NEW INSURANCE PLAN

Official Depository Will Be Chosen For Fund of $300,000 Set Aside by Legislature

Establishment of the State workthe nucleus of the State insurance for the workmen's compensation system, will be completed before the end of this month and an official depository will be designated. The last Legislature appropriated $300,000 for the start of the fund and it will be increased by the sums to be paid by en ployers for the purpose of insuring their employes under the provisions of the new workmen's compensation law This State fund is to be handled without liability on the part of the State which makes an appropriation to inwhich makes an appropriation to inaugurate the system. The employers who desire to go into the fund are to pay premiums according to a schedule of premiums made according to the risk of injury in the business.

The State Treasurer is to be the custodian of the fund and he will invest the moneys paid to the credit of the fund. The premiums, are to be paid under a schedule to be issued by October 1 annually and 5 per cent. will be set aside for creation of a surplus.
The fund is to be directed by a board consisting of the Commissioner of Labor and Industry, State Insurance Commissioner and State Treasurer, with the Attorney General as counsel, and the board may name a manager at $7.500 a year and other officers. The fund is expected to be started early in the Fall and the first steps for the work are now being taken by the Insurance Department officials.

May Advocate Military Training in High Schools

Hudson Maxim, who will address the members of the Harrisburg Chamber of Commerce at a luncheon meeting Thursday noon is conceded to be one of the men who will act with Thomas A. Edison on the Inventions Board, created by the Navy Department, to investigate the feasibility of new inventions that can be used to increase the strength of the navy.

Mr. Maxim's idea, and the one he will probably advance at Thursday's meeting is, that at present the United States has neither the shipbuilding, gun and armor building, nor small arms and ammunition plants, necessary to arm the nation against a first class power.

The question as to whether military sary to arm to class power.

The question as to whether military training should not be added to the High school courses in Harrisburg may be advocated by the Chamber of

The young man in the far corner of the room had to steady himself ex-ceedingly not to betray his surprise. The room on the other side of the wall was as softly lighted as was the room in which he sat-but it was busy in there, without the subdued restraint of the dining room. The smoke of innumerable cigars and cigarettes made a foggy haze through which was distinguished a high chair on which a man sat spinning a softly running wheel. Around him, with tense, eager faces stood a group of tense, eager faces stood a group of men and women in evening dress watching with fascinating eyes the swiftly rolling ball. At a low table in the foreground stood a group of men excitedly watching a man in an enormous cravat and gartered shirt sleeves shaking a leather cup out of which rolled clicking transparent dice. At another table, a little off to the side of the one used for dicing, stood another group watching a cadaverous, nervous looking man anxiously turning up cards and placing them in a long horizontal line in front of him. All this the young man at the table saw at a glance, indistinctly yet comprehensively—saw the young man of the tiny eyes, and the dancing girl, met by a tall stoop-shouldered man of about thirty, who after a few words from the girl and a mute, expressive glance, grasped the young man cordially by the hand and led him toward that high-stooled chair on which the man sat monotonously spinning the man sat monotonously spinning the wheel. The girl stepped back into the dining room, the panel slid noise-lessly into its place and all was as be-

But now some of the diners had arisen and the panel began an endless sliding to and fro as they went to join those in the smoke hazy room be-bankers are hard pushed. It seems as though luck is with the players tonight. Would you like to try?"

"I don't feel I should win tonight," he answered, laughingly. "And," his lips tightened over his slightly parted teeth, "I like to win. I like to clean up. I'll enter the game some other night," he said, a smile turning the corners of his mouth. "I shall come again, probably very soon."

"Oh, just as you wish—only I thought you might like to try your luck," she persisted.

"I shall come soon, and when I do, I guarantee you I'll make a clean sweep of it."

"Yes, of course," she said wearily. She had heard that tone of surety many times before.

He rose and she followed.

"Good night," she said, smiling.

"Good night."

He took his things from the waiter, and as he started to go turned and said. "I shall see you again."

get a rake-off. But, I'll start from the beginning so's you'll get it straight.

