U. S. TRADE AND INDUSTRY

300,000 worth of manufactures, $8,200,000 worth of gold, silver and miscellaneous materials, including foreign merchandise valued at $500,000. As a market for our products Alaska, having a population of only 65,000, is of equal importance with China with a population of 336,000,000.

Alaska's great purchasing power is a natural corollary of its enormous resources, mainly gold, copper, fishery products and hitherto undeveloped beds of coal and other minerals. In the period since 1867 Alaska has given to the world $250,000,000 worth of gold, $183,000,000 worth of fish, $65,000,000 worth of seal and other aquatic fur skins, $20,000,000 worth of copper, nearly $5,000,000 worth of whale, wairus and fish oils, $2,000,000 worth of silver and whalebone, coal, gypsum, marble, tin and vegetables in sufficient sums to bring her total output to more than $500,000,000. This result has been achieved with a sparse population and an inadequate system of railway and other transportation facilities. With the new era of government railway construction recently announced by the Department of the Interior, the development of Alaska will be greatly accelerated, and that territory, which already yields as much gold as the State of California, which produces half the world's salmon, and which includes a domain as large as our area east of the Mississippi river and an acreage for tillage several times that of those sections of Norway, Sweden and Russia of similar latitude with 11,000,000 souls, may be expected to attain an even greater degree of industrial and commercial importance.

Alaska's commercial relations are chiefly with the United States. Shipments to the United States last year were valued at $44,000,000. Canned salmon, $18,000,000; Alaskan gold,

The Czar was recently complimenting a soldier, and asked him if he would rather have 100 rubles or the ran Cross would rather have 100 rubles or the Iron Cross.

"Would your Majesty deign to tell me the value of the cross?" inquired the private.

"Oh, it is not worth much intrinsically, perhaps two rubles."

"Then, your Majesty, I will take the cross and ninety-eight rubles."

This is an interesting episode, and the most interesting thing about it is that it also happened during the Franco-Prussian War, the Crimean War, the Seven Years' War, and the Marlborough campaigns. — Louisville Courier-Journal.
