

Women AND THEIR Interests

Epicurean Episodes

By DOROTHY DIX

The great national dish of our country is not, as is erroneously supposed, turkey or pumpkin pie, nor even baked beans. It is chicken. It is true that in other lands chicken also may be had, but no other chicken in the world has the pep, the sinner, and flavor of American chicken.

Indeed, it is our chicken that has made America famous, and it is not only the favorite dish among our own people, but it appeals to the jaded palate of the effete aristocracy of Europe. Especially is this the case when the chicken is fat, and served garnished with plenty of the long green. In such cases impoverished, but epicurean lords and dukes can never get enough of it, or the trimmings.

There is much discussion as to what part of America grows the finest variety of chicken, and connoisseurs are divided on this point. Each section raises a bird that has some peculiar merits of its own. The western variety is large, handsome and showy, but inclined to be a trifle muscular, and for this reason it is generally roasted, especially by antisuffragists.

The southern species is plump, and is particularly delectable when caught at the frying stage.

The New England breed of chickens is, on the contrary, rather thin and runs a little too much to neck.

The middle western variety is very fresh and sweet, and when raised in a barnyard full of corn or wheat, or in the shadow of a brewery or stock yard, is noted for its fine plumage. These western chickens, especially the variety known as Hellenses, form the staple diet of fashionable schools and dressmaking establishments in the east who live upon them. They are also in much request among young men of the Smart Set, who are too proud to work, and are thus enabled to feather their nests by the simple process of going through a marriage ceremony.

The consensus of opinion, however, among bon vivants is that, whatever may be the merits of the poultry of other sections of the country, the great and unparaled chicken run of the world is Broadway. Nowhere else can such perfect specimens be found as here, and here are produced the celebrated champagne fed squab chickens, for which New York is noted.

Having decided upon the variety of chicken that you prefer, the next step is to catch it. Here again, we see the difference that climate and environment have upon the different varieties. The western chicken is exceedingly wild and hard to catch. The southern variety being more domestic and less sophisticated, can easily be captured by throwing the chaff of a few pretty speches before it, while the middle western chicken is so tame it will come and eat out of your hand, and the New England variety will run after you.

The any variety of chicken may easily be caught if you will scatter enough dough before it.

Chicken may be prepared in a great many different ways, but possibly the two methods that appeal most to the popular taste are Chicken, Town Style, and Chicken, Country Style.

To prepare Chicken Town Style, select nice, pretty young bird, either plump or attenuated, according to taste. Pay particular attention to its feathers, and see whether they are plentiful and of the right color, or not for this will save you much money later on.

Above all be careful not to choose a chicken with a red top knot, that ruffles its feathers at the slightest provocation and that shows fight and a disposition to use its beak. Many men disregard this precaution and as a result receive henpecks from which they never recover.

Having acquired your chicken in the marriage market, proceed to dress it with as much silk, satin, millinery and jewelry as you can possibly scrape together. Then put it on the gridiron of domesticity, and let it cook until done. Chicken Town Style should always be served with a sauce piquant. Make this by mixing together in equal parts, a shopping ticket, tango teas, fox trots and theaters. A divorce a la Reno is often served with Chicken Town Style, but while this is strictly de rigueur, and in accordance with the usage in most fashionable society, it is not necessary.

Chicken Country Style is a much wholesomier dish than Chicken Town Style, but it lacks the flavoring and the taste. To make this dish, take a fresh young chicken, such as you find in the rural districts, and stew it in matrimony, without throwing in any seasoning. Serve this with a sauce mouseline, composed of a couple of weeks of moonlight nights in June; one white swiss dress with blue ribbons, a pair of oxlike eyes, and a peaches and cream complexion. Dish up while piping hot.

The men fancy Chicken Country Style very much on their vacations, but when they import it to town they seem to lose their relish for it.

N. B.—In selecting poultry, be careful that you are not deceived, and do not mistake a stringy old pullet for a Spring chicken.

"Yeah."

The door swung wide and the electrician entered and swung his leather bag on the cot. The turnkey stood outside for a moment, then turned and started to pace with slow, even steps outside the door.

The electrician opened his bag, and with his right hand took out a heavy coil of green-wound wire. It entirely hid his left hand (furthest from the cell door), which hand deftly lifted something blue and shining and slipped it under the mattress.

The job took but a few minutes, the old wire was pieced, a new globe screwed into the socket, and the cell lit. With a cheerless good-night, the two left, the porter waited till their footsteps died away, his power of inhalation seeming inadequate to supply his greedy lungs.

