PAXTANG PARK

A bill such as the one appearing at the Paxtang Park Theater, this week, makes the sort of show that lends class to a vaudeville house. Fennell and Tyson, who head the park bill, are pro-Tyson, who head the park bill, are programmed as "vaudeville's classiest singing and dancing offering, and they probably live up to this pretentious announcement. If Fennell and Tyson are not quite the classiest act of their kind in vaudeville they come close enough to it to satisfy the most fastidious. Their work is fast and clean, while their singing numbers are well selected and rendered in a manner altogether place. The primrose, who introduces herself as the "nut comedienne" gives a lively performance full of fun and nonsense that is so different from the average single woman act that it may be termed a novelty.
