MT. GRETTA BOROUGH PLAN NOW OPPOSED

Property Owners in Chautauque and Campmeeting Grounds Divided on Question

Special to The Telegraph
Mount Gretna, Pa., Aug. 23.—A movement for the incorporation of Mount Gretna into a borough is on foot, but considerable opposition has developed among the property owners. The plan is unique in that this is a community of summer residents only, and while there are 2,500 or 3,000 inhabitants during three or four months of the year, there are less than a half-dozen legal voters within the confines of the proposed borough. The summer community is made up of cottage owners and tenants, who occupy some 500 cottages and bungalows on the slope of the South Mountain, within the confines of two corporate communities—the Pennsylvania Chautauque and the United Brethren Campmeeting Association—and the vacationists summering at Hotel Conewago, on the top of a knoll above the lake. The two corporations, which, with the Cornwall and Lebanon Railroad Company, own all the land hereabouts except that used by the State in the National Guard encampments, have sold small parcels to the cottagers under certain restrictions, and these corporations have assumed responsibility for roads, water, sewerage and lighting facilities which have developed the mountain community. It was because some $3,000 is annually paid by the cottage owners to the townships in which the corporate lands are located as school and road tax and because these tax monies are used by the townships for improvements outside of the Mount Gretna district that the plan of a borough government was suggested in order to keep the taxes at home. A joint committee has been appointed to consider the plan and the campmeeting associations, but already a spirited opposition to the plan has been launched. The opposition was voiced by Senator E. E. Beldeman in a heated debate at a meeting of property owners called for the informal exchange of opinions on the plan. Senator Beldeman has been a summer resident on the chautauque grounds for a number of years. Certain it is that there will be vigorous opposition to the plan, and the necessity of securing a sufficient number of voters to declare their legal residence in a place which is virtually deserted from September to May promises hard sledding ahead for the movement.

Heavy Downpours Keep Park Dep't. Humping

City Commissioner Taylor, head of the park system of the city, has had his hands more than full during the present season as a result of the unprecedented and frequent rains since early Spring. His particular difficulty has been the care of the new river slope from one end of the city to the other. Owing to the fact that this was filled and graded during the Spring and heavy downpours have caused all kinds of trouble. Saturday night's heavy rain washed more dirt upon the granolithic walk and steps at the bottom of the slope, but the damage has not been nearly so serious as was anticipated. Prompt efforts will restore the slope to a satisfactory condition, the dirt washed upon the granolithic walk being thrown back to the small gutters. It is also likely that a few loads of dirt will be utilized in filling up the larger washouts so that the planting of the open spaces and wherever the shrubbery has been washed out can be restored at once. It is probable that the top of the slope will be built up in the spaces between the barberry hedge plants so that the water will be thrown to the street instead of along the slope as is the case in some places.

State Riflemen Gather at Gretna For Senior Matches

Special to The Telegraph
State Rifle Range, Mount Gretna, Pa., Aug. 23.—One hundred experts, representing the pick of rifle shots in the Pennsylvania National Guard, arrived here yesterday for the senior regimental matches in the State competitions. The new lot of riflemen reached camp in the afternoon, joining those who had earned the right to shoot in the senior matches by the marksmanship in the junior events last week. The juniors had a most trying experience Saturday night in the storm which swept through the Conewago Valley. Several tents went down before the wind, which was accompanied by drenching rain. The senior team matches opened this morning with the rapid-fire match and will continue all week.
