Your Life

You have some conception of life.

Largely, that conception is moulded by the conditions to which you have become accustomed or by which you are surrounded.

For the greater part you have control over the conditions which mould your view of life, but too often you condemn the life, not the condit-

What your conception of life measures, is just

If your life is not as you would have it; the remedy is yours to apply. That remedy must be applied within yourself.

It must be your soul that seeks the higher life, and it must be you who will endeavor to satisfy your soul's desire in this.

The remedy is the all-embracing love of the Living Christ in whom our life finds the exemplification of every ideal.

The churches are the direct representatives of that life, and without distinction or rank they collectively invite everyone to attend the services held to-morrow, and from them take away the larger view which will materially change your conception of life for the better.

Decide now that to-morrow you will seek this better view, and for the Molly Pitcher Memorial, authorized by the last Legislature, were completed at a meeting of the commission held here. Work on the main figure and bas-reliefs will be begun at the place of the commission held here. Work on the main figure and bas-reliefs will be begun at the place with elaborate ceremonies on June 28, 1916, the anniversary of the battle of Monmouth.

The commission organized by the election of these officers: President, Roy L, Schuyler, Lock Haven, Past President, State President, Herman C. Miller, Easton, State President, P. O. S. of A; vice-president, Herman C. Miller, Easton, State President, P. O. S. of A; treasurer, W. S. Wacker, Philadelphia, Past National President, D. of L; secretary, W. A. Rupp, Carlisle.

The contract goes to W. B. Van-Amering Company, of Boston, and the sculptor is J. Otto Schwerzer. Both parties are well known in their lines, the most notable works in this section being the "Talking Lincoln," at Gettysburg and the Mithlenberg Statue in Philadelphia, They won first prize for burg reunion.

As planned the memorial will consist of a seven-foot United States standard figure of Molly Pitcher, with two bas-reliefs, three by two, showing her nursing the wounded, and a battle scene at Monmouth. The other side of the base will be taken over by memorial tablets. The monument will be constructed on Berry granite and in front will be a duplicate of the cannons manufactured at Newville during the Revolution by Denny. The plans were approved by the Auditor General yesterday. Only $250 has been reserved for expenses.
