CHOICE OF WISDOM MADE KING SOLOMON

Lesson Comes Opportunely When Hundreds of College Men Are Ready to Start Out in Life.

The International Sunday School Lesson For July 18 is "Solomon Chooses Wisdom."—I Kings 3:1-15. (By William T. Ellis)

The choice that one man made, and how that choice made him, is opportunely studied at a time when thousands of young people have finished their formal education, and are trying to decide their life work. An impressive fact is that most students leave college and high school without having their vocations determined. I am writing this lesson under the trees at a great students' conference, where several hundred young men are met with this issue paramount. The occasion is impressive and even tragic. At the chivalrous age, equipped for service these young men are eager to choose the best. Dimly they sense the truth that this time of decision will have consequences not only for themselves, but also for their families and to their posterity. The most momentous choice of life and death is given that at a basis for their lives. So these students through the platform meetings, the group conferences and classes, and keep wholly occupied the time of the older men who are here for individual interviews. Solomon's problem is the problem of myriads of other young men every year.

In the shop talk of this student conference, the speaker made the "fundamental decision." He elected "an understanding heart," or, as one version has it, pictorially, "a hearing heart." Given that an understanding heart, the matters would naturally settle themselves. These students who are not certain whether they should be farmers or preachers, or engineers or missionaries or lawyers or Young Men's Christian Association secretaries or businessmen, are called upon by their leaders first of all to settle whether they are willing to do the will of God for their lives, if they can ascertain it. After they have come to the point of being willing to go anywhere and do anything that God wants of them, then the more detailed decision as to a life work becomes simple.

Solomon's choice showed that he already had the thing he asked for. Wisdom is not to be chosen by a wise person perceives that to put life into right relationship with God is the matter of supreme importance. That was what Solomon did, and it was the "fundamental decision."

Choosing a Long Path

Bishop McDowell spoke sagely, the other day, at a meeting of the Young Men's Guild at twilight in the "lifework meeting," when he bade them remember that it takes a great while to satisfy a man through a long life. What is interesting for a year may be inadequate for fifty years. Life's choice should be of that which will not be outgrown easily, and which he envisions in it to satisfy the ripe judgment of age as well as the ardor of youth. Pity the people who have grown tired of their life, as children of toys. The earliest with its pleasures is perhaps the saddest fact about society. We choose after the Solomon fashion when we select the qualities and the career which will not be outgrown in the use.

An old fashion, about which one does not hear so much, nowadays, was for parents to dedicate their children in infancy to some high calling, as the ministry of religion. That solemn purpose hovered over the child's life imparting a sense of definiteness and sacredness and purpose to all his years. It spoke to youth of the supremacy of ideals. Life has great goals. A child is never too young to get this idea of being in the world for some holy object. The tale of the table should often center about the ideals of character and service. A building principle is that laid down by the late William C. Russell, "There is one thing greater than making a living, and that is making a life."

Life is not to be happened upon, to be met as a chance adventure. Purpose alone prevails in true living. Choices, which make us as we make them, are inevitable along the years. Sometime, somehow, somewhere, God comes to every soul and calls for a decision, which will determine the long path that is to be followed in the journey of life. At least once in his experience, every young man must sit in Solomon's seat.

"Our lives are songs; God writes the words. And we set them to music at pleasure; And the song grows glad, or sweet, or sad. As we choose to fashion the measure. We must write the music, whatever the tuning."

Whatever its rhyme or meter; And if it be sad, we can make it glad. Or if sweet, we can make it sweeter."

When a Man Feels Small Norman fishermen cry, "O God, New York City.

New York's "White Way" Drinkers Now Favor Milk

New York, July 16.—Following the announcement that the number of saloon licenses has greatly decreased comes the information from the health department that the amount of milk used in New York city has increased 50 per cent. within the last ten years. The average daily receipts of milk in New York city in 1914 were 2,541,280 quarts, which, with a population of 5,500,000, gives an average daily per capita allowance of more than three gills. When a man drinks three gills of milk a day the "back-to-the-farm" movement is obviously on the rise. Fully a gill of that is not water.

SPANGLER FAMILY REUNION

Special to The Telegraph
 Marietta, July 16.—A reunion of the Spanglers of York and Lancaster counties was held to-day at Chickies Park. This was the annual outing of the families, and four generations were represented at the gathering. Harry Spangler, of Marietta, 91 years old, was the oldest person present.

Hair Under Arms

Saturate the hair thoroughly with El-Rado, the sanitary, colorless liquid, wait a moment or two, then wash off with a little plain water. Every trace of hair will have vanished, leaving the skin as white and smooth as before. Drug stores and toilet counters sell El-Rado, 50c and $1.00. Money back if not satisfied. We will gladly fill your order by mail direct, in plain wrapper, if you will write enclosing stamps or coin. For free booklet, full information and letters of prominent users, send a postal. heart. It takes wisdom from above to keep a man safe in high place.

