BERGDOLL NOT IN COURT

Young Philadelphian Fails to Appea When Case Is Called

Norristown, Pa., Sept. 30.—Although Grover Bergdoll, of Philadelphia, was on the district attorney's list of those who desired to plead guilty yesterday, he was not there, as usual, and when his counsel asked for a continuance until Saturday Judge Swartz remarked that there was nothing to continue.
Judge Swartz sald it was evident that Bergdoll has no respect whatever for the Court. He said that he had received letters reflecting on the court because of the failure to bring Bergdoll to justice, and that he was sure the fault did not lie with the sheriff, who was given a bench warrant some time ago for Bergdoll and was unable to serve it. Bergdoll is charged with driving an automobile for which he had no license and running recklessly.

Wharton School Training For Manufacturing founded by one of the most widely known and successful manufacturers in Pennsylvania. He founded the first school of business because he recognized from his own experience the need for specialized training for young men if they are to become efficient executives in manufacturing and mercantile lines.

Thirty-four years of experience has demonstrated the soundness of Mr. Wharton's great concept. The graduates of the Wharton School have been conspicu-various systems of wage-payment, how to finance his business, the principles of commercial law, the science of commercial credit. He must understand the law of trade-marks, the practical features and uses of each type of property in-establishment-learn about these vital matters from your routine duties?
