AMUSEMENTS

ORPHEUM
To-night and to-morrow, matinee and night—Joe Weber presents "The Only Girl."
Thursday, matinee and night, September 26—"Girls From Joyland."
Saturday, matinee and night, October 2—"Bringing Up Father."

"THE ONLY GIRL"
At the Orpheum to-night and to-morrow, matinee and night, Joe Weber will present for the first time in this city, the latest musical comedy success, "The Only Girl," which has just completed a run of nearly one entire year.

at the Lyric Theater, New York. One can easily understand the success of "The Only Girl" when such master minds as Weber, Herbert, Blossom and Latham are concentrated in one effort. In addition to these four, considerable credit must be given to Ludwig Fulda, inasmuch as it was from his charming comedy, "Our Wives," that inspired Mr. Blossom to adapt it to musical comedy. It is delightful to note that Mr. Blossom has lost none of his cleverness as a writer of lyrics.—Advertisement.

"BRINGING UP FATHER"
It has remained for Manager Gus Hill to place the popular cartoons of George McManus entitled, "Bringing Up Father," in a stage form. A three-act play which is an entertaining diversion composed of singing, dancing, specialties and wholesome comedy and telling an engrossing and amusing story, has been made of the pictures which bids fair to be as successful as the cartoons themselves. The piece, interpreted by one of the best casts which has been assembled in seasons, will be the attraction at the Orpheum, Saturday, matinee and night.—Advertisement.

MAJESTIC VAUDEVILLE
"The Earl and the Girls" is the title of a very clever one-act musical comedy, heading about the best vaudeville bill the Majestic has presented this season. This is a fetching little comedy enacted by a capable cast of principals and the musical interpolations are offered by a bevy of as pretty show girls as the most fastidious could wish to see. Ray and Hilliard, man and woman, in eccentric comedy and song, called "The Rube and the Show Girl," played in the same brilliant fashion that they did at the Orpheum in former seasons; and Crawford and Broderick are a nifty pair in a bright illustration skit with songs, who scored heavily. Les Killers, European gymnasts, and Edmonds and Farrell, splendid character comedians in comedy and song, complete the roster. Fine motion pictures make the Majestic these days the biggest amusement bargain counter in town.—Advertisement.

VICTOR MOORE AT THE REGENT TODAY
Victor Moore in the most laughable character of his entire career, "Chim-mie Fadden," at the Regent to-day for the last time.
To-morrow, and Thursday—Daniel Frohman presents the idol of the season, Mary Pickford, as "Fanchon the Cricket" in the title role, but that the supporting cast also includes Lotie and Jack Pickford, sister and brother of the popular star.
Mary Pickford is fascinating in the role of Fanchon, a mischievous imp of a girl, the scorn and byword of the village, who, under the subtle influence of love, gradually develops a goodness of disposition and a general bent toward virtuous principles whereby she eventually gains the heart of the man she loves, and triumphs gloriously over the envy, hatred and uncharitableness of the rustic community of which she had been a despised and rejected member.—Advertisement.

"MORTMAIN" AT THE COLONIAL AGAIN TODAY
"Mortmain," the Vitagraph Blue Ribbon feature being shown at the Colonial Theater, is one of the strongest film plays ever released. It is an intensified drama, with Robert Edson in the title role, and each of its five well-photographed parts is gripping in its interest. The story deals with the hunt for a criminal who has fled from one of the best in the V. L. S. E. service. To-morrow and Thursday will be two days as usual at the Colonial, and the public well knows that anything that bears the William Fox seal is in the A-1 class.
"Mortmain," which is this week's Fox release, contains the scene of a burning excursion boat with the rescue of scores of helpless people who leap over board in a frantic effort to escape with their lives. The film is taken from the well-known story of Mamie Rose by Owen Kildare.—Advertisement.

103 SUICIDES IN MONTH OF ROSES
Singular Figures Shown by the Report of Vital Statistics of State Health Department
One hundred and three persons committed suicide in Pennsylvania during the month of June according to the report of the State Bureau of Statistics of the Department of Health for that month. This is the largest number in any month in years and is greater than the number dying by railway accidents or in mines. Railroads took toll of 79 lives and 80 were killed in mines. Other forms of violence caused 531 deaths.
The report shows another jump in population, the births for the month of roses being 17,348, while 8,698 deaths were reported.
Tuberculosis caused 818 deaths, Bright's disease, 655; pneumonia, 525; cancer, 519; diabetes, 79, and intestinal trouble, 78. The typhoid fever deaths numbered, 62; scarlet fever, 22; diphtheria, 20; measles, 44; whooping cough, 38; influenza, 31, and meningitis, 34. Deaths in early infancy were 552.

WELLS AND EBY IN HOT FIGHT WORRY BOSSES
entirely too much independence in office to suit the purposes of the fusion machine, which has been unable to dictate any of his appointments nor to tell him where he should place his official advertising. In short, Wells having been elected without the aid of the bosses, has been conducting himself independently of them ever since, while Eby, having played into their hands at every turn, is favored for re-election.
Wells' friends believe that his individual campaigning will have the same result this year as it had when he ran for sheriff and visited almost every farm in the county.
Fight on Recordship, Too
Dr. C. Albert Fritchey's friends are also looking with suspicion upon the Democratic-Washington party bosses. It will be remembered that when Fritchey entered into a deal not to oppose Vance C. McCormick for national delegate, with the arrangement that both could go to the convention that nominated Wilson at Baltimore, the general understanding was that Fritchey was to be made postmaster of Harrisburg if Wilson were elected. When Fritchey applied for the job he was calmly told that he stood absolutely no chance, that it was promised to another, and there was no use in talking further about the matter.
The real reason for this turn-down lay in the fear of the Democratic bosses that Dr. Albert Fritchey's elevation to the important position of postmaster would give ex-Mayor Fritchey, his brother, an opportunity to slip back into power. The new bosses hate Fritchey, but are in constant fear that they may awake some day to find the sly old Democratic fox has regained control of the local organization which they took from him only after many hard fights and years
