UPS AND DOWNS IN A NATION'S LIFE

Quarterly Review of Sunday School Lesson Presents Study of Facts and Teachings

By William T. Ellis
It is the long look that reveals truth. Things must be seen in relation one to another in order to be understood. The advantage of a quarterly review of Sunday school lessons, such as the present, is that it enables us to study facts and teachings in proper proportions. A single lesson may concentrate our attention too closely upon episodes and details; a long sweep of history, like that comprehended within the studies of the past three months, gives balance and perspective and a sense of relative values.
Most persons need this. We are so close to the incidents of life that we often miss a clear view of life itself. We "cannot see the woods for the trees." Saint Peter had a keen word upon this when he characterized a certain sort of person as "blind, seeing only what is near." Now, amid the present world upheaval, we need especially the gift of discerning major tendencies and ultimate issues, behind the welter of absorbing details. Whatever local conditions may be, let it be remembered that they are as the forces home, which may be receding, though the tide is rising. This essential lesson truth has been well expressed by Priscilla Leonard in a poem in "The Outlook":

"On the far reef the breakers
Recoil in shattered foam,
Yet still the sea behind them
Urges on its onward home.
Its chart of triumph surges
Through all the thunderous din—
The wave may break in failure,
But the tide is sure to win."

"The reef is strong and cruel;
Upon its jagged wall
One wave—a score—a hundred,
Broken and beaten fall.
Yet in defeat they conquer,
The sea comes flooding in—
Wave upon wave is routed,
But the tide is sure to win."

"O, mighty sea! thy message
In clanging spray is cast:
Within God's plan of progress
It matters not at last,
How wide the score of evil,
How strong the reefs of sin—
The wave may be defeated,
But the tide is sure to win."

Kings, Great and Small
It is a startling or incredible thought that the real mission and efficiency of the ancient Jewish kingdom which we are studying cannot be fully understood until we have seen the effects produced in Bible lands by the present war? A resurgence of Jewish nationalism is being witnessed throughout the world. What twentieth century development is to inherit the glories of David and Solomon?

A long look at the lessons of the quarter reveals David and Solomon, as well as Rehoboam and Jeroboam and Ahab, and still lesser wearers of the purple. In great allegiance of Jehovah, David and Solomon had led united Israel to the apex of its history. The studies now in review—and what rich lessons they have been!—have included the greatest days of the Jewish nation. They have also taken in the tragic times of the division of the kingdom. The mightiest of the Hebrew monarchs, as well as the meanest, have been under the study of the world's Sunday schools, all within three months.

What greatness could do for a nation, and what smallness could undo, has vividly been portrayed. God pity the people who have pusillanimous leaders in a time of great crises. It makes a sovereign citizen tremble when he sees politicians pursuing petty partisan purposes in an hour of national emergency. At least we can be thankful that, as we sweep the world's present troubled horizon there are few, if any, Rehoboams in places of national leadership.

Leaders and Misleaders
One angle from which the quarter's lesson may be viewed is as a study in leadership. I heard a man say, in condemning a certain notorious ecclesiastic in one of the larger American religious denominations, "It will take the Church twenty years to recover from the blight of that man's influence, after he is dead." Similarly to-day the hand of Abdul Hamid has been removed from the Turkish scepter but it remains baefully upon the Turkish people. The present saturnalia of massacres and persecutions of Christians in the Ottoman Empire is traceable to Abdul Hamid's example and influence. Jeroboam, "who made Israel to sin," continued his malign work even after his bones had rotted. No man sinneth unto himself. If you do not believe that on first statement ask the historians; or ask the doctors, who, in this morning's paper cried out against the social crime of permitting wicked fathers to foredoom unborn offspring to suffering and despair.

Observing the influence of the character of the kings who were leaders and misleaders of the Jews, we are reminded of the proverb, "like priest, like people." Every forecast and prediction should make himself count, in these days, for the highest welfare of the world. It is a solemnizing thing to have great in-

PASSES LAW EXAMS
Clarence A. Fry, 212 Crescent street has successfully passed the examinations before the State Board of Law Examiners, which were held in Pittsburgh on July 6 and 7. Mr. Fry has been a resident of Harrisburg all his life, and is a graduate of the Central High school class of 1908, Dickinson college, class of 1912, and completed his law course at Dickinson in 1914. He is at present connected with the Bell Telephone Company as adjuster in the cashier's office at Pittsburgh.

TO HOLD CORNROAST
The Aldrich's association, which is a nonsectarian organization of men on Allison Hill, to-day sent out invitations to about 300 men to attend a cornroast at Bellevue Park on next Monday evening. Short talks will be given by the Rev. James F. Bullett, Harris J. Bell, and the president, J. Kluedinst.

STEELTON SNAP SHOTS
TO ARRANGE TRIP—Steelton Lodge, 411, Knights of Pythias, will make arrangements for the visit of the lodge to York, September 27. The local lodge will be guests of Crystal Lodge at York.

The Prophet's Part
Probably the average school teacher wields a more potent influence over the life than the average office-holder, taking the two classes in the large. Kings, on the whole, have counted for less than the great reformers, writers and preachers. To be a speaker forth of truth is to wield the mightiest spear. After David and Solomon—both of whom combined the prophet-function with their sovereignty, so that they are immortal as teachers, rather than as rulers—there was no king among the Jews who counted for as much as the prophets. Elijah dwarfed all his contemporaries.
To be the man who speaks for God in a nation's troubled hour is a great mission. What if the prophet's work is hard for the prophet? Better truth's tempests than error's ease. Elijah in the wilderness is a sublimer figure than Ahab on his throne. God still has ravens to feed His messengers, so that the messengers need give little thought to the ravens, but only to the message. The firm pays the expenses of its traveling representatives.
This review ends where the quarter's lessons ended, squarely confronting the great and eternal truth that to represent God, to speak His message fearlessly, to be true to His name and mission, is the highest work possible to mortal. When the times are most troublous, then the need for the tellers of the truth of God is greatest. The highest patriotism is to call one's country back to the faith of its fathers.