A cot, three files and a note! He read it, with his hand to the cell door.

"Have tip. Cole gone to Los Angeles. Name of Richard Walker."

That was all. But it was to the man who read it an epistle satiating and complete. Slowly his mouth twisted itself into a terrible smile, threatening, hideous, his eyes stared hard as though through the heavy walls, as though at something, clear, distinct, attainable, beyond, and he drew his fingers in a gentle caress across the barrel of the steel-blue Colt.

An hour later, after changing clothes with a scare-crow in the fields, he swung aboard a swifly moving freight train and started westward toward Los Angeles to find John Cole, now Richard Walker—toward the attainment of "his heart's desire!"

That same night, Richard Walker was a welcome visitor at the Hilton residence. He spoke long and earnestly to Edith, pleading the sincerity of his love, and painting well, though not too obviously well, the splendid social future of the future Mrs. Richard Walker.

When he left that night he was happier than he had been in many years; in fact the vision of a gaunt man behind unpromising steel bars, was almost obliterated from his mind, almost not quite.

For Walker had made his plea well, and had sealed it with a kiss.

SAYS RAIN CHANGED TOTAL VOTE RETURN

Middletown Assessor Couldn't Copy From Old List Because Elements Obliterated Figures

Slight changes in the original totals of the party preferences of voters in the county outside the city were made necessary to-day by the return of the assessment from the first precinct of the First ward, Middletown.

When the book was turned in last week, the assessor showed that only three had expressed a party preference out of 181 voters. These three incidentally were Republicans. To-day the assessor copied the returns from his old book and added only the necessary changes caused by deaths, removals, etc. The plan would have been followed out originally, he explained, but the return which he had depended upon had hung outside the polling place so long that the names had become obliterated by wind and weather.

Middletown's First precinct really boasts according to the assessor's returns of the following: Republicans, 42; Democrats, 60; Washington, 2; Socialist, 9, and Prohibitionist, 1; a total of 114. The undeclared number is 67.

The completed official total of voters in Dauphin county exclusive of the city, now is: Republicans, 8,415; Democrats, 8,125; Washington, 845; Socialist, 332; and Prohibition, 72; noncommittal, 5,773.

Party Nominations Filed.—Party nomination petitions filed to-day included the following: Charles F. Emlinger, Republican, first precinct, Fifth ward, judge of election; William Kauderman, Republican and Democratic, Second ward, Lykens, councilman; Benjamin F. Smith, Republican, First ward, Millersburg, judge of election; U. S. Dalsen, Republican, Second precinct, Second ward, Middletown, precinct assessor.

Realty Transfers.—Lizzie West to E. V. Willard, Lykens township, $900; M. Parthenore to F. A. Parthenore, Highspire, $1,100; S. B. Shaffner to S. B. Soxman, Highspire, $1,450; R. S. Care to Charles Seltzer, Lower Paxton, $200; Alice E. Walters to Charles M. Conover, Berryhill, and Daisy, $1; H. L. Beaumont's executor to H. C. Rineard, Third ward, Dauphin, $3,250.

New Detention House Ready.—The county commissioners to-day signed the contract for the rental of the new detention house near Lucknow. It has been repaired and renovated and fitted up with electric lights and is now ready for service. D. T. Fackler who taught the boys at the almshouse detention house will likely be selected to serve as both steward and teacher.

Council Expects to Find Sufficient Funds to Close the Wall Gap

While City Commissioner W. L. Gorgas, superintendent of finance and accounts said this afternoon that he had not completed investigation of the City of Harrisburg's outstanding interest bearing fund, it is understood that his report on the subject to Council Tuesday will show that there is available in the neighborhood of $13,000. It is proposed to get together with a thousand dollar balance in the fines and forfeitures fund, $500 in the dog license fund and a few other items, the Council is trying to get the money necessary to complete the river front improvements. Both Mayor Royal and Mr. Gorgas have said they are not opposed to closing the gap in the wall. Market street if the necessary money can be found. From $16,000 to $17,000 will be needed to pay off the balance due Stucker Brothers to close the wall and to satisfy the Opperman arbitration award.

All the engineering force of the Board of Public Works with the exception of Principal Engineer J. D. Justin will be dismissed to-morrow pending the settlement of the river wall controversy and the resumption of work on the gap. Action to this effect was taken at yesterday's session of the board.

