8 TWO-STORY BRICKS FOR SOUTH 2ND ST.

Demand For Moderate-Priced Houses in Steelton Increasing

Steelton's building record for this year was given another big "boost" to-day when Borough Secretary Charles F. Feldt issued a permit to erect eight two-story brick dwelling houses in South Second street, between Juneberry and Dupont avenues.

Construction work on these new homes will be commenced immediately, the builders told Secretary Feldt. The work will be rushed because, it is understood, tenants have already applied for their rental.

The demand for moderate priced houses in Steelton has been steadily increasing in recent years and builders have been hard pressed to meet these demands. Since January 1 some permits for big blocks of such houses have been taken out.

Among the largest of these is today's permit and two permits to Jonas K. Reist. One of these was to erect seventeen houses in Christian street and the other for five brick houses at Front and Jefferson streets.

DEER CLAIMS NOW CAUSE FOR WORRIES

State Game Commission Officials Having Troubles of Their Own With the Demands

Father Penn's deer, bear and wild turkeys are getting him into trouble and claims for hundreds of dollars damage alleged to have been caused by game rooting around on truck farms or rindling orchards have been received by the State Game Commission, most of them with requests for immediate payment.

In the past the State has managed to escape liability to any great extent for such depredations until the claims were caught right in the act, but since the hunters' license revenue began to be a reality numerous claims have bobbed up.

In some instances there are well established claims of damage done by the animals, deer having been found digging in gardens close to farm houses or eating fruit from trees. In other instances only traces were to be had and the State officials have been demanding proofs, declining to do cause unless the damage and the cause are thoroughly established. In most cases reduction of bills are required.

"Movie" Men in Trouble.—Additional arrests of owners of "movie" theaters who have failed to obey instructions of the State Board of Moving picture censors to eliminate portions of films have been ordered by the State Board both in Philadelphia and Pittsburgh. A number of films which were examined lately were found to be too close to the border land of neutrality or too suggestive. Some of the views were calculated to keep an audience excited rather than interested.

Revenue Comes In.—For the last few days the revenue of the State has been running a little ahead of the expenditures, this being the first time in quite a while that such has been the case. Quite a number of the five dollar taxes on appraisals of $1,000 worth of assets of manufacturing corporations have been coming in. Because of the spurt in revenue some of the school districts have been getting their money.

To Improve Roads.—The State Highway Department will improve several Carbon county roads. They connect important towns.

Superintendents to Meet.—Superintendents of State fish services will meet in Torresdale to-morrow to discuss the work of the department.

Compliments For Report.—L. H. Wible, chief of the bureau of statistics of the Department of Agriculture, who had charge of the report on the crop conditions, has been complimented upon the results obtained. The report is the most complete summary of conditions issued by the department.

Mr. Steese Returns.—James A. Steese, chief clerk of the Department of Labor and Industry, has returned from Pittsburgh where he attended the meeting of the State Knights of Pythias. He was re-elected supreme representative.

Plans Before Commissioner.—The plans for the complete sewer system of Philadelphia, including the disposal works, are now before Commissioner Dixon for action.

TWENTY PERSONS DIE IN SINKING ARABIC

morning that all but eight of the passengers had been landed at Queens-town. Four of these were said to be Americans. According to information cabled to Washington by Lewis C. Thompson, American consul at Queens-town, however, Dr. Wood and Mrs. Bruguiere are the only missing Americans. The other two, James Houlihan, of Philadelphia, and Thomas Elmore, of New York—were reported by Mr. Thompson to have been saved.

Four hundred accounted for. In all about 400 of the Arabics were on board the Arabics have been accounted for. The fate of the others is still in doubt, but as the hours lengthen since the wreck with swift destruction hopes that the others may have been saved are fading.

The announcement that all but eight of the passengers were saved bore out earlier reports that the great majority of the missing were members of the crew, Captain William Finch, of the Arabics gave testimony to the heroism of his engineers and firemen, several of whom remained at their posts to the last to insure the safety of the passengers and probably sacrificed their lives. Other survivors say that the torpedo which rent the Arabics' hull killed outright several men in the boiler rooms. The torpedo struck on the starboard side about 100 feet from the stern near the location of the boiler rooms.

