DR. SHAW TALKS TO BIG GRANGERS' CROWD

Enthusiastic Welcome Accorded Woman Who Has Long Been Fighting For the Ballot

Mechanicsburg, Pa., Sept. 3.—Yesterday, the big day at Grangers' picnic, drew a crowd numbering almost fifty thousand people.

It was Suffrage Day with Dr. Anna Howard Shaw as speaker at an enthusiastic reception was given her. Upon her arrival she was met by local suffrage clubs, with yellow streamers, yellow pompons, and taken to a gaily decorated automobile, where she was conveyed to the Thomas cottage, escorted by the suffrage party and Singer band.

Ruth A. Deeter, of Harrisburg, chairman of the meeting, introduced the speakers: Mrs. Mabel Cronise Jones, of Harrisburg, and Miss Mary E. Bakewell, of Pittsburgh, both of whom gave interesting talks.

She spoke of the system of voting, how it has changed and said, "Always before, a man voted because he was a male, now, because he is some kind of a man."

Let Men Fight Men. Asked, "If war should come, would the women fight," she said, "No, of course not, let the men fight the men; but if women invade our country, why women would fight them."

Admittedly the strongest argument made for peace, was that by Dr. Shaw, when she paid the highest tribute to motherhood, in that she gives her life work, 20 years, in careful training and careful guidance to her son who is to be murdered in the trenches.

Among the Pennsylvania Women's Suffrage Association members were: Miss Mary Stecker, of Milton; Miss Helen C. Clark, Miss Mary J. Norcross, Miss Mary E. Bakewell, Mrs. Mabel Cronise Jones, Dr. Ruth A. Deeter, Mrs. Alice S. Hauck, Mrs. C. E. Brindel, Miss Ida G. Kast and Miss Caroline Saxton.

CROWD ENJOYS CORNROAST. Dauphin, Pa., Sept. 3.—Mrs. William Minsker entertained a party of about thirty friends from Dauphin and the nearby country at a cornroast at the Red Bridge school grounds on Thursday evening.

WITMER, ZARTMAN'S TRUSTEE. Sunbury, Pa., Sept. 3.—Creditors of W. P. Zartman, a lumberman with large interests in Northumberland, Schuylkill and Dauphin counties, met here yesterday and elected F. A. Witmer, a Sunbury lawyer, as trustee in bankruptcy. More than $100,000 is involved.

EXPLODING CIGAR INJURES SMOKER. Bloomsburg, Pa., Sept. 3.—Smoking a cigar to-day, George Ketchner, of Rohrsburg, was injured by what is thought to have been a dynamite cap exploding in the cigar. Part of his lip was torn away while his chest and arms were lacerated. His condition is critical.

PITTSBURGH BUYS YORK PLANT. York, Pa., Sept. 3.—W. H. Miller, a Pittsburgh manufacturer, purchased the plant of the York Bridge Company near here, at public sale yesterday for $23,000. It had been sold at private sale for $30,000 to a creditors' committee, which was planning to operate it in the manufacture of shrapnel but the sale was set aside by the court.

SPECIAL SERVICE ARRANGED. Dauphin, Pa., Sept. 3.—A special song service will be held on Sunday evening in the Presbyterian Church at 7:30 o'clock, directly following the Christian Endeavor service. A double quartet will sing "O, My Soul, Bless Thou Jehovah," and the choral society, under the leadership of Mrs. William Worcester, will be a feature of the service.

Wormleysburg Alligator Captured at Lewistown

Creature Sighted by 'Cross River Minstrel Man, Lands on Sand Flat in Juniata

Lewistown, Pa., Sept. 3.—Swimmers can again go in the waters of the Juniata river without being afraid of being devoured by the alligator that escaped from Berwick, for it has been captured by Engineer Snook, employed on a sand dredge on the river casts of town. The suction hose used for sucking sand from the river drew Mr. Gator up and threw him on the deck of the flat. Going through the hose knocked the alligator out of time for a while and made him easy to capture.

It is puzzling the men on the job to know how a reptile weighing 75 pounds and being over 4 1/2 feet in length managed to squeeze through the steel bonnet at the lower end of the suction hose. At last accounts the 'gator had partly recovered from his experience and was devouring grub that men gave him from their dinner buckets.

The alligator was opposite Wormleysburg last week and was sighted by Ralph C. Schrack, the popular minstrel star of that town.
