PARKWAY ON JULY 24

Splendid Drive From Cameron St. to Reservoir Ready by Fall

HOW ROAD WILL WIND ALONG JUDGE

Biggest Features to Park Department Administration

By the time the trees are turning to wave a gold and scarlet good-by to summer this Fall, Harrisburg's new parkway drive from the present terminus of the Cameron section to Reservoir park will be passable for travel as bids for the new stretch will be opened by City Commissioner M. Harvey Taylor at noon Saturday, July 24.

travel as bids for the new stretch white be opened by City Commissioner M. Harvey Taylor at noon Saturday, July 24.

Just when the roadway must be completed will be set forth in the specifications, but it was said at the park superintendent's offices to-day that the new drive will be finished sufficiently to permit of travel if not entirely completed, by early Fall, probably by the beginning or the middle of October.

When finished the driveway will allow one to turn into the Cameron parkway at Cameron street, swing through that section, cross the old poorhouse road, climb an easy hill to the poor farm, wind, past the old "Potter's Field," the Paxtang dam, skirt the edges of Paxtang Park, swing through the subway to Derry street, cross that newly paved highway to the valley of Spring Creek, continue past the Paxtang cemetery and after a very beautiful drive through the wooded valley, swing out to the open country that will eventually end at Reservoir park. In time a subway it is hoped will be built under the Philadelphia and Reading tracks.

The bids will be asked for in two sections, one to comprise the road from the present terminus of Cameron's to the P. and R. tracks, the other extending from Derry street to Reservoir. Specifications can be had at the park office on July 19.

The proposed parkway will be one of the biggest jobs of park development completed under Park Commissioner Taylor's administration, The whole project which involved negotiations with some fifteen estates was begun in 1902. One of the chief obstacles was the acquiring of the land. Most if the roadway will be twenty-four feet wide and will be of the natural material encountered enroute, principally clay. Pleasure vehicles, such as automobiles, carriages, etc., only will be permitted to use it as it will not be broad enough for general traffic usage.
