By mere chance, a detective from Brockton, Mass., while in this city this morning, learned that a man wanted in Brockton, on a charge of deserting his wife and six children, was being held in the Dauphin county jail on charge of non-support of a second wife, whom he married about a year ago shortly after he deserted his first wife in Massachusetts.

Detective O. A. Saunders, of Brock ton, while in the city to-day made the discovery. He arrived last night to secure requisition papers for another man being held in Philadelphia, and wanted by Brockton authorities.

While speaking to Chief of Police Hutchison, he mentioned the name of George Furlong, the man who had deserted his wife in Brockton. The detective told Colonel Hutchison that ne would like to see Furlong punished for the desertion and that he had heard that Furlong had married anther woman in a little mining town in Dauphin county. During the conversation Colonel Hutchison remembered that Furlong was in fail charged with non-support and this morning he and Detective Saunders paid the prisoner a visit.

he had no excuse to offer, the officers said.

According to the police, after Furlong left his first wife, he came to this county, settling in Lykens and marrying a woman there. He has had one child to the second wife. Recently he was brought before the court by Mrs. Furlong No. 2, who charged him with non-support. The court directed him to pay his wife a certain sum regularly which it is said he did not do.

The authorities then arrested him and he went to jail. Furlong is now being held and will be brought before court charged with bigamy.