England is Stirred

The torpedoing of the Arabics has stirred England from end to end, although on account of the comparatively small loss of life public feeling does not show signs of running as high as in the days following the sinking of the Lusitania. That such a large proportion of the passengers and crew should have been saved in the short time available for the work is regarded as better fortune than might have been expected under the circumstances. Apparently it was due to the coolness and courage of the officers and crew from Queens-town, who remained at their post until just before the Arabics took her final plunge, down to the firemen who faced certain death to perform their duty. Fine weather and a calm sea also contributed to the outcome.

Survivors Assisted

In Queens-town everything possible was done to-day to assist the survivors, many of whom were without clothes or money. As in the case of the Lusitania disaster, the citizens of Queens-town came to the assistance of the sufferers and none went without clothing, food and shelter. A number of the survivors are suffering from minor injuries, but so far as is known none is in a serious condition.

With the main facts of the disaster established, the English public turned its attention to the possible effect upon relations between the United States and Germany. Doubtless word whether American lives had been lost was awaited with more eagerness than any other detail of the Arabics' story yet to be told.

Two American Citizens Still Unaccounted For

By Associated Press

New York, Aug. 20.—Two Americans were still unaccounted for today in the lists received here giving the names of those saved from the White Star steamship Arabics, torpedoed and sunk yesterday morning by a German submarine off the South coast of Ireland. They were Dr. Edward F. Wood, of Janesville, Wis., and Mrs. Josephine L. Bruguiere, a wealthy American widow, who has been living in Europe for some years, but who is well known in New York, Newport and San Francisco.

The local office of the White Star line had no record of the safety of two other Americans, James Houlihan, of Philadelphia, and Thomas Elmore, of New York, but the names of Houlihan and Elmore appeared on a list of sixteen American survivors received by the State Department at Washington from Lewis C. Thompson, the United States consul at Queens-town, Ireland.

Reports to the White Star line here showed that twenty persons in all of those aboard the lost liner had not been accounted for. Eight of these were passengers.

The Arabics carried 423 persons when she left Liverpool Wednesday, 181 passengers and 242 in her crew. A dispatch from Queens-town this morning said on the authority of Consul Thompson that there were only twenty-one American citizens among the Arabics' passengers. Advice received last night placed the number of Americans on board at twenty-six.

One of the Americans unaccounted for is a leading Wisconsin surgeon. He was on his way home after completing a tour of duty for the Red Cross with the British hospital in Flanders. Mrs. Bruguiere before her marriage was Miss Josephine I. Sather. Her step-mother, Mrs. James K. Sather, of San Francisco, left $700,000 to the University of California. She married the late Emilio Bruguiere.

WASHINGTON STIRRED BY SINKING OF SHIP

two Americans were among the missing.

In the absence of authentic information regarding the destruction of the Arabics officials reserved their comments, although the incident caused grave concern here. Just what course of action will be taken by the United States government will be determined upon only after official details have been received.

The fast American note to Germany on the sinking of the Lusitania gave warning that the United States would regard as "deliberately unfriendly" any act in violation of the rights of American citizens upon the seas. The note stated specifically that "the lives of noncombatants may in no case be put in jeopardy unless the vessel resists or seeks to escape after being summoned to submit to an examination."

If there was no loss of American lives, it was regarded here as unlikely that drastic action would be taken, although if there was it was believed that diplomatic relations between the United States and Germany would be broken off.

The attack on the Arabics caused general surprise here, particularly in view of the fact that no hint came from the German government that submarine commanders would continue torpedoing ships without warning and despite frequent reiterations in German circles here that in the future warning would be given. Officials here had hoped, therefore, that the already tense situation between the United States and Germany would not be further aggravated.

Phila. Representative of E. & M. Works Dies

David Longenecker, for many years the Philadelphia representative of the Harrisburg Foundry and Machine Works, died Wednesday morning at the German Hospital, Philadelphia.

Mr. Longenecker had been connected with the Harrisburg Foundry and Machine Works for about twenty-five years, during which time he had been a resident of Philadelphia. Mr. Longenecker married Miss Elizabeth Muench, whose father was at one time one of the foremost lawyers of this city and a member of one of the oldest families.

Funeral services will be held here Saturday morning on the arrival of the 11:20 train from Philadelphia.
