THE NATION'S CASHROOM
By Frederic J. Haskin
silver coin, stacked up like sacks of wheat in a long, dark granary. Here labors Jansen, a big Swede, who has developed a peculiar skill in stacking coin sacks, which are treacherous and prone to slide and tumble.
$3,000,000 a Day
Altogether, this is an atmosphere of money such as is breathed by few men in the world. Major Quaife handles more money every year than will Carnegie and Rockefeller in all their lives. More than $2,000,000 a day passes through his hands. This does not mean that he merely has supervision over a system of bookkeeping through which $3,000,000 in figures passes each day, but that he actually handles it in cash.

Major Quaife, as a very young man, served three years in the army during the Civil War. When he was mustered out he came to Washington and got a job under Francis E. Spinner, then Treasurer of the United States. He was assigned to the cash room. Twenty years later, President Cleveland asked Conrad Jordan, another treasurer, if he could not advance Quaife. The Treasurer obtained through Congress a new post for him, that of vault clerk. He has held it for thirty years. He has undoubtedly handled more actual money than any other man who ever lived.

Major Quaife took charge of the money vaults where he now presides in 1884. He stands at a high table in a small, low-ceilinged steel-lined vault, literally surrounded by millions.
The paper money is received from the Bureau of Engraving and Printing in packages the size of eight-inch cubes. There are 4,000 bills in each package. The values of packages depend on the denominations of the bills they contain. If they are one-dollar bills a package of them is worth $4,000, while if they are twenty-dollar bills it is worth $80,000. There is one prize package which is made up of ten thousand dollar bills and therefore worth $40,000,000. A few people who have influence at court may get into vault No. 12, may hold this twelve-pound package in their hands and attempt to think in the terms of the wealth it represents.

Framed Greenbacks
The cash vault has two decorations. One of them is a little frame which contains ten thousand dollar bills and one five thousand dollar bill. The idea is to show the curious just how these biggest denominations look, as few people are ever likely to see, let alone possess one of them. One of these ten thousand dollar bills is a curiosity because it is a greenback no longer in print. This is the only place in the world where one of this issue may be seen.
The other decoration hanging on the door jam is a statement of the amount of money Major Quaife has handled during the various years of his service.

In his first year as vault clerk he handled $165,730,000. That was in 1884. Ten years later the flow of money through his hands had increased to $241,098,000. By 1904 the amount had grown to $37,023,000. Another decade registered an equally surprising increase in the funds that were passing through the nation's cash room. They passed the billion mark in 1912, during which year Major Quaife in his little cubbyhole, directed the course of $1,041,000,000. This is the measure of the growth in the use of currency in the United States in a single thirty years.
It is withal a considerable business that Uncle Sam does in transacting the affairs of the nation. He has 2,500 disbursing officers who are authorized to issue checks against this, his central bank. These orders are issued against the treasury house at the rate of 40,000 a day.
In the matter of pensions alone, $180,000,000 a year is paid to old soldiers scattered about the country, all of it coming from this little cash room. For the multitudinous task of distributing the mails of the nation there are 300,000 checks a year issued in payment against this, the Bank of the United States.

Billion Dollars in Circulation
There is in circulation among the people of the United States to-day $1,142,000,000 in gold certificates. The public is unlikely to pay sufficient attention to its paper money to know which are gold certificates, which are silver certificates, and which are United States notes. But there are out among the people more than a billion dollars in gold certificates for which there is deposited in the Treasury the actual gold money for its redemption.
Then there is out among the people $474,000,000 in silver certificates, and silver dollars are held here for their redemption. Finally, there are out $337,000,000 of United States notes. This paper was issued during the Civil War and had nothing back of it but the government's promise to pay. As there seems no reason for not doing so, the government has continued for fifty years to use this extension of its circulating medium. But in order that this currency might be placed on a basis of greater stability, Congress some years ago put aside $150,000,000 in gold to guarantee it.
These three classes of paper money, with that which national and reserve banks are allowed to issue under their own names, make up the total of paper money in circulation.
With the exception of the notes issued by the banks, all these come through the Treasury cash room. Not only this, but when bills get soiled or worn, they may be sent to the Treasury and new money will be issued in their stead. This new money, issued in lieu of old, passes through the cash room and contributes to the constant stream of wealth that flows through it.

PAINFUL EFFECT OF Rheumatism, Gout, Urinary Calculus

It is now asserted with confidence that these painful effects due to uric acid in the system are entirely eradicated. A new remedy, called "An-uric," has been discovered by Doctor Pierce, which is thirty-seven times more potent than lithia, and is the cause of a drainage outward of the uric acid with which it comes in contact within the body. It will ward off backache, headache, and the darting pains and aches of articular or muscular rheumatism—of those diseases which are caused by too much uric acid, such as gout, asthma, sciatica, renal calculus. "An-uric" prolongs life because old people usually suffer from hardening and thickening of the walls of the arteries, due to the excess of uric acid in the blood and tissues.
Dr. Pierce, who is director and chief physician at the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., has been testing this wonderful medicine for the relief of overworked and weakened kidneys. The relief obtained by sufferers has been so satisfactory that he determined to place "An-uric" with the principal druggists in town where people could get this ready-to-use medicine. "An-uric" is not harmful or poisonous, but aids nature in throwing off those poisons within the body which cause so much suffering, pain and misery.
For Diabetes and Bright's Disease this remedy is building up a reputation as good as Dr. Pierce's other well-known medicines which have been proven reliable during nearly fifty years, such as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for the ills of womanhood, Doctor Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, the liver regulator, and Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for red blood.—Advertisement.
