NORMAL SCHOOL PURCHASES SOON

Clarion Negotiations Brought to a Successful Termination by State Education Board

Steps to secure State control of three more normal schools to add to the four now owned by the Commonwealth were taken by the State Board of Education last night. The nesotiations under way for Bloomsburg and Slippery Rock chools were declared to be weil under way and Slippery Rock will vote on September 27.

The Clarion school, which has buildings and grounds valued at $325,000 and other property worth $39,500, is to be bought for $20,000 cash and assumption of $46,000 debt, the State already having an interest in it. The nommittee which arranged the transfer was Senator W. W. Hindman, Frank Harvey, H. M. Rimer, Joseph Maffett, R. G. Yingling, W. Day Wilson and James Pinks.

The board discussed ways and means for inauguration of the continuation schools and elected H. E. McConnell, Mercer, to succeed E. S. Templeton, a new member of the board, as a trustee of Edinboro school. The school fund was reported as containing $177,000.

L. H. Dennis, in charge of the State's agricultural schools, roported a growth from 5 to 33 in three years, there being now 17 vocational agricultural schools, 77 for various branches and 5 home-making schools in twenty counties. All are rural schools and the State gives two-thirds of the cost. M. B. King reported 4 industrial schools, 3 continuation schols, 4 all-day household arts schools and 14 evening household arts schools and 14 evening household arts schools and 14 evening household arts schools and twenty counties with 10,000 enrolled. the four now owned by the Common-

TRAVELETTE By NIKSAH GRAND CAYMAN

RAND CAYMAN, an island of the Caribbean Sea between Cuba and Jamaica, is a civilized, white man's country without doctors, lawyers or jails. When yellow fever or smallpox is introduced, it dies out of itself, so healthy are the people. When a member of the colony offends the law he is "told to go away" and does so, but few ever offend. There is no litigation, because the members of this colony insist on helping their fellows instead of taking from them.

There is almost no government in Grand Cayman, because none is needed. It is British territory, governed by an assistant commissioner under the administrator of the affairs of Jamaica. The taxes are nominal and spent almost entirely upon schools and roads.

The island is fifteen miles tong and four wide, having a population of 6.000 people. It is a gem of productiveness, and a family may live on the returns from an acre of groune which may be bought for ten dollars. The necessities of life come so easily that theer is no desire for wealth and nobody possesses it. The people helpeach other with their work without pay. There is almost no money on the island.

These people speak English. They are descendants of old Cromwellian Roundheads who came to turns haven in 1665, and planted a corony of but twenty or thirty people. To them have been added chance comers—shipwrecked Carlbs, chance sar-ormen. A party of Seminole Indians brought here from Florida by an American adventurer who sought to establish a kingdom. All have been fused together in a race that is still English, but a bit swarthy from the vropic sun and the introduction of darker blood.

The original stock was much like that which settled New England. Being planted on a tropical island and isolated for centuries, it developed differently. The Cayman islanders are still devouity religious, their guiding principle being helpfulness to one another. There are those who say that the principles of Christianity have been better preserved and practiced here than anywhere eise.

The remarkable community here plante your New York and there was nungry, and no man offered him anything to eat. This could not have happened in Cayman."

"The ability acquired by young America in the pursuit of game, says the foreword, "in the handling of the gun, in taking care of himself in the fields or in the forests or on the water, has made it possible for cur volunteers to become with limited discipline and drill the equal of any regular on the face of the earth.
