Attorney General's Department Gives Opinion Regarding Jail Terms For Violators

County commissioners have no authority to order release from prison of men sentenced to serve time for failure to pay fines for violation of the State's game laws, a coording to an opinion given to the State's game laws, a cording to an opinion given to the State Game Commission by Deputy. For some time past complaints have been made that county commissioners have been discharging, under acts relating to debtors, persons who have been committed to prison in default of fine, it being the rule that they shall serve one day for each dollar of fine they fail to pay. It is held that county commissioners cannot interfere with such sentences, the only authority to do so being vested in the courts, and then only in certain procedure.

The opinion further says that the action of any sheriff in releasing a prisoner without an order of court and before has served the sentence renders the sheriff and his sureties liable for the amount of the fine. The Game Commissioners are advised to notify the sheriffs that in event of illegal dis-