Nursery Home Youngsters in New Home Tuesday

With the completion of improvements to the old Mason estate property at 1321 South Cameron street arrangements were started for transferring the forty-six children of the Nursery Home who have been living at the Childs Industrial Home, Nineteenth and Swatara streets, since their building at Third street and Reel's lane was destroyed by fire last March. The children will be installed in the new home next Tuesday.

PLANNERS TO MEET MONDAY

May Consider Park Expert's Report on River Basin Development Scheme

At a meeting of the City Planning commission called for Monday morning at 11 o'clock, the report of Park Expert Warren H. Manning relative to the proposed treatment of the river basin will be considered. The Hoffer tract development plan near Reservoir will also be submitted to the commission to pass upon.

FORTUNE TELLER GOES TO JAIL

On charges of telling fortunes, George J. Bracken, 1847 Berryhill street, was held under $200 bail at a hearing before Mayor Royak late yesterday afternoon. Senator John E. Fox, who represented him, signed the bond. Information against the man was gathered by a squad of patrolmen and city detectives, whose "fortunes" he told.

SALEM MEN ON AUTO TRIP

Dreaded An Operation More Than Anything

Tried Fruitola and Traxo and Has Never Since Been Troubled With Gall-stones

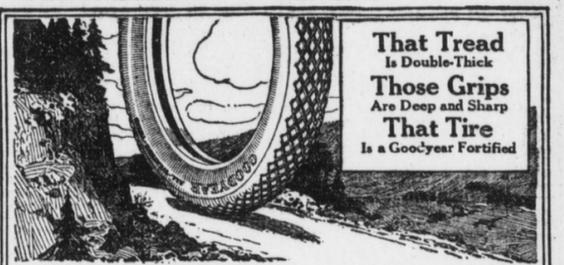

Mrs. Mary E. Franse, whose address is West Point, Nebr., Box 411, has written to the Pinus laboratories a very strong endorsement of Fruitola and Traxo. In her letter, Mrs. Franse says: "About ten years ago I was about to undergo an operation for gall-stones when I heard of your medicine. Dreading an operation above everything I determined to try Fruitola and Traxo and have never been sorry I did so, as I have never been troubled with gall-stones since."

MRS. MARY E. FRANSE

Fruitola is a powerful lubricant for the intestinal organs, and one dose is usually sufficient to give ample evidence of its efficacy. It softens the congested masses, disintegrates the hardened particles that occasion so much suffering, and expels the accumulated waste to the intense relief of the patient. Following a dose of Fruitola, Traxo should be taken three or four times a day in order to rebuild and restore the system that has been weakened and run down by constant suffering. It is a splendid tonic, acting on the liver and stomach most beneficially.

In the files of the Pinus laboratories at Monticello, Ill., are many letters gratefully acknowledging the satisfactory results following the use of Fruitola and Traxo. Arrangements have been made for the distribution of these excellent remedies by leading drug stores everywhere. In Harrisburg Fruitola and Traxo can be obtained at Gorgas' the druggist, 18 North Third street, and P. R. R. Station.

That Tread Is Double-Thickness Those Grips Are Deep and Sharp That Tire Is a Goodyear Fortified

And Your Tires—Have They These Goodyear Extras?

We argue for the utmost in a tire. Many do not give it, and they can't.

Tire prices have dropped rapidly, profits are small, competition is fierce. Only mammoth outputs can cope with present conditions. So there are many incentives to skimp.

Price Savings

Despite these extras, Goodyear prices have come down and down. This year's reduction will save our users about $5,000,000. And that was the third reduction in two years, totaling 45 per cent.

Most of these extras are hidden. Tires which lack them look like tires which have them. But there's enormous difference in the average service.

These things gave Goodyears top place, and have held them there for years. This year they are adding thousands to our users. We invite you to join them. Let Goodyear tires show what these extras mean in trouble-saving and in extra mileage. You will never go back.

Any dealer will supply you. (2523)

THOUGHT SHE COULD NOT LIVE

Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Unionville, Mo.—"I suffered from a female trouble and I got so weak that I could hardly walk across the floor without holding on to something. I had nervous spells and my fingers would cramp and my face would draw, and I could not sleep, nor sleep to do any good, had no appetite, and everything I ate would not live. Some one advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I had taken so much medicine and my doctor said he could do me no good so I told my husband he might get me a bottle and I would try it. By the time I had taken it I felt better. I continued its use, and now I am well and strong. "I have always recommended your medicine ever since I was so wonderfully benefited by it and I hope this letter will be the means of saving some other poor woman from suffering."—Mrs. MARTHA SEAVEY, Box 1144, Unionville, Missouri.

