COLONIAL—TODAY

Raymond Hitchcock in "The Ring-Tailed Rhinoceros"

The Colonial presents a great achievement in their photoplay policy in offering this mirth-provoking farce in which Hitchcock duplicates his stage success of creating laughter in the "movies." The story of the Ring-Tailed Rhinoceros has to do with a young man who is about to wed the girl of his choice. His father tells him that unless he forsakes his old companions and keeps off of spree, he cannot wed his daughter. Carter (Hitchcock) makes good on his promise until the night of the lawn fete when their marriage is to be announced he meets his old friends and as a result, they enjoy a glorious time, the adventures of Hitchcock and the Rhinoceros being a dream.

REPRODUCE CIVIL WAR RAIDS

London, Sept. 21.—Commencing on Field Marshal Von Hindenburg's late coup, the military correspondent of the Times suggests that since the recent changes in the Russian higher command the wise strategy of Grand Duke Nicholas seems to have lost favor and instead of continuing their orderly retreat the Russians held on too long. This gave the German command an opportunity of which he availed himself fully and the great cavalry raids of the American Civil War have been reproduced in the Vilna region.

FIREWORKS WILL END BLACKBIRDS

Dr. Surface Gives Some Advice of a Startling Nature to An Erie Inquirer

If blackbirds bother you, shoot rockets or Roman candles at them after they have ceased chattering and gone to roost at night. Pounding of tin pans when there are no newly married couples to be given calthumpian serenades is also recommended as an efficacious way to get rid of the dark-coated nuisances. These bits of advice are given very seriously by Dr. H. A. Surface, the State Zoologist, in a letter to an Erie county man who wrote to him to know the best way to get rid of the pestiferous blackbirds.

Dr. Surface says in his reply: "I recognize the fact that it is not wise to recommend shooting birds in a town, although if such a thing were possible it would be very effective. Yet there is another means that I consider better, and also safer to your residents. This consists in firing Roman candles and skyrockets through the trees in which the birds roost. It is remarkable what an effect it has on a bird or animal to disturb it in its sleeping place. If efforts are made to drive these birds away as they come to the trees in the evening to roost, they will soon go elsewhere and be afraid to return."

"Literary Burglar" Is Ordered to Pay Costs

Reading, Pa., Sept. 21.—Arthur D. Sheeley, said to be a member of a prominent family of Vineland, N. J., whom the police style the "literary burglar," was ordered by Judge Wagner to pay costs, amounting to $80, and further sentence was suspended. He was convicted of entering the home of Mrs. Minnie T. Nicolls, society leader. A note was left criticizing Kipling's works in her library and complaining because he found only non-bons to eat. Sheeley, a tree doctor who did work about many leading residences, was found guilty last December. A new trial was asked and refused. Since shortly after his arrest he had been at liberty under $500 bail, furnished by his father.

HOW THE CLIMATE AFFECTS RELIGION

A Californian told me that the people there paid less attention to religion than elsewhere because there was so much sunshine. The climate was so delightful that they were outdoors most of the time, and their Sabbaths were given to excursions, so that the church was neglected. A less salubrious atmosphere would have been better for the souls. And in the Kingdom of God there will be many with cause for eternal gratitude that the sunshine of worldly happiness faded in time to lead them to appreciate "the light of the knowledge of the glory of god in the face of Jesus Christ." ON TAKING SIDES

There is a big difference between being on God's side and thinking that God is on our side. If we are on his side we can't lose. If we think he is on ours, we may.—Christian Herald.