"I was down to a social welfare meeting last night and walked east through Delvin Street for a car. I was about midway between Bradley and Histon streets when my attention was attracted by a limousine that drew up to the curb about 30 feet ahead of me. It stopped before a low brick structure that looked as it it might have been used as a private warehouse. There were no steps—no areaway—just an unremarkable old door as an entrance with No. 59 painted on it in letters half washed out by the rain. Two richly dressed people—a man and a woman, alighted from the car. The man gave his chausfeur a quick order. The car sped away, and the two started for that door. There was a big squinty-eyed rough lounging outside it who seemed to know the people, for he smiled and saluted as they passed in. I had slacked up my pace considerably in watching them, and arrived at the door just after they had gone in. There seemed to be something very queer about the whole thing—the automobile, well dressed people—the lookout and the old warehouse building, so I decided to take a peek for myself, and walked toward the door as though I had it for my destination. The big rough became suddenly very alert, and, walking toward me, shoved his face close up to mine in an effort at recognition. He looked doubtful and I decided to bluff it out. I waved my hand toward the door and raised my eyebrows as though surprised at being stopped.

Your "Country" Is Calling You

THE real country on the outskirts of the city beckons you to come and enjoy the bounties of nature. The peace and quietude of suburban life with its many healthful and economical advantages invites you to invest in a garden plot within easy riding distance from your office, business or workshop. About forty per cent. of New York City's population get out every evening to their suburban homes where they may enjoy greater comfort.

Thousands of those who contribute toward Harrisburg's commercial and industrial success are doing likewise. What comfort is there living in a brick row where you cannot talk above a whisper for fear of your neighbors knowing all your personal affairs?

Have a suburban home of your own. Get as big a slice of the earth as you can while you live, so you may live right while you're on earth.

Keep Your Eye On Your Target

Aim straight for your target and let your aim be for a suburban home where you may enjoy all the comforts, the beauty and wealth of nature. Aim to get away from the heat, the smoke and the noise of congested city life. Aim to get free from the landlord's tribute and be King of Your Own Domain.

It's Easy to Get What You Aim For

IN THE SUBURBS

"Park Place" is the newest and among the best sub-divisions near Harrisburg. Desirably located along the Linglestown trolley and the newly improved State highway, and close to the Colonial Country Club and the many beautiful bungalows of the popular Jonestown road. We want you to see the many advantages of Park Place Friday afternoon or Saturday, July 23 and 24.

Most of Them All Right, but Others Are Sent to State Chemist For Examination

Seventy-five samples of breakfast oods taken in half as many counties throughout the State by agents of the Dairy and Food Division have been Dairy and Food Division have been sent to State College laboratories for tests to see if they are as represented and if the dealers have taken precautions to keep them free from vermin. Some time ago notice was given by the commissioner that his agents would take samples to see if the foods were being kept free from vermin and whether they were fit to eat.

Scores of samples were taken and found to be all right as far as freedom from vermin or dampness went, but there were others which were suspicious and which have gone to the chemists for analysis.

Remington shops and in the factories of subcontractors will be at a standstill. There are from eight to ten thousand persons employed by the Remington company and it is estimated that including other local factories, 25,000 or more would be thrown out of work.

In addition to the new plant of the Remington Arms and Munition Company's strike calls were to-day issued for the machinjsts working in the Bridgeport Engineering Company, the Columbia Nut and Bolt Company and the Caynor Manufacturing Company. The men were to walk out at noon.

Workmen at Standard Oil Company's Plant Strike

New York, July 20.—Virtually every workman employed by the Standard Oil Company, about 5,000, at its Constable Hook plant, in Bayonne, went on strike to-day. At the adjoining tidewater oil plant the men are still at work, but they are said to be restless. If they strike, the entire production of oils and gasoline and naptha as well as the byproducts will stop.

There was some disorder at the Standard Oil plant this morning when a few of the men insisted upon going to work. The police made six arrests.
