Grand Duke Nicholas, removed as commander-in-chief of the Russian forces, is to-day on his way to his new headquarters in the Caucasus. OUR BIRD POPULATION

By Frederic J. Haskin [Continued From Editorial Page.]

It may surprise most people to know that the birds are thicker in areas near to human habitation. Notwithstanding their suffering at the hands of men, birds evidently love human companionship and prefer to build their homes near those of mankind.

The efforts of the Audubon Society and kindred organizations have secured a great interest in bird protection in our communities and the localities in which this protection has been longest established show the largest percentage of birds. The census number of birds per acre so far recorded was on a tract at Chevy Chase, Maryland, where the average was seven pairs. It is claimed that this large number is due to the encouragement given to the feathered tribe by the residents of the neighborhood. Nesting boxes are liberally provided. Shrubby and trees are planted to give cover and protection to their young nests and every precaution is taken to protect them from fright or injury.

The robin is one-half acre last in Chevy Chase had 13 pairs of birds raising young ones upon its premises last year. He provided a permanent bird bath for their convenience. Next to Chevy Chase comes a tract of fifteen acres near Kennilworth, Illinois, where birds have been protected for several years. The enumerator counted eighty-four pairs of birds upon this tract.

Robin Most Abundant

All the enumerators did not report the varieties of birds because they did not know them but the census indicates that the robin is the most abundant species in the nation as it appears in the complete list of birds taken last year, and upon all of the reports yet tabulated for this year. The English sparrow, which is much objected to by many bird lovers, ranks next to the robin in point of numbers. Of the other birds it is indicated that for each 100 robins there are forty-nine catbirds, thirty-seven bluebirds, twenty-eight kingbirds and twenty-six bluebirds.

The bluebirds are in great favor everywhere. Birds know that almost the entire bluebird population of the eastern part of the country perished several years ago during an unusually severe winter will be able to breed in the spring following from the catastrophe and now numbers several millions. Aside from the practical value of the service the bird renders the farmer by the destruction of insects detrimental to his crops, there has come a tremendous recognition of the aesthetic value of bird life in the country within the last decade. Nature study in the public schools, the Boy Scout movement and several other influences have aided this. Boys now pride themselves on their bird nests or their bird-pops or air rifles. Instead they are learning to protect them from other destructive influences and are hiding thousands of bird-houses each year in their manual training classes.

China Would Extend Relations With U. S.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 9.—Dr. E. Pratt, chief of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, announced to-day the receipt of a letter from David Z. T. Yui, secretary of the Chinese Commercial Commission, who recently toured America, suggesting that the United States and China should "join hands to make the best use of present opportunities" for increasing trade. Mr. Yui has charge of the lecture department of the national committee of the Young Men's Christian Association of China. He offered to make use of advertising material from American manufacturers in lectures to the commerce and industry. Considerable material in the form of motion films, charts, maps and pictures from several American firms already is in use.

Extirpating Many Cats

Trappers, during the last ten years have captured many cats in the snares set for animals bearing more valuable fur. They are already beginning a vigorous campaign of cat extermination and many sportsmen are joining in it.

A naturalist, who was two years ago conducting a scientific study of the physical resources of Central California, came upon an especially attractive forest which was liberally swarming with cats. He only found four bird nests in an area of over twenty miles and was fortunate enough to rescue one of these from a cat which was creeping up to secure a breakfast of young birds. He ordered his men to destroy as many cats as possible. Several other parties made war upon cats and visit to the forest this summer showed that an encouragingly large number of birds had returned to a forest which nature had assigned for their use.

The Audubon Society is now facing a division upon the cat question. A census of the cats in a Massachusetts township last Spring was followed by a request that restrictive measures be taken for the sake of the birds. But many members of the Audubon Society are lovers of cats as well as birds and the wholesale cat extermination advocated by part of the organization is meeting with opposition. Some of the census enumerators are volunteering reports as to the number of cats in the neighborhoods in which the canvasses are made. Such information may have some important bearing upon the situation.

