INFANTRY MEN TO TAKE EXAMINATIONS

Over Six Hundred Officers of the National Guard Listed For Official Tests

Over six hundred infantry officers of the National Guard of Pennsylvania will take examinations this month to show how far they have progressed under the course of study outlined by Uncle Sam. The questions are professional and of the highest importance in the handling of infantrymen. They have been prepared by Major F. D. Beary, deputy adjutant general, with Captain W. H. Kemper, Third infantry, the inspector-instructor detailed for the Pennsylvania militia headquarters.

The questions will be sent out from the headquarters to the colonels commanding about Tuesday and will be immediately distributed to the officers who will write their answers, certifying that they have had no assistance of any kind. The questions must be returned to the Capitol by September 25. They will cover what are known as the basic and year A courses.

Commission Moves.—Officers of the Public Service Commission moved the headquarters of the Public Service Commission to Pittsburgh today for the western Pennsylvania hearings to be held this week. The commission will hear the complaints of Westmoreland county towns against the Westmoreland water company at Greensburg Tuesday and Wednesday, this being one of the big cases listed and Thursday and Friday will sit in Pittsburgh to hear the case of Solon C. Thayer against the Beaver Valley water company. Executive sessions will be held at night.

Hanging Case Up.—What may be the last application for commutation of a sentence of hanging is listed to be heard by the State Board of Pardons on Friday. The case is that of James Reilly, who killed his wife before the act making electrocution the legal method of inflicting the death penalty became effective. Reilly was formerly a Philadelphia trolleyman.

Fines for New Fund.—Fines imposed in this State under the century and a half law are now being turned into the State fund for carrying fire insurance on the Capitol and other State property. Under the old laws this money was devoted to the extinguishment of the State debt, but as the fund for payment of the outstanding bonds which the State wants to pay off but can not get ran away ahead of the debt the legislature provided that all payments heretofore authorized to the sinking fund should go toward the new fund. The idea is to raise a million dollars and end the year. Several Sabbath breaking fines have come since the change was made and this item is now, oddly enough, being used toward enabling the State to carry its own insurance.

Vinegar Inquiry On.—Investigations of the vinegar sold in several of the western counties of the State made in the last few weeks are said to have shown considerable improvement in quality as regards what it was three months ago. The State authorities found that large quantities of vinegar were reaching Western Pennsylvania from half a dozen states and warnings were issued that the prosecutions would be made all along the line. In the list of recent suits for violations of the law the western counties have had very few.

Jitneys Will Contest.—Public Service Commission officials believe that the question whether the State must control jitneys will be brought to a hearing in October at Scranton and the complaints filed by the traction company at that place made the tests. Intimations that answers will be filed and a contest made have been received. The result will affect thousands of jitneys now run in the State and if the commission finds that it has not jurisdiction it will put regulation in the hands of municipalities alone.

Armory Board to Meet.—The State

Armory Board will meet to-morrow morning at 9 o'clock.
One New Complaint.—A complaint was filed with the Public Service Commission to-day by the Rev. Robert F. Hayes, of Coal Dale, Schuylkill county, against the Panther Creek Valley Water Company, charging inadequate water supply to the St. Mary's Church, St. Mary's rectory and St. Mary's school of that place.

Penbrook Committee That Is to Act With Council

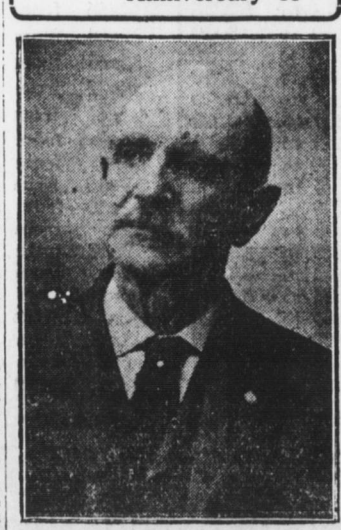

The names selected by Joseph A. Miller to advise with council in accordance with instructions of the mass meeting held Friday evening are as follows: W. H. Wolf, Alvin P. Speas, George Bowman, J. W. Hicks, C. H. Ruhl and E. F. Knupp. This committee will no doubt meet as soon as possible to organize and confer with council at a special session to learn what has been accomplished to date and what remains to be done before the ordinance is passed and contracts let. It will probably include the immediate completion of petition, a conference with the traction company officials and the State Highway Department to determine whether it is possible to proceed with any of the work this Fall. Practically every one of the property owners on the street is in favor of some method of permanent improvement at once and the general impression is that the committee of property owners on the street will do everything possible to return to the Council the petition on this piece of road to conform with the excellent work the State has done on the Jonestown road, which will then be among the finest roads in this section of the State.