The makers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound have thousands of such letters as that above—they tell the truth, else they could not have been obtained for love or money. This medicine is no stranger—it has stood the test for years.

If there are any complications you do not understand write to Lydia E. Pinkham's Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

TELEPHONES CAUSE OF COMPLAINING

Juniata County People Send Their Objections to Service to the State Commission

The Juniata Automobile Company of Mifflintown has filed a complaint with the Public Service Commission against the Cumberland Valley Telephone Company, charging that the latter agreed to furnish three telephones on a private line and unlimited service in Juniata, Perry and Mifflin counties. This was not done, and the complainant also alleges that the service is not satisfactory. The complainant of Charles W. Bucher against the Cumberland Valley Telephone Company has been dismissed by the Commission. It was found that the company with the White Run Rural Telephone Company, operation in Adams county. Owing to internal dissensions, the membership in the rural line was maintained to such an extent that it was unable to comply with the contract as to the payment for service. When service was discontinued the complainant filed.

The Commission has dismissed the complaint of Frank H. Long against the Philadelphia and Reading. The grievance was that patrons east or northbound from Wayne Junction were put to needless inconvenience of climbing and descending long flights of steps to the main platform along the westbound tracks, and a request was made that the exit gates maintained by the company at each end of the eastbound platform be removed.

The Commission has issued an order extending the time for the filing of the inventory in the complaint of Morris L. Cooke and others against the Philadelphia Electric Company, from August 2, to August 13, and the date originally fixed for hearing on August 10—has been postponed. The order also directs that counsel for complainant and respondent confer with the commission at its office in Harrisburg on August 13.

Tan, Red or Freckled Skin Is Easily Shed

To free your summer-sunk skin of its meanness, freckles, blotches or tan, the best thing to do is to free yourself of the skin itself. This is easily accomplished by the use of ordinary mercurized wax, which can be had at any drug store. Use at night as you use cold cream. Washing it off in the morning. Immediately the offending surface skin begins to come off in fine powder-like particles. Gradually the entire skin is absorbed, without pain or inconvenience. The second layer of skin now in evidence presents a spotless whiteness and sparkling beauty obtainable in no other way I've ever heard of. If the heat tends to loosen and wrinkle your skin, there's an effective and harmless remedy you can readily make at home. Just let an ounce of powdered saxolite dissolve in a half-pint witch hazel and bathe your face in the liquid. This at once tightens the skin and smooths out the lines, making you look years younger.—Emily Coulson in Home Queen.

WITH THE FASHIONABLE BOUFFANT EFFECT

A Graceful, Flaring Skirt for Small Women and for Young Girls.

By MAY MANTON

The bottom had dropped out of A. & M., and Hugh Keene, unable to cover, stared ruin in the face. He stood rigidly for a moment, then Richard Walker's deposit with him, and felt it would be unsafe to go further. The funds of the Sunset Club, of which he was treasurer, were in his possession, and he thought, uncertainly, of them in considering just where he stood. A. & M. had broken badly, there was no escaping that; but he felt sure it was only a "bear" raid, from which he could hold out quickly rally. If only he could hold out a few days, that, essentially, all this "trading" was the rankest form of gamble. But this—this particular case of his, it was so soothed him, absolutely certain. He soothed himself with the thought that, if he, as a broker, knowing the risk of playing the market, was sure of A. & M. why then, if A. & M. disappointed, whose fault was that?

But he stopped where he was with the already certain loss of $5,000, not his, would have been more level headed than to have gone on; but to stop now would have been tantamount to admission that his judgment had in the first place been faulty, and admit that would be to admit that his appropriation of Walker's money was just stealing. Of course, it was not for him to borrow money from a business associate, to help him out, in a deal that entailed no risk whatever for the money borrowed! Why, it was done everyday! The fact that it was a risk did not alter the status of the case at all, since he operated on the theory that it wasn't; so, to justify his original judgment, (and incidentally to satisfy his desire for wind-at-a-scoop) there was, obviously, nothing to do but go on.

The next check he wrote to cover his margins with George Sumner, was drawn from the account of the Sunset Club.

After that, he started briskly to go through his afternoon's mail, and stopped suddenly, with apprehension, at an envelope addressed to him in Richard Walker's hand. He opened it clumsily and read:

My dear Keene:

I pen you a special invitation to attend a dinner at my residence tonight, where I will announce the engagement of Miss Edith Hilton and myself. You know, of course, you are vitally responsible for my meeting Miss Hilton, and am correspondingly grateful.

Very sincerely,
RICHARD WALKER.