MANAGER JACK DUNN FAVORS HARRISBURG

Would Like to Play His Team at Island Park Next Season

Manager Jack Dunn, of Richmond, is ready to boost Harrisburg for International League baseball next season. This good news was brought yesterday by President Frank DeWan, of the Harrisburg club. There is a strong probability that Richmond will be transferred to a more advantageous location.

Manager Dunn said during the recent series at Richmond that he was ready to take up the Harrisburg proposition in case the New York Americans did not exercise their option on the Harrisburg club. Rochester and Toronto are both lined up for this city. Manager DeWan said:

"Conditions under which Harrisburg may continue as an International League city will be outlined some time during December. What these conditions will be no one can tell at this time. They will likely cover plans for necessary improvements at the baseball field and coupon book arrangements covering part of the expense. In my opinion there will be no demands Harrisburg cannot meet."

Scarcity of Steel Cuts Down Output of Fords

Special to The Telegraph New York, Sept. 9.—An extraordinary development in the steel situation became known yesterday. Owing to inability to secure good steel deliveries, production of the Ford Motor Company, during July and August was cut down from a normal capacity of 1,000 cars daily to about 300 cars a day. With this condition applying to the Ford company, it was thought in the trade that other automobile manufacturers were doubtless experiencing similar conditions.

As an opening feature to the trip, Commissioner Taylor is planning to have an exhibit first of the old apparatus and is negotiating now to get an old hand pumping engine used in Harrisburg during the 60's which is now located in the Cumberland Valley. At intervals of two minutes, each piece of apparatus will pass in review of the auto guests. Six different styles will be shown and then will come Harrisburg's new automobile fire fighting equipment.

DR. DIXON SPEAKS ON HEALTH CONDITIONS

Discusses the Outbreaks at Danville and Erie Where State Officers Are at Work

Commissioner of Health Samuel G. Dixon, when interviewed relative to the present epidemic of infantile paralysis at Erie which is alarming the residents of that city, said: "Polio-myelitis has been known to the medical profession of the world since 1840, and in America since 1896. Epidemics of considerable size have been reported at varying intervals throughout the North Temperate Zone from 1887 to the present time, the first great outbreak in this country occurring in Vermont in 1881. Serious and far-reaching epidemics occurred in the United States in 1910 and subsequently. Pennsylvania had an epidemic of nearly two hundred cases in the vicinity of DuBois and Eau Claire, Ridgeway and Oil City in 1907, a small outbreak in the vicinity of Gettysburg in 1908 and a State-wide outbreak in 1910, including a total of more than 1,000 cases.

"The disease is sudden and insidious in onset, accompanied by digestive disturbances, slight fever and often confusion toward biting insects appearing in some instances. The average case without appearing to be very sick at any time is only diagnosed about four or five days later when paralysis occurs. "With the successful inoculation of monkeys in 1910 by virus from the brains or spinal cords secured from children dead of the disease, new interest was aroused and since then research workers in all parts of the world have sought the cause. "The causative factor is so small that it will pass readily through the best of filters any may be found best with dark field microscopes of great magnification. In the department's research laboratories we have often transmitted infection from monkey to monkey. How it is transmitted from man to man is still in doubt, although much evidence has accumulated that would point the finger of suspicion toward biting insects appearing in some instances. "It is well to disinfect all dwellings at the conclusion of the disease with both formaldehyde gas and with sulphur, sulphur to insure destruction of the life; and if stables are near, to have them thoroughly disinfected and put in sanitary condition. Damp houses should be thoroughly dried out with heat."

Taft to-day told the American Bankers' Association, in convention here, that practically all of the radical reforms attempted in connection with politics, railroads and "big business" had failed of their purpose, causing the nation to halt in its progress, and that there must now be a "retreating to the line of moderation and justice."
