AMUSEMENTS

THE UNAFRAID AT THE REGENT TODAY AND TOMORROW

Jesse L. Lasky presents the picture-ization of Rita Jolivet in "The Unafraid," with House Peters, at the Regent to-day and to-morrow. It is the story of an American girl who runs away from her guardians to marry a Montenegrin nobleman, and who, on arriving in Montenegro, is immediately kidnapped by the brother of her fiancé.

FRIDAY—ONE DAY ONLY—C. Aubrey Smith in Alfred Sutros plays "The Builder of Bridges," with Marie Edith Wells.

PAKTANG PARK VAUDEVILLE

ter this week is one of those classy performances that one seldom sees in anything but the best of vaudeville houses. The "Colonial Girls" head the bill with a singing act that is a genuine treat to those who appreciate good voices.

Arrangements for the fireworks display, on Thursday evening, are being made and from the amount of material already received and the number of frames for set pieces that the park employes are making, it looks as though Manager Davis intended to make good his word and put on the biggest display of the season to-morrow evening.

THE GODDESS AT THE VICTORIA TODAY

To-day's offering is that popular and interesting social picture story founded upon a very unique idea, that of redeeming the world or reshaping the people's habits and ways of living by appealing to their better or kinder nature and living a thoroughly righteous life. Every instalment of this wonderful picture becomes more and more and asked the editors to assist him. Many suggestions were made and the Governor selected those who appeared to be the most favored.

The Governor's Letter
In his letter the Governor said: "I have the honor to inform you that, through the assistance of the leading newspapers of the State of Pennsylvania, three of her most prominent citizens, in the order mentioned, have been chosen. The person designated by the Governor as the greatest Pennsylvanian—as requested by you—is Dr. John A. Brashear, of Pittsburgh, distinguished as a constructive scientist, widely learned, philanthropic, modest and capable and of excellent character—an ideal citizen. The second choice is the Hon. John Wanamaker and the third Dr. Russell H. Conwell, both of Philadelphia."

LANCASTER COUNTY DEATHS

Robersstown. — Eli Doll, aged 74, died yesterday. For the past ten years he was a mail carrier between the station and the post office. His widow, a stepdaughter and a number of brothers and sisters survive.

Mountville. — John M. Weller, aged 94, the oldest man in this section of Lancaster county, died yesterday. He was a retired shoe manufacturer, and made shoes for soldiers during the Civil and Spanish-American wars. His wife, who is 90 years old, is his only survivor.

upon him by famous universities and the fellowships he holds in the foremost scientific societies in the world entitle him to string so many letters after his name that it would require several lines of newspaper type to enumerate them all. He began life with a common school education and learned the machinist trade. He continues the manufacture of astronomical and physical instruments and is acting director of the Allegheny observatory. His home is at 154 Perryville avenue, Pittsburgh.

John Wanamaker

John Wanamaker, who changed the current of retail merchandising in this country, was born in Philadelphia, July 11, 1838. Although he is several times a millionaire now, he also began life in a very humble way. His first employment was as an errand boy in a book store at the age of 14. In spite of the magnitude of his business interests he has found time to be active in politics as an Independent Republican and was Postmaster General in the Cabinet of President Harrison. He takes great interest in religious work and long has been superintendent of the Sunday school of Bethany Presby-terian Church, of Philadelphia, which is believed to be the largest Sunday school in the United States. He has also been a powerful factor in the development of Y. M. C. A. work in this country.

Dr. Conwell
Russell Herman Conwell is not a native of the state. He was born at Worthington, Mass., in 1842, and was educated in the law school of Yale University and the Albany Law School, but was not admitted to practice until after the Civil War, through which he entered, entering with the rank of captain and coming out with that of lieutenant-colonel. He began his law career at Minneapolis and in 1867 he was sent to Germany to represent the State of Minnesota as immigration agent. He remained abroad several years, acting as correspondent for the New York Tribune part of the time. On his return to this country he resumed the practice of his profession at Boston, but in 1879 he was ordained to the Baptist ministry at Lexington, Mass. He went to Philadelphia in the same year as pastor of Grace Church. In 1888 he founded Temple University, of which he has since been president. He is one of the most popular lecturers this country has ever developed and is the author of many successful books.
