What to Do When Your Eyes Trouble You

By Dr. E. Sauer, Physician-Writer When your eyes become weak, tired or fatigued, when they sting or hurt or the vision is more or less Burred, the strain upon the optic nerve is greatly increased, and this undue strain, if allowed to continue, may result in serious eye-trouble, which, if not properly treated, may lead to granulated lids, ulcers on the eyeball, cataract, or even partial or total paralysis of the optic nerve, resulting in partial or complete loss of vision. The alarmingly large number of cases of partial and total blindness which occur every year from carelessness or ignorance shows the great necessity of the general public knowing more about the eye.

When you notice that your eyes feel

When you notice that your eyes feel weak, or the vision is more or less blurred at the close of the day, you should always use a few drops of Luxotone.

This remarkable preparation almost immediately rests, refreshes, tones up and strengthens weak, tired eyes, It will make red, inflamed or congested eyes white, clear and brilliant in five minutes' time. Its ingredients are widely used by eminent eye specialists. I always prescribe it in all ordinary cases of eye trouble that come to me. Of course Cataract, after it has once formed, requires a surgical operation on the eye, but many eye operations might be easily avoided by the timely use of proper treatment.
