Men Working on Slopes Along the River Front

City Commissioner Taylor, who has made a fine record in the expansion made a fine record in the expansion and development of the park system during the last year, had his force at work this morning on the river slopes. During the big carnival considerable damage was done to the planting, but inasmuch as there must be a general grading of the slopes in the sections south of "Hardscrabble" the damage which resulted from the crowds using the slopes instead of the walks will not be so great as was feared at first.

Inasmuch as many gulleys had previously existed, the opportunity is now presented to place the slope from Herr street southward in first class shape before the rains of the winter do further damage. It ought also to be possible to transfer a lot of hardy shrubbery from the nursery on the island to the slopes and plant the trees in the River Park that could not be set out in the Spring. There is now enough space along the western curb line from Maclay street to Division to continue the line of elms which extends to a point north of Maclay street.

The river events of last week gave thousands upon thousands of people an opportunity to see for themselves what has been done by the Park Department during the last few months. and development of the park system

FINE CELEBRATION GENERAL VERDICT

Chairmen and Committeemen Are Commended For Good Work

Well, it was SOME celebration!" That's the way all Harrisburg feels to-day when it thinks back over the great week-end of the Municipal Improvement observance.

That the city never enjoyed itself so thoroughly nor even entertained such enormous crowds goes without saying, and a grateful, if a bit fun-weary pub-lic, was loud in its praises of the chairmen and committeemen who helped make the event such a wonderful success.

Henderson Gilbert, president of the Chamber of Commerce, and the other members of that body, J. Raymond Hossert, assistant park superintendent who had charge of the water carnival, C. Floyd Hopkins, who managed the big program, President Harry A. Boyer of the school board, Frank H. Hoy, Jr., of the cabaret committee and all the subcommittee chairmen and committees came in for a generous share of commendation to-day. The handling of Harrisburg's water carnival naturally developed some mistakes and delays but all in water carnival naturally developed some mistakes and delays but all .n. all allowances were pretty generously made and then the evening's events overshadowed the occasional slip-ups of the afternoon.

Another splendid feature of the big celebration was the co-operation of the merchants, the stores and the public utilities. The traction companies and the bridge company went in for the big time splendidly while the Harrisburg Light and Power company did more than its share to make the three days a success.

All the subcommittees and chairmen, of course, came in for a share of the city's commendation for the way they had handled the various events on the program and among these were the following:

School publicity and exhibit, Dr. F. E. Downes, city superintendent; automobile inspection tour. City Commissioner M. Harvey Taylor; unveiling of improvement marker, Benjamin M. Nead; big reception, Donald McCormick; speakers, A. Carson Stamm; "Merchants' Night," A. E. Buchanam; unveiling of Harris' Ferry tablet, Thomas Lynch Montgomery; military maneuvers, Col. Joseph B. Hutchison and Lleut.-Col. Maurice E. Finney; street cabaret, Felix M. Davis with Mr. Hopkins and Mr. Hoy; water carnival, subchairman, Thomas M. Kelker; rowboats, Charles C. Dintaman; swimming, Cloyd McFadden; 14-year-old swimning, Horace C. Gelsel, et al. (1997).

Condemns the Dance

"The modern dance is an abomination to God and man," continued the speaker. "It's a travesty on decency and any man or woman who consents to trade companions with another man or woman for conventional hugging purposes even for a minute to say nothing of an hour or a night, is a fool though he or she may not know it. Men can eat with men, smoke with men, drink with men, talk with men by the hour or evening, but who heard tell of men dancing all night with momen? Why is this?

"Common decency should preclude the modern dance among decent people. And as for the cabaret about which we hear so much, that is the dictionary name for a tavern or 'wine shop' and growing out of that is the word cabaretier,' the dictionary name for a saloonkeeper. And yet we debauch people with not only the names but the acts of these sensualizing dopes to the spiritual nature. Where is the remedy for all this? Why, be not drunk with wine with women, with the cabaret, the theater, the vaude-ville, the sensuous movie, the lying novel, but be ye drunk with the spirit. "And let the drunkenness find

Harrisburg firemen will have a big part in the annual meeting and parade of the State Firemen's Association in Philadelphia next week. Two local companies will probably go in a body, the Allison and Royal. At a meeting to-night the Royal Company expects to complete plans. The Allison company will meet to-morrow night to decide finally.

At a meeting of the Firemen's Union at the Citizen firehouse to-morrow night, arrangements will be made for Harrisburg's representation in the convention. This city is entieled to 200 delegates. About one-half that number will attend. The convention convenes Tuesday. The big parade will take place Thursday.

Special rates have been granted to firemen on all railroads. For Thursday, Cotober 7, the Pennsylvania railroad company; and the Philadelphia and Reading railroad company will offor a special one-day rate.

Chamber of Commerce

Plans Annual Meeting

Further plans of the Harrisburg Chamber of Commerce for its annual meeting on the evening of October were compelted to-day.

The meeting will be in the form of a buffet, supper and will be held in the Masonic Temple at 6:30 in the evening. Immediately follow the supper the addresses will be given.

Members will deposit their ballots for directors on entering the hall. The result of the vote will be tabulated by the conviction of evening army of the North.

Union Leaders to Attend

The program of the afternoon called for a pa'riotic concert by the United States narine band at the Pension Building, which is to be used as a branch headquarters.

