Vessel Must Leave Port or Dispose of 300 Tons of Dynamite on Board

New York, Sept. 22.—Captain J. F. Wild, supervisor of anchorages in New York harbor, said to-day that he would probably give the German steamship Magdeburg a week or so to coal and provision and ship a full crew before compelling her either to leave the port or dispose of 300 tons of dynamite in her cargo.

Horror! Substitutes Used For Malt in Making Beer

New York, Sept. 22.—Substitutes for malt and other natural ingredients are used in the manufacture of beer in this country, according to witnesses who testified in the government's suit to dissolve the Corn Products Refining Company, hearings in which are in progress here. Some of the substitutes were described by witnesses as "malt adjuncts." Emil Schlichting, president of the National Brewers' Academy, said that rice, corn grits and oatmeal were some of the malt adjuncts largely used by breweries. Syrups from cane
