camp yesterday viewed the river situation to-day.

True, the waters have been rising a little, but it will have to go 'way, 'way up before the life guards and Miss Ruth Little and the others who have, charge of the camp need think about leaving the island. Besides that, every possible precaution has been taken by the park officials—even to placing a ban on swinming just now. That's the only reason why the girls hope the river will soon get back to normal.

ever.
Mrs. Forney signed the statement with her maiden name, Florence Schneider.
"The statement attributed to Tom Forney that he has received a letter from me is false," Mrs. Forney says in her statement. "I repudiate his name. I am too loyal to my father."
Members of the Schneider family put no faith in the theory that Forney is of unsound mind. They believe that his alleged attack on Mr. Schneider was the result of a plot conceived many months ago.

Commissioner Taylor Tells Parents Show Gains of From One to Will Co-operate Wherever Possible in Development of Capitol Park Zone

> Pending the final landscape treatment of the Capitol Park extension zone, the City Planning Commission will doubtless co-operate with the State authorities in making such tentative plans as will assure the best possible treatment of that important dis-trict. Governor Brumbaugh is understood to be deeply interested in the working out of a dignified landscape design and it is probable distinguished landscape architects will be invited to study the problem and submit sugges-tions.

It is not unlikely that Seventh street, which now stops abruptly at North street, will be extended through the Capitol Park area to Walnut street. This arrangement would contemplate a broad subway under the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks at State street. It is also quite probable that both North and Walnut streets from Third street to the railroad will be extended to a width of at least eighty feet. As yet no real plan has been evolved, but as soon as possible a decision upon the final treatment will be reached.

Little Old Gravestone in the Path of New Driveway

On the slope of the old "Potter's Field" that overlooks what will eventually be the new extension of the Cameron parkway drive, is a single little gravestone—very gray and cracked with the rains and snows of many and many a winter. The inscription is blurred.

Who lies beneath it, what story is buried in the lonesome grave, only the years could tell. And they're past.

Wife Go on Witness Stand Malone, N. Y., July 9.—Evelyn Nesbit Thaw remained abed to-day on advice of her physician, Dr. McGibbon, of Chateaugay Lake. It was regarded as unlikely that he would sanction her going to New York to testify in the jury proceedings to determine the mental state of her husband, Harry K. Thaw.

Representatives of the aftorney general, who arrived here yesterday with a body attachment for her, remained at Chateaugay.

New York, July 9 .- Mr. Cook began New York, July 9.—Mr. Cook began his questioning to-day by asking Thaw whether he believed himself to have been insane at the time he killed Stanford White.

"That," said the witness, "is a question that cannot be answered by one word. The question came up and the jury gave me the benefit of the doubt. In effect they evidently believed there might have been a chance that my reason was not all that it should be." In testifying Thaw spoke very quietly.
