"THE VALLEY OF LOST HOPE" WITH ROMAINE FIELDING AT COLONIAL

"The Valley of Lost Hope," the spectacular Lubin photoplay that will be shown at the Colonial Theater to-day and to-morrow, is unquestionably the most ambitious production of its kind ever undertaken. It comprises two sterling thrillers—a head-on collision of two complete trains and an explosion on a gigantic scale that blows out the side of an immense bluff and destroys a whole village. But these are simply headline sensations—there's a dozen more of lesser proportions that will make the movie fan sit up and take notice.

The film was made under the personal direction of Romaine Fielding, who, it will be recalled, staged "The Eagle's Nest," the famous Lubin photoplay that was made in the Colorado

Rockies in the "Garden of the Gods" country. Fielding has the gift of making a thriller artistic, and in "The Valley of Lost Hope" tells a beautiful story in a way that is gripping without being trashy.

"The Valley of Lost Hope" deals with a get-rich-quick capitalist, who starts a gold rush on a supposedly rich mining field. He remains on the field until he has mulcted his dupes of their all and then plans a hasty get-away. But this get-away fails to go off as per schedule and stirring incidents follow thick and fast. There's a safe robbery, a number of unusual and daring climaxes and some of the most beautiful scenery ever thrown on the screen. And through it all runs a beautiful love story that is highly diverting. Perhaps no other film combines features that appeal to all in a way that characterizes "The Valley of Lost Hope." As one critic puts it: "It has the punch."—Adv.

FARMERS DEMAND HELP FROM STATE

Ask That Farm Hands Be Secured to Help Out in Late Seeding of Wheat

GOVERNOR AT READING

Addresses the Pennsylvania Germans; New Stamp Tax Arrangements Are Under Way

Farmers and iron and steel manufacturers have been running close in demands for men from the State's new employment bureau the last few days. Throughout Southern Pennsylvania counties farmers are now planting their wheat, the seeding being unusually late because of the effort to avoid the Hessian fly, and they are calling for men to help them through before the heavy frosts come. For years wheat was planted early in September, but recent experiments have shown that it can be seeded in October with best chances of avoiding the pests. Considerable work is also being done on orchards.

The iron and steel manufacturers are speeding up because of the foreign orders and the demands for domestic shipments to take the place of many articles being sent abroad and have been asking for many men.

The bureau is having all applicants, both for jobs and men, file statements so that there will be no misunderstandings. Quite a number of farmers in the southern tier have been put into touch with workers, some of whom have finished in counties in the northern section.

Seeding Out Trout.—Hundreds of young trout have been shipped from State hatcheries to eastern and central counties the last few days, the consignments being to fishing associations whose members had agreed to attend to the "planting." Most of these fish were sent to districts which have not had trout shipments for some time. In every case agreements to look after the fish have been filed.

State Tax Varies.—Numerous payments of State tax, ranging from $5 to $10,000, are commencing to arrive at the State Treasury, this being the period of the year when the capital stock tax is collected by the State. The tax is on the actual values of all companies except those engaged in manufacturing. Manufacturing companies are taxed $5, which is known at the Capitol as "the bookkeeping tax."

Checking Up Now.—Agents of the State Dairy and Food Commissioner have been "checking up" on the milk and cream being sold in a number of places where the agents sampled the products during the summer and in several instances arrests have been made where persons failed to obey the law on standards.

Will Meet Here.—The Public Service Commission will resume sessions here next Tuesday evening, the considerable calendar of complaints and contract agreements will be presented. No arrangements have yet been made for the following week, which may be occupied in the study of grade crossings and other matters.

May Buy More.—Inspections of normal schools in Eastern Pennsylvania, now under way, will likely result in some negotiations for purchasing. The board has the Slippery Rock school under consideration and will take up Bloomsburg and some other schools.

Increases Capital.—Another building and loan association has filed notice of increase of stock. The Broad Mountain Association, of Frackville, has increased its capital from $500,000 to $1,000,000.

Reach Understanding.—Commissioner Dixon and Scranton city officials reached an understanding last evening in the making of plans for the sewer system of the city. It is stated that as a result of the meeting the State will make a specific statement of what is required and the city officials will submit plans and begin the collection of funds to ascertain if the sewers now proposed can be made a part of the comprehensive system for the collection and treatment of the sewage of the entire city.

Godcharles' First.—Deputy Secretary of the Commonwealth Godcharles today administered the oath to Emerson Collins, now deputy attorney general. It was his first duty of the kind.

Stamp Designs.—Auditor General Powell said last night that the State would have stamps for its stock transfer tax. The stamps will be from two cents to $20 and each will be a different color. Those below $1 will be vertical in design and those above horizontal. The verticals will bear State arms.

New Bank.—The Bosak bank, of Scranton, was chartered with $100,000 capital yesterday. It is headed by Michael Bosak.

Called on the Governor.—Among the Governor's callers yesterday were Senator Charles A. Snyder, Pottsville; E. A. Boland, Scranton; Representative R. P. Hager, Bradford; and Judge C. H. Bressler, Lock Haven.

Pay on the 29th.—Auditor General Powell last night announced that the next payday would be October 29. This will permit people at the Capitol to go home to vote.

Lancaster Charter.—The Landis Stone Meal Co., of Rheems, was chartered with a capital of $25,000 to manufacture stone meal. Four members of the Landis family are incorporators.

Governor Speaks.—Governor Brumbaugh went to Reading this morning to address the Pennsylvania-German Society, of which he is a member. The Governor also saw the State exhibit at the Reading fair. He will return late in the day.

Companies Merge.—Four of the electric companies recently chartered for furnishing electric power in Erie county have merged under the name of the Summit Township Power Company, of Erie; capital $20,000.

Permits Granted.—The Water Supply Commission cleared its docket last night, issuing twenty-four permits. In the list were: Pennsylvania Railroad, bridge across Rattling Run, Lykens; Citizens Water Company, Tower City, repair embankment of its upper dam across a tributary of Wisconsin creek; commissioners of York county, bridge over Cocolamus creek; commissioners of York county, bridge across Bennett run, near Goldsboro; Pennsylvania Railroad, embankment along left bank of Hagerstown branch of Juniata river, and supervisors of Lettkeny township, Franklin county, bridge across Rocky Springs creek, near Chambersburg.
