Myersville, tearing through several rooms, ripping open the walls and stunning five members of the family. Some of the frakish things done by the bolt was to pick up a large nail from a table in the kitchen and drive it into the side of a cabinet up to the head; fill the pocket of Gernand's coat with pieces of broken glass and plaster; cause a box of matches to dis-appear from the cabinet and lift a pair of scissors from the table and de-posit them on top of the cabinet. The bolt hit a chinney, on the rear of the house and passing through an upper room, stunned three children, who were asleep, knocked them out of bed, meited the nickel-plating on a set of harness and tore through a door and down the wall into the kitchen, stunning Mrs. Gernand and Mrs. Harry Gernand from a chair, leaving him unconscious on the floor. Five of the family were speechless for some time and several rooms were wrecked.
