TEN CALVES ADDED TO U. S. BISON HERD

Washington, D. C., Aug. 30.—The government's herd of buffalo on the Wichita National Forest, in Oklahoma, which is also a federal game preserve, has been increased by the arrival of ten calves, according to a report received by the forest service from the supervisor in charge. The herd, which now comprises sixty-two specimens of the almost extinct bison, is in good condition, says the supervisor, and promises to continue increasing at a rapid rate.

Eight of the calves are females, bringing the number of heifers and up to thirty. The bulls number thirty-two and have been placed by themselves in a pasture which has been fenced in for them.

Three years ago the buffalo herd on the Wichita Forest was little more than half as large as it is now. It is said that the other game animals in the preserve, including the elk and antelope, also are increasing, due to the protection afforded, not only against hunters, but against wolves, wild cats, and other predatory animals, which committed serious depredations from the establishment of the preserve in 1905 until measures were taken to stop them. In protecting the game from predatory animals, the wardens and forest officers are also promoting the interests of local stockmen, who graze several thousand head of cattle on certain allotted areas within the preserve.

SWEET PEAR PICKLES

Pare fruit and if small leave whole, if large, halve. Weigh and for every four pounds of fruit allow two pounds of sugar, one cup of good vinegar, and one-half cup of water. Make a syrup of the sugar, water and vinegar, and when boiling add the spices in little bags, using to every pint of syrup two or three sticks of cinnamon, and teaspoonful each of cloves and mace of allspice, and a half ounce of ginger root. If preferred, nothing but the ginger root and cinnamon need be used. Simmer for ten minutes, then put in the fruit, and simmer until tender enough to pierce with a straw. Lift fruit out carefully and place in jars. Boil the syrup a few minutes longer and pour over the fruit.

CHRIST: "A SMALL-TOWN MAN"

He was a small-town man, and no world-builder. He preached the Kingdom of God, knowing God for a spirit and having an increasing realization of the Kingdom as a state of being. But he had no program. He followed the inward voice, and followed it instinctively, with the freedom of a river in its natural channel, with no fretting of the flesh. But where the voice left him uninformed, he was simply a man from Nazareth, his social outlook was the outlook of a village. All the great prophets of Israel had come out of the wilderness; their words were full of the terrible things—thunders, earthquakes, fire on the mountains. But the words of Jesus are all of the small town—the candle and the bushel, the housewifery measure of yeast, the children playing in the street. The rich he knew only as the poor and the oppressed know them; the kings of his parables were the kings of fairy tale and legend; such rulers and potentates as make the stock of the village story-teller. His very way of speaking was a folk-way; the plithy sentence, the pregnant figure. He saw God reflected in every surface of the common life, and taught in parables which are, after all, but a perfect form of the quizzes and riddles dear to the unlettered wit. That is why so many of them are remembered, while his profounder sayings escaped his audience. It is evident from the form of these, blunted as they are by re-translation, that they were many of them cast in the matched and balanced sentences of the Hebrew verse, which accounts in part for their easy retention.

He was a man wise in lore, but unlearned. He read no books, but the scriptures; wrote nothing; took the folk-way of transmitting his teaching from mouth to mouth, and trusted God for the increase; and he had the folk-way in his profoundest speech, of identifying himself with the Power that used him. He dramatized all his relations to the invisible. And with it all he was a Jew of the circumcision. He grew up beyond Judaism as a stalk of grain grows from its sheath, but never out of it. Always to his death, it was there about the roots of his life.—Mary Austin, in The North American Review.