Beginning to-night and continuing throughout the week, the forts around Washington will be illuminated by the Veterans' Signal Corps Association.

Twelve war vessels of the United States nary lay at anchor in the Potomac river here to-day for the inspection of the veterans. Naval officers will give daily demonstrations for the instruction of visitors.

Thirty thousand veterans are exected to participate in the grand review Wednesday. President Wilson will review the procession from a grandstand in front of the White House where President Johnson stood in 1865 to review the conquering army of the information.

Members will deposit their ballots for directors on entering the hall. The result of the vote will be tabulated by the tellers and announced during the evening.

Admission to the meeting will be by card and will be restricted to members of the Chamber of Commerce and invited guests. Invitations will be mailed to members to-morrow.

Much interest is being taken in the meeting because of the record of the Chamber of Commerce during the past year and the notables who will address the session.

for a week, will be featured by a procession of the survivors of the conquering army from the Capitol to the White House in commemoration of the grand review which marked the close of the Civil War. Many other interesting events are on the program.

Extraordinary preparations had been made for the event, which promised to rival presidential inaugurations in interest and display. Plans had been perfected for entertaining 100,000 visitors.

Union Leaders to Attend

The celebration will be marked by the bringing together of the surviving great Union leaders. Among them are the only two living corps commanders, General James H. Wilson, of Wilmington, Del., and General Granville M. Dodge, of Council Bluffs, Iowa, and Division Commanders General Adelbert Ames, of Missippi, General D. McM. Gregg, of Pennsylvania; General Lewis A. Grant, of Minnesota; General J. Warren Keifer and Brigadier-General John T. Wilder, of Knoxville.

Many Gray-Clad Veterans

In addition to the Grand Army veterans in their uniforms of blue incoming trains are bringing in large numbers of gray-clad Confederate veterans invited to the festivities. President Wilson by special executive order has granted a holiday to all government employes who served on either side to attend the reunion.

The death rate of the veterans of the Civil War is 120 a day and the final call for the survivors, the average of whom is 71 years of age, is fast approaching. This encampment, therefore, will be the last formal gathering of the Grand Army of the Republic. Encampments of some sort will be held each year, the officers say, until the last man of the war passes away.

Official records show that 2,272,408 men fought under the Stars and Stripes in the Civil War and that 349,944 lost their lives before Lee surrendered. The 2,000,000 veterans of the armies of the North at the close of strife fifty years age have dwindled to less than 400,000. PERMISSION IS GRANTED

"Course there's an ordinance forbidding that," smiled one cop as a gay Pierotte spilled a half bag of confetti over the curls of a pretty girl, "but what's a man going to 'do? If I stopped that, why, look here—and there—and over there"

And he pointed to as many other different confetti throwers within fifty feet. They were all doing a big business.

traffic was kept to the side streets. Front street for blocks north and south of Market looked much like an automobile park.

The Periwinkle band of the Dives, Pomeroy & Stewart stores marched around through the crowd and now and then started a refrain that was taken up by the big mass of people. Other bands in costume, including the "Sour Note" band from across the river, paraded through the streets and added to the fun. Harrisburg was never in such high good humor.

In the northwestern end of the Square a gypsy camp with remarkably pretty gypsy girls told fortunes, while a couple of clowns and a pony entertained the hundreds who never moved from the spot. Many a cane was "ringed" on the Courthouse steps, many a. "bahy" was cracked with a baseball, and scores of marbles were tossed into cuspidors at the "fair."

While a band furnished the music on the big stage in the center of the Square an attractive program of vaudeville entertained thousands. Most of the artists were from the Majestic. The program included Leach, Laquinlan, trio, wire artists; Lyman and Chaulsea, dancers; Peter Pendergast, contortionist, of this city; Pearl Brothers and Burns, comedy and song; Daly and Thomas, acrobats: Claude and Marion Cleveland, musical comedy; Mile. Vera Sabina, "Fantasie of the Dance:" Max Musical Circus; John Donovan, singer, and John Reynolds, dare-devil balancer.

During the evening prizes for the best costumes were awarded by a committee of judges consisting of Frank H. Hoy, Jr., and Wellington G. Jones. The prizes were articles of merchanics, jewelry, etc., and the winners included the following:

Crowds Keep Two "Armies"

Neither of the two "armies" that maneuvered on the slopes of Reservoir Saturday afternoon could "fight" properly; the crowds of some 10,000 people wouldn't let them.

Despite the fact that the spectators could have seen everything by keeping below the battle zones as it were, the crowds jammed up right behind the attacking or defending forces in such a way as to prevent any retreats or flank movements or any other movements that soldiers would naturally make on an occasion of this kind.

The fact that one body of troops was engaged with two other commands precluded a decision by the referees, Lieutenant-Colonel Maurice E. Finney and Captain Kemper of the United States army. The Governor's Troop and Companies D and I of the Eighth regiment were engaged, the troop acting as the advance guard of an army which was attacking Harrisburg and endeavoring to get possession of the Market street bridge "head."

Everything went nicely as mapped out until the infantrymen started to charge up Cherry Hill to take the "trenches"; then its attacking party just had to keep going—the crowd followed so close on the heels of the "army" that the latter couldn't have retreated or flanked if it wanted to.
