the tailors. Like Absalom, they are giving more thought to their hair than to their heads. Their personal appearance plays an ever larger part in their thinking and in their expenditures. "Now in all Israel there was none to be so much praised as Absalom for his beauty; from the sole of his foot even to the crown of his head there was no blemish in him"; all his blemishes were wisdom, and they were abundant. So simple as scarcely to need saying, runs the profound truth that as the youth is trained or untrained, the man will behave. Our land has no greater problem than that of disciplining its boys and young men into noble manhood. This is one of the chief merits of modern athletics; they discipline the mind as well as the body.

A Pop Without Principles There seem to have been none of the candid and simple virtues of the old order, and the principles that make for real manhood. When forgiven by his father for the cowardly assassination of his brother, and restored to Jerusalem, he spent four years in healing the wounds of the men of Israel. If one wants a picture of the wiles of the modern politician, he has but to read the story of Absalom, who was unduly influenced by his father's influence, and prepared the way for his own rebellion.

Fresh Beef Attracts Wildcats to Freight Car Near Millerstown Attracted by the odor of two cars of fresh beef, a mother wildcat with her two kittens held a fast freight on the main line of the Pennsylvania railroad near Millerstown for more than an hour yesterday while members of the crew went to the rescue of a fellow-trainman who was marooned on top of one of the cars. The train of locomotive No. 3427 parted between the cars when a couple pulled out "Jack" Weaver, of this city, left the caboose and went forward to see what was the matter. He found the bobcats in charge. They set up a hideous howling and caused the conductor to take refuge on the top of a car. He was finally rescued by Brakemen H. A. Hohenfelt and E. S. Eckelberger, who threw stones, ballast and their brake clubs at the cats.

VICTIMS OF RHEUMATISM H. C. Kennedy's No-Cure No-Pay Offer Attracts Many Sufferers to Test Rheuma

If Rheuma, the wonderful prescription for rheumatism sold by H. C. Kennedy and all druggists, does not cure any purchaser, the druggist will return your money without any red tape. Rheumatism is a dangerous disease; because of its shifting nature it often strikes the heart and proves fatal. Any one with even a taint of rheumatism ought to drive it out as soon as possible. Rheumatism is caused by sluggish, worn-out or over-worked kidneys, which become clogged and fail to eliminate the impurities from the system. Rheuma acts promptly and directly upon the kidneys; it cleanses them; it absolutely renovates and leaves them in perfect condition, able to do the work nature intended they should do, 50 cents a bottle.—Advertisement.
