

1,700 MEMBERS IN SUNDAY SCHOOL

Efforts Being Made to Get Out Full Attendance at Round-Up

AL. K. THOMAS Superintendent of Big Sunday School

The growth of the Sunday school of Stevens Memorial Methodist Church, which now has a membership of 1,700 persons, is regarded as remarkable by churchmen of the city. Two years ago the membership was far below a thousand.

This Sunday school is now one of the largest in the Methodist Church and much of its growth is due to the efforts of Al. K. Thomas, superintendent, and his staff of workers.

What is probably the most determined effort to get the entire membership out to a single session will reach its climax to-morrow afternoon. All day-to-day telephones were kept busy. In addition letters were mailed to each member. To-morrow will be observed as "round-up day."

REV. DR. HAWES INSTALLED HERE

Wideley-Known Theologians Participate in Exercises at Market Square Church

The Rev. Dr. George Edward Hawes was formally installed last evening as pastor of Market Square Presbyterian Church. Former pastors and other city ministers were present, some of them participating in the impressive ceremonies.

The Rev. Dr. Thomas C. McCarrell, former moderator of the Carlisle Presbytery, pronounced the invocation and presided at the exercises last evening. The Scripture lesson was read by the Rev. Dr. Lewis Seymour Mudge, pastor of Pine Street Presbyterian Church.

The Rev. Dr. J. Ritchie Smith, pastor of Market Square Church from 1900 to 1914, now professor of homiletics in Princeton Seminary, then preached the sermon, speaking on "The Great Love of Christ."

Dr. Moffat delivers charge. The prayer of installation was offered by the Rev. Harry B. King, pastor of Paxton Presbyterian church and assistant pastor of Market Square Church from 1895 to 1906. This was followed by the charge to the pastor, given by the Rev. George E. Stewart, D. D., LL. D., ex-president of Washington and Jefferson College and moderator of the general assembly in 1905.

The charge to the people was given by the Rev. Dr. George E. Stewart, LL. D., president of Auburn Theological Seminary and pastor of the Market Square Church from 1885 to 1914.

The music of the service was given by the choir, directed by Mrs. Wilbur F. Harris, and at the close of the installation David Edgar Crozier, former organist of Market Square and Pine Street Churches, and present organist of Calvary Presbyterian Church of Philadelphia, gave an organ recital.

The service was held after the manner of the late pastor Dr. Ritchie Smith and the former pastors.

Dr. Smith's sermon was a remarkable one, the autobiography of Paul and his great struggle with the persecutor to Paul the apostle "though the love of Christ. He suggested that there was too much machinery in the church to-day with too little power to run it; too many organizations with too little life in them.

Dr. Moffat's charge to the pastor included some very forceful observations upon the changes which have taken place in the preaching of the Word. He particularly referred to the outward sanctity, the long-facedness and solemnity which have characterized in some cases the earlier preachers and deplored the tendency of modern preachers to assume leadership in the channels than those having to do with the promotion of the kingdom of God. He said that the Bible offered sufficient themes for preaching and especially commendation of the position of the Word by Dr. Smith in his sermon last night. He made it clear that he had little confidence in that sort of preaching which is intended to settle all the problems of life.

Dr. Stewart in his practical address supplemented what was said by Dr. Moffat and emphasized the obligations of the people in the matter. He suggested that the church must work for the welfare of the community.

All of the elders and trustees were seated on the altar platform. It is a remarkable fact that the Market Square Presbyterian Church has had but six pastors since 1793 and two to participate in the installation of Dr. Hawes, who pronounced the benediction.

Following the installation the Rev. Mr. Hawes, a number of visiting clergymen, with their wives, were entertained informally by Mr. and Mrs. William E. Bailey at their home, 410 West Fourth street. Those present were: the Rev. Dr. George E. Stewart, the Rev. Dr. James D. Moffat, the Rev. Dr. and Mrs. George Edward Ritchie, the Rev. Dr. and Mrs. J. Ritchie Smith, the Rev. Dr. and Mrs. W. Fleming Judge, J. M. McCarrell and Mr. and Mrs. David Edgar Crozier.

Mr. McCarrell will play the following numbers:

This little quotation contains two thoughts. First, the world is going ahead, and second, the logical conclusion of the first; there are men and women who are making it go ahead. These men and women, statistics show, to the extent of eighty-five per cent. are active members of the Christian Church. They are those who are devoting their entire time to the work.

The fact that you cannot devote all of your time to such a work is no excuse that you should not contribute your share. And your share will be contributed by regular church attendance in the right spirit.

The principles of the Christian Church if they are a part of you, will cause you to lead the kind of life by which the world will profit—will be a bit better because you have lived the right kind of life.

Regular church attendance in the right spirit will make these principles a part of you.
