Three Men Injured by Auto on Lincoln Highway Special to The Telegraph bearers to Attend

Special to The Telegraph Waynesboro, Pa., Oct. 15.—A motor-ist from Altoona ran down three Chambersburg men in charge of lum-ber wagons on the Lincoln Highway, between Fort Loudon and St. Thomas yesterday, seriously injuring one and more or less injuring the other two. The injured men are William and Joe Davis and Walter Kendall. William Davis was the most seriously injured and it is feared he has received in-ternal injuries, as the car ran over him.

WILLIAM E. FISHER DIES

Harrisburg formerly being a head-quarters for fraternity men to secure prospective pledges. The plan of heeting men at Harris-burg was stopped last year, although the trains here were stormed as soon as they entered the town. So keen was the competition for new men that frequent disturbances occurred, with the result that a new system was adopted which is this year given its first tryout. No fraternities are permitted to bid for or pledge new men before a cer-tain week. Then a series of entertain-ments is given by the various fraterni-ties, written invitations are sent out and the new men are permitted to ac-cept whichever they choose without any urging from older men. "Rushing week" began on Tuesday October 12, and will continue until next Tuesday. Dances, teas, dinners and smokers follow each other in rapid succession, while several of the larger fraternities are planning banquets and theater parties at Harfisburg early next week. The rushing rules here are among the most stringent in the country, college men say. Special to The Telegraph Waynesboro, Pa., Oct. 15.—William Elliott, Fisher, aged 54, second son of the late James A., and Julia A. Fisher, and for years a resident of this city, died at his home at Roanoke, Va., yesterday from an affection of the heart with which be had surfaced for yesterday from an affection of the heart with which he had suffered for some time.

Special to The Telegraph^{*} Selbyville, Del., Oct. 15.—The farm chores for this winter have no terrors for Martin Rickards, who lives in the lower end of Baltimore hundred, and who has been an ardent rooter for the American League baseball teams. This year his neighbor, Alvin Turn-nell, who has been a strong Phillie fan, bet Rickards that the Phillies would win the world's championship and agreed that the loser would have to split wood, water and feed the stock and do the farm chores both morning and evening from now until the first of May. Both were in Selbyville when the his own an. his neighbor's work. After miking the cow, feeding the hogs and bedding the horses, he an-nounced that aithough he would stick to his bargain, he intended hiring a colored man to do the work for him. Rickards doesn't care how it is done fust so it is done, and is looking for-ward to a life of ease this winter. PAUL KUNKEL HITS AT COURT SAYS STROUP

[Coutin JATIS SIRUUP] [Continued From First Page.] Mr. Stroup, but had been counted out, and saying that but for the fact he would have been "soaked" another thousand dollars in costs he would have appealed to the higher courts the decision of the Dauphin County Court, which ruled that Stroup and not Kunkel had been elected. "This charge that he was elected and counted out does not reflect on me," said Mr. Stroup. "When Mr. Kunkel savs he was elected, but robbed of the office, he reflects on the integrity of the Dauphin County Court, to which rule dhat scales, but which cleided against him. And when he asserts he would have appealed the case higher except that he would have been 'soaked' another thousand dol-lars in costs, he confesses that the bigher court would have sustained the lower court and would have ruled him out. Kunkel casts no reflection on the Dauphin County Court, which you men know is above suspicion." Tuns and Pass Charles E. Pass, one of Mr. Tunis', strongest supporters at the polls, sokke during the early part of the meeting in order to get away to make a second, speech before the Walnut street bridge advocates on the Hill. He urged Republicans to get behind the whole ticket this Fall in prepa-ration for the great national contest next year and said that while he had not ovted for all the candidates nomi-nated in Sentember, like a good Re-publican he had fought his differences out at the polls and stood ready to publican he had tood ready to publican he had tood ready to publican he had tood ready to publican he had coartied his home in the so sload by him in such numbers that he had carried his home in a James E.
