

NEW QUARANTINE AMENDMENT OUT

Illinois Cattle May Go Through Pennsylvania, But Can Not Linger Here

The State Livestock Sanitary Board last night made public an amendment to its quarantine orders against Illinois on account of foot and mouth disease in which changes are made in accordance with the federal regulations.

The new order becomes effective on November 1 and reads:

"No cattle, sheep, other ruminants or swine that originate in any part of the State of Illinois under federal quarantine will be permitted to be unloaded in Pennsylvania for any purpose.

"Cattle, sheep, other ruminants or swine that originate in the State of Illinois under federal restricted quarantine and handled in accordance with federal regulations will be permitted to be shipped through, but not unloaded in, Pennsylvania.

"No cattle, sheep, other ruminants or swine that originate in the State of Illinois under federal 'closed,' 'exposed' or 'modified' quarantine will be permitted to enter or pass through Pennsylvania for any purpose.

"This regulation supersedes amendment 4, effective October 13, 1915."

SUFFRAGE UP IN 3 OF ORIGINAL STATES

adopted. The State has been thoroughly organized by the suffrage forces. There is every assurance that the vote on the question will be large; much larger than that ever before cast on a constitutional amendment. All over the State men who are leaders of thought are avowed advocates of the suffrage cause. Whatever opposition there is comes almost entirely from a few interests inherently opposed to women voting.

All these conditions, and many others, each one highly important in itself, labor unions, municipal improvement clubs and many other kinds of organizations were brought within the influence of the movement with such success that a mere enumeration of the bodies that have formally endorsed suffrage and pledged the support of their members at the polls would occupy the better part of an ordinary newspaper column.

While this was going on, a suffrage organization was built up that for completeness, reach, responsiveness and effectiveness far exceeds everything of the kind ever attempted among women in this country. All this was accomplished quietly. There was no sensationalism nor the slightest suggestion of militancy.

Campaign Well Organized

The New Jersey election was a turning point in the Pennsylvania campaign. For months at the State headquarters of the Pennsylvania Woman Suffrage Association here, and in county and community suffrage organizations all over the State, a steady constructive campaign, which had for its primary purpose carrying the suffrage amendment to the ballot, was being carried on. Influential men were induced to take active part in local campaigns. Granges, church governing bodies and subordinate societies, labor unions, municipal improvement clubs and many other kinds of organizations were brought within the influence of the movement with such success that a mere enumeration of the bodies that have formally endorsed suffrage and pledged the support of their members at the polls would occupy the better part of an ordinary newspaper column.

BOWMAN EARNED $84,000 SURPLUS

until after my election in the early part of November. This sum was put at interest before I took the oath of office, and therefore I claim no credit for it, other than that the money was not invested until after a change in the administration of the water department became apparent. According to all existing reports of the water department, if any surplus was put at interest to earn money for the people previous to that time, there is nothing to show it.

"However, I did say, and I repeat, that on April 6, 1915, in my annual report, read in Council, as appears on page 7 of the printed pamphlet, I asked Council to direct the Sinking Fund Commission, of which Mayor Royal, W. L. Gorzas and Owen M. Coppola were and are now members, to invest at interest for the taxpayers, $50,000 of the surplus earnings, the total of which was $84,000, which left me an ample reserve fund of $24,000 for emergencies.

I knew that the sooner this was put on interest the more it would earn for the taxpayers. Notwithstanding this and subsequent reminder, this money was not put at interest by the Sinking Fund Commission until September. Due to this carelessness, the taxpayers lost the interest that would have been otherwise earned during about five months. In other words, the city lost approximately $1,000 because my recommendation was not promptly adopted to the 1913 report of the water department. The Patriot says that there was a net cash earning of $93,522.31. This, however, did not include State tax on loans of $2,511.20. It also did not include the sinking fund of $36,868.33. The total maintenance charge was $87,526.67, which makes a total of $148,397. Deducting this from the total cash received of $204,920.98, shows a net earning of $52,202.78, which is the true net cash earning for that year, instead of $93,522.31. This may be found on page 64 of the 1913 report.

"Compare this true net earning with the true net earning of the department for the first year of my administration, allowing also for several reductions in water rates and rents, and you will find that, as set forth on page 29 of the 1914 water department report, a net balance in my favor of $84,441.65, as I originally claimed.

"This is my final statement during

of this campaign. The facts as above set forth are correct, as the printed reports will show, and it is not my purpose to engage in any further fruitless controversy on the subject. The intelligent voter has the figures. He can judge for himself.

City Treasurer Copelin stated today that the $110,000 to which reference was made as not having been placed at interest was a misrepresentation of the fact and that this sum was at interest when Mr. Bowman took office. Mr. Bowman explains the circumstances in his foregoing statement.

GOVERNOR ASKS HOW HE RAISED IT

Sends Letter to Champion Corn Grower With Request For Real Information

Governor Martin G. Brumbaugh has asked Frank Rimel, of Downingtown, who was awarded a medal as the champion corn grower of Pennsylvania, to kindly tell him how he raised 148 bushels of corn on one acre of land so that he can impart the information to the farmers of the Keystone State.

The Governor a few days ago received a medal from San Francisco inscribed for Mr. Rimel as the champion corn grower. There had been a national competition and the Pennsylvania honors went to the Chester county man. The Governor has been suffering from a cold or he says he would have gone to present the medal.

In his letter the Governor says: "I beg to advise you that the National Top Notch Farmers' Club, through its secretary, has forwarded to me a medal of merit, suitably inscribed with your name, and which I am asked to present to you as the top notch corn grower of Pennsylvania, having produced 148 bushels of corn on one acre of land. I beg to suggest that it will be a source of pleasure and profit to the farmers of Pennsylvania if you will be good enough to make known through the public press the method adopted by you in producing this unusually fine crop of corn from the soil of our State. I congratulate you and trust that many others following your example will add in this way to the material wealth and the happiness of our people."