Dogs of War Are Given Place in French History

The present world war is not the only conflict of arms in which dogs have played a prominent and worthy part. When the French were fighting the Arabs in Algeria, it is related that one canine favorite was decorated with the stripes of a corporal and afterward raised to the rank of a full sergeant on account of his abnormal sagacity. He was used in turn as scout, sentry, dispatch bearer and seeker of the wounded on the battlefield.

Another famous French dog was Tutu, attacked to the 3d Zouaves, who went through the African and Italian campaigns with the regiment. During the latter campaign Tutu unmasked an Austrian spy who had put on a zouave's uniform, while at Palestro he was the first to swim across the canal, being followed by the soldiers. Magenta was another famous dog that went through the Italian campaign, and when he came back to Paris the animal was showered with flowers by the enthusiastic public.

REYNOLDERS TO POLL COMPLIMENTARY VOTE

Leaders Predict He Will Be Given Largest Majority in Home Ward; His Record Pleases

With the primaries just a week away politicians in Steelton are lining up their followers for the final showdown. In several of the contests rivalry is keen, while in a few there will be practically no opposition to the men who are at present occupants of offices.

One of these cases is in the Third ward, where J. V. Reynolders is a candidate for re-election to his seat in council. His nomination will probably be practically unanimous.

Following the custom since the organization of the borough, Mr. Reynolders, the highest resident official of the Pennsylvania Steel Company, has represented the borough's principal industrial interests in council.

In Office Seven Years

Since his election to that body seven years ago Mr. Reynolders has been the presiding officer. During this time the borough tax rate has been reduced, more than seven miles of paved streets have been constructed and a new 30-inch intake has been built into the filter plant, which now has a capacity sufficient to furnish Highspire, Oberlin and Enhaut with filtered water. This would make it possible to either reduce Steelton's water rates or to devote greater funds to public improvements. Other public improvements carried out during Mr. Reynolders' term in office include the handsome Locust street station, the erection of the new Hygienic Hose house and additions to the Baldwin and West Side hosehouses; the purchase of a new Heliser pump at the filter plant, the purchase of a new chemical truck for the Citizen Fire Company and a wonderfully improved sewerage system.

Although a busy man on account of his duties at the steel company, Mr. Reynolders has devoted much of his time and his far-sighted ability to the interests of the taxpayers. His aim has always been a bigger and more attractive Steelton. To this end he has labored incessantly.

Hebrew Association Is Organized by Young Men

The Young Men's Hebrew Association was organized by a number of Steelton's prominent men of Jewish birth at a meeting in Tiphereth Israel Synagogue yesterday. The new organization is a branch of a state association and has thirty-five members. The next week is certain, according to the organizers, to be a big one for the furtherance of education, sociability and athletics. David P. Baker is the president. Other officers are: Vice-presidents, Louis Lehman and L. Sugar; recording secretary, P. Goldsmith; financial secretary, H. Sharavsky; treasurer, Jacob Yosolovitch. Clubrooms will be opened in the near future.

AUTO BURNS

A small automobile owned by Christian Rouser, East Main street, was completely destroyed by fire in front of Espenshade's restaurant Saturday. The blaze was started by a leaking gasoline tank.

SOUDER FUNERAL TO-MORROW

Funeral services for Joseph W. Souder, who died Friday night, will be held in the Church of God at Highspire to-morrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. The Rev. E. L. C. Baer, the pastor, will officiate and burial will be made in the Highspire Cemetery.

A wedding breakfast was served to the following guests: The Rev. and Mrs. A. K. Wier, Mrs. Margaret Kehr, of Harrisburg; Mrs. Melley Way, Highspire; Miss Anna Winkleman, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Motter, Patient Winkleman, Samuel Motter, William Kehr, Helen Kehr, Mr. and Mrs. John Kehr, Mrs. Maggie Winkleman, Mr. and Mrs. Houck, Mrs. Lina Moore, Miss Ethel Zimmerman, Charles Winkleman, Helen Motter, of Steelton; Margaret Kehr and Anna Kehr, Harrisburg.

WOMEN SEEK VOTE

Votes for the equal suffrage amendments at the November election will be urged strongly by women interested in the "cause" in Steelton. A few weeks ago the "antis" opened their campaign here by mailing letters urging a vote against the amendments to prominent citizens and officials at the steel works. Now the suffragists intend to get on the job and it was announced from the State headquarters of the suffragists in Harrisburg last week that the women's liberty bell will be in Steelton next month.
