"JIM" KINSOE GOES TO CHARLOTTE, N. C.

Former Rotary Club President Did Much For City of Winona, Minnesota

James R. Kinsoe, formerly of Harrisburg, has resigned as secretary-manager of the Winona, Minn., Association of Commerce to take a position as Executive Officer of the new Chamber of Commerce of Charlotte, N. C. He will assume his new duties September 15. Mr. Kinsoe, who was president of the Rotary Club of Harrisburg for several terms, left Harrisburg about three years ago. Since that time he has been quite active in the advancement of the city of Winona. His resignation brought many expressions of regret. Under the heading, "His Three Years of Winona Activities Have Been Along the Line of Making This a Desirable City," the Winona Daily-Republican Herald says: "Mr. Kinsoe's work in Winona has attracted wide attention in the field of commercial organization and he has heretofore had no less than four flattering offers to go to other places, which he has turned down, but the present call to Charlotte was so exceptionally good he felt he ought not to refuse it. His departure from here will be regretted not only in Winona but throughout Minnesota, where he had become widely known through his activities in the Winona commercial body. That he will worthily fill the new position to which he goes there is not the slightest doubt, and the Charlotte Chamber of Commerce can consider itself fortunate in securing his services."

Heavy Showers Impede Oats Harvesting in State

Harvesting of oats is progressing under difficulties, according to this week's crop report, out to-day. The report says: "Heavy showers occurred in the southeastern counties, especially over the drainage area of the Schuylkill while elsewhere the rainfall was generally moderate. However, the fields over a large part of the State remained muddy and oats harvest progressed under difficulties. In the southeastern counties the lodging of the grain added to the labor of the harvest. The work is generally near completion, except in the northern portion of the State, and it appears that the promised heavy yields have been reduced to about normal. Corn is good in central and southern counties except for a small percentage that has been badly beaten down by storms. In northern counties it is late and will require several weeks to mature. The crop in those counties will depend almost wholly upon the lateness of the first freezing temperatures. As a whole the corn crop promises to be fully up to the average. Pastures and late feed are excellent, but some meadows are so wet that it is not practical to cut the second crop of hay at this time. Fall plowing is in progress in the south-central counties."

1915 COUNCILMANIC DIRECTORY IS OUT

Contains List of All Councilmen Who Served Under Bi-Cameral System

Harrisburg's Councilmanic Directory for 1915 was issued to-day by City Clerk Charles A. Miller and, while it follows in a general way, the style of previous issues, the current volume is unquestionably the most valuable little book full of just the kind of facts that every citizen wants to know, that has ever been compiled by the versatile city clerk. The number of books printed is comparatively small, but it's a safe bet that most every business and professional man in Harrisburg, to say nothing of the city departments, will want at least one book. The new volumes make the directory more than ordinarily valuable this year.

In the first place the book contains a list of all the councilmen, Select and Common, who served from the time of the incorporation of the city down to the passing of the municipality from the old bicameral system into the new commission form of government. This data was collected by Mr. Miller and his assistant, R. R. Seaman at great expense of time and labor but the results are certainly worth while.

The other big feature is a complete list of the boundaries of the wards in the city. That feature, that feature in itself will make the book of unusual value. Mr. Seaman compiled this data alone. Other things include complete data pertaining to the city government, most anything that one might wish to know in the way of statistics about Harrisburg, its population, park acreage, streets, paving, sewer system, etc., assessments, school statistics, census figures for the last hundred and twenty-five years, population of wards, the mayors, city clerks, city engineers, auditors, treasurers, controllers and fire chiefs, and presidents of councils and clerks.