Wisdom is a gift, as well as an acquisition. It comes down from above, as one of the bounties of God. "If any of you lack wisdom," says St. James, "let him ask of God, who giveth to all men liberally, and upbraideth not, and it shall be given him." This kept his feet walk straight. God-guided men go far. In the really great crisis of public affairs, it is the spiritually-minded men who are trusted in leadership. Rulers, who are led of God, alone can lead the people. Americans have been grateful for a devout President in this world emergency, even as Canadians appreciate a God-fearing king and queen.

Best Plus Second Best

A newspaper man, starting on a round-the-world journalistic mission, was told by Dr. Henry van Dyke, "You will find that, as a by-product of your trip, you will see more sights than you can see in any other part of the world." The man who goes around the world, incidentally and unintentionally, give you more of what are commonly esteemed the rewards of travel than travelers ever get by seeking them." And so it proved. A great purpose draws it, in their natural order and proportion, those pleasures of life which, when directly pursued elude the grasp. Solomon sought wisdom—and found riches and power and fame and long life as a by-product. As pleasure comes at its best to others than the pleasure-seekers; as fame seeks out those who are too busy to seek it; as power attaches itself to those who have greater goals than power, so all manner of earthly magnificence came to the king who sought first and foremost an understanding heart, and the favor of God. The heart of the lesson is in those words of a Greater than Solomon, "Seek ye first the kingdom of God and His righteousness and all these things shall be added unto you."

Foolishness in High Places

Talk at breakfast fell upon the folly of various men in high places; and the group of men from different parts of the country contributed stories of present-day public men who could not stand the test of great position. This man is a prey to drink; this one is losing his throne through vanity; this other has lost his sense of proportions and relative values; this one has yielded to a spirit of revenge. All seemed to be current comments upon Solomon's wisdom, who chose as the supreme gift of God, an understanding

SUPERIOR COURT JUDGES BOOMED

Forty-one Counties Have Endorsed Judges Orlady and Head For Nomination

Judges George B. Orlady of Huntingdon and John B. Head of Greensburg, this Fall will ask the voters of Pennsylvania to re-elect them to the Superior Court bench. Mr. Orlady has served since the organization of the court in 1885, and Mr. Head is just completing a 10-year term. Judge Charles E. Rice of Wilkes-Barre, whose term also expires in January, has announced his intention to retire. The bench and bar of the State has generally indicated their desire to have Judges Orlady and Head remain as members of the court, and regret is generally heard among lawyers that Judge Rice will not reconsider his decision to retire. Several candidates are appearing for the Rice vacancy, but there does not appear to be any disposition to oppose Judges Orlady and Head. Forty-one of the 67 bar associations of the State have endorsed the candidacies of Judges Orlady and Head. The counties adopting resolutions follow: Armstrong, Blair, Butler, Cambria, Carbon, Center, Chester, Clarion, Clearfield, Clinton, Columbia, Crawford, Cumberland, Delaware, Erie, Fayette, Franklin, Fulton, Greene, Huntingdon, Indiana, Lackawanna, Lebanon, Luzerne, Lycoming, Montgomery, Monroe, Northampton, Northumberland, Philadelphia, Somerset, Schuylkill, Snyder, Susquehanna, Tioga, Washington, Warren, Westmoreland and York.

Chamnde Quartet Gives Concert at Mount Gettna

Special to The Telegraph
 Mount Gettna, Pa., July 16.—Another large picnic from Lancaster spent the day in the grove. Mrs. Milton Knoderer spent the day at Harrisburg and Steelton. Miss Edna Bowers returned to her home in Harrisburg after spending the week at the Bonnie Wee Ingle cottage in the camping grounds. Miss Lottie R. Haeblen, of Harrisburg, left for California after spending several days with Mrs. Annie Davis at the Seven Gables. Mr. and Mrs. William Schell, of Harrisburg, motored to the grove yesterday. Miss Katherine B. Drawbaugh, of Harrisburg, is spending several days here. Miss Florence Mason, of New York, is the guest of Mrs. Annie Davis at the Seven Gables. The Chamnde Quartet gave a concert yesterday afternoon in the chaucataus auditorium. Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Harnish, of Lancaster, were guests of Mrs. Anna Bacon at the Pilgrim cottage. Mrs. Robert Welsh and children, John and Mary Walsh, and Miss Anna Templar, of Harrisburg, are guests of Mrs. G. M. Stoll at the Brunswick cottage. Mrs. Edward E. Beldeman and daughter Katherine have opened their cottage, the Evergreen, in the chaucataus grounds. Mrs. Luther Bowman and daughter, Anna May, of Harrisburg, will spend some time in the grove. Miss Vera Godding, of Harrisburg, is spending several days here. BUYING HORSES FOR WAR. Columbia, Pa., July 16.—Large purchases of horses in this county for use in the European war has caused a boom in the automobile business. Farmers who disposed of their horses at good prices are buying automobiles to take their places. At a recent county church service in a small village not less than a dozen farmers conveyed their families in these machines.
