Investigating Case of Woman With Contagious Disease Taken Off Train

City health officers and the county poor directors are conducting an investigation to learn why Mrs. Louisa Barch, aged 53, was allowed to leave the Northumberland county almshouse while suffering from erysipelas, a contagious disease.

Mrs. Barch said that her home was in Piedmont, Mo., and that she was on her way there when detained in the railroad station in this city by the authorities. The State Department prohibited the woman from leaving the state and Dr. J. M. J. Bannick, city health officer, ordered her to be sent to the county almshouse.

At first it was thought that she was suffering from smallpox, but a physician conducted an examination and pronounced the disease erysipelas. Poor directors in this county say that this is not the only case that has recently been dumped upon them by other counties and that in this instance a rigid investigation will be conducted.

ROOSEVELT ATTACKS PRESENT POLICIES

not fit for citizenship." Before the address at the clubhouse he planted a poplar tree. He declared an effort was being made to make the United States another China.

Colonel Roosevelt was escorted from his hotel by a squadron of the First Cavalry and by various military and police officials. He was given a presidential salute of twenty-one guns by warships in the harbor.

For Universal Military Service "I firmly believe that there should be universal military service for our young men on the Swiss model," said the former President at one point in his speech.

At another, referring to the price which Belgium had paid because of her unpreparedness, he said: "Some day or other it may well be that we shall have to pay on a tenfold greater scale the same price for exactly the same reasons; and, if such should be the case, remember, my fellow-countrymen, that whereas the case of the Belgians excited warm sympathy, our misfortunes would excite nothing but scorn and contempt; for a rich, powerful, boastful people invites the ridicule of all mankind if, whether from sheer silliness and shortsightedness, or from soft timidity, or from gross and greedy devotion to the material benefits of the moment, it fails to prepare itself to defend its own rights with its own strength."

Colonel Roosevelt spoke derisively of "elocution as a substitute for action;" and in his arraignment of those who stood in the way of preparedness for war, he said the "professional pacifists, the peace-at-any-price, non-resistance, universal arbitration people are seeking to Chinafy this country—to reduce it to the level of impotence to which old China sank." The average Chinaman, he said, had taken the view that China was "too proud to fight," and "in practice made evident his hearty approval of that abject pacifist song, 'I Didn't Raise My Boy to be a Soldier.'"

Denounces Arbitration Treaties Colonel Roosevelt denounced the all-inclusive arbitration treaties which the United States had entered into and said that in declining to apply their principles in the case of the Lusitania there had been evidence of national hypocrisy or else an utter recklessness of folly in making promises.

The United States had treated the Hague conventions as mere "scraps of paper," he said, "when the demand was made to show that our signatures meant something."

Continuing, he declared: "Those men who, like myself, believe that the highest duty of this nation is to prepare itself against war, so that it may safely trust its honor and interests to its own strength, are advocating merely that we do as a nation regarding our general interests what we have already done in Panama. If, instead of acting as this nation did in the fall of 1902, we had confined ourselves to debates in Congress and diplomatic notes, if, in other words, we had treated elocution as a substitute for action, we would have done nobody any good, and for ourselves we would have earned the hearty derision of all other nations—the canal would not even have been begun at the present day, and there would have been a general consensus of international opinion to the effect that we were totally unfit to perform any of the duties of international life, especially in connection with the western hemisphere."

FIRE IN GROCERY STORE Fire at the grocery store of H. A. Hargrave, 1008 North Third street, early this morning caused damage amounting to $250. An alarm was sent in at 1.45. Mrs. Jacob Hess, who resides over the store, was taken out in safety. The fire was confined to the basement. Its origin is unknown.

AERIAL TORPEDOBOAT IS PLANNED FOR NAVY

passenger into the water just as it would have been launched from a destroyer. The impact sets the torpedo's machinery in motion and it is off at a speed of more than forty knots an hour toward the enemy ship.

Effective at 10,000 Yards Admiral Fiske believes that the flying torpedoboat would make it possible to attack a fleet even within a land locked harbor. The range of the newest navy torpedoes is ten thousand yards and the older types will be effective at seven thousand yards.

Carried on a huge aeroplane the 2,000 pound weapon would be taken over harbor defenses at an altitude safe from gun fire. Once over the bay, the machine would glide down to within ten or twenty feet of the water, the torpedo rudders would be set and it would be dropped to do its work while the aeroplane rose and sped away.

Aeroplanes to carry a ton of dead weight have been perfected by several countries. Russia is said to have several that will carry twenty men and the new British aircraft probably will have a similar capacity.

Use Radio Torpedo It is said to be possible that a type of radio controlled torpedo might be employed, one aeroplane carrying the torpedo and another the wireless machinery to control the missile's flight through the water. It is pointed out that Admiral Fiske secured patents on such a method of control in 1900 when he was a lieutenant commander in the navy. They are said to be so broad and far-reaching as to underlie all subsequent development of radio control devices.

"My invention," says the application filed by Admiral Fiske before the battle of Manila was fought, "is especially applicable to automobile torpedoes and makes it possible to control the movements of a torpedo with great certainty from a shore, from the deck of a ship or the like."

Since the aerial torpedo plan was advanced, reports have come that German engineers were at work with a somewhat similar scheme.
