Put Up Great Game

The Cincinnati team on its present eastern trip was a sensation until its truck Philadelphia, where the Philaleles set them back, but Charley Herzog has his men fighting hard and he is building up a club that promises to make trouble in another year. The Reds have a great pitching staff. Herzog has announced that he will make his selections of pitchers from Dale, Schneider, McKenery and Lear. King Lear is a Cumberland Valley boy and a former Mercersburg and Princeton twirler. Several years ago he pitched a game against the Highspire club for the Harrisburg collegians.

Herzog started his professional baseball career in the Tri-State League and went to the New York Club from Reading. He was a star with the New York Giants and was released to assume the management of the Cincinnati club. Killifer, one of the Reds' outfielders is also well known in tis territory. In Griffith, a young outfielder, the Reds have one of the best hitters in the National League and Wingo and Larke are a pair of high class catchers.

Local Pitcher Unknown

Manager Zimmerman has given no promises as to whom he will pitch against the big leaguers. It matters little for the International League teams are ranked almost as high as the majors and many Harrisburg fans feel that at least three of the International League clubs would make great fights in either the National or American Leagues. Harrisburg fans will have their last opportunity this week to turn out for International League baseball and give Eddie Zimmerman and his men their best wishes for a two weeks road trip. By their attendance during the remainder of the week the fans can emphasize their support and eagerness to have the club remain in this city next season.

Friday will be Ladies' Day, and it will also be a half holiday for the business men who will have a chance to turn out and make it a monster afternoon on the Island. The Rochester club will be the attraction on Friday and will close the season locally with a double-header on Saturday.

When You Lose Your Stroke--- That Is Something to Worry About by Briggs

PEARL SHEPHERD

When Pearl Shepherd was told by the film company for which she worked in the movies that she would have to learn how to dive backwards from a sitting position, she had not even learned how to swim.

"But I will get that dive," said she, and being a girl of determination—had she not been one she would never have gained her present success in the business—she went down to the tank at Brighton Baths, New York and began to practice. With the aid of a teacher she learned how to swim. She learned several linds of dives.

Then she invented her "flop back."
