ADVANCE OF THE NEGRO

By Frederic J. Haskin

graduate of Dartmouth College two years ago and his discoveries are regarded as of such importance to science that he has been granted a six months' leave from duty to inaugurate a similar line of research in the University of Chicago.

Many Receive Degrees

Nearly a thousand young colored men and women received baccalaureate degrees in this country during the past year. Some of them were from the leading educational institutions of the country, including Yale, Harvard, Columbia, Dartmouth, Cornell and Western Reserve. Many other graduates were from the institutions devoted exclusively to colored people. One of the honor graduates of the Columbia Medical School this year was Dr. Isabelle Vandevall, the only student of her race in the class. Immediately after graduation she was appointed interne to the Hospital for Women and Children of Syracuse. The public order in the country graduated over 3,000 colored students last year, a number of whom won signal honors. A graduate of the M street colored high school of Washington, D. C., has been an honor student at Radcliffe this year and composed its freshman class song.

The natural musical ability of the colored race has received the recognition of the English government, which has recently provided a pension of $1,000 per year for the widow of Coolidge Taylor, the composer and an additional provision for his children during their minority. The colored composers of this country are also doing much to add to the musical credit of the nation. Many people familiar with the melodies of Harry T. Burleigh, the beautiful cradle songs by Charles Johnson, or the sprightly dance music of Will Marton Cooke are not aware that their pleasure is due to the musical talent of the colored race.

Many Singers of Ability

Colored singers of exceptional ability are numerous. A few months ago Rachael Walker, of Cleveland, was enthusiastically received by the King and Queen of Spain, who delighted in her voice. During her stay in Paris she received the hearty plaudits of Massenet and Saint-Saens, the great modern French composers. The thousands of American theatergoers are familiar with the artistic performance of Bert Williams, a colored comedian with ability of the high order. His appearance in any production is a promise of entertainment that is always fulfilled. His droll representation of dealing himself a losing hand in a game of cards is a classic in mimicry that audiences delight in seeing over and over again.

Notwithstanding the limited facilities open to colored art students, a number of painters and sculptors of rare talent have developed within the present generation. James Herring, a landscape painter, was awarded the highest prize among twelve artists exhibiting in an exhibition held in Syracuse last Spring. Harry L. Tanner, also an artist of note and the son of Bishop T. J. of the African Methodist Church, has recently had the distinction of selling one of his pictures for the Louvre Gallery in Paris. Tanner's "Three Marys" is well known, yet few of its admirers know it is the work of a colored artist.

Noted Sculptors

A number of colored sculptors have attracted attention. Howard Jackson, of Washington, is remarkably clever in her representation of children, her compositions having been extensively reproduced. Meta Warwick, a young Philadelphia girl, is considered to have exceptional talent. She has studied under Rodin in Paris, and several of her pieces suggest her master in their strength and virility. Her subjects are sad, as if she felt the handicap of her race. "The Man Eating His Heart Out" is her best-known work.

Chicago boasts both a colored physician and a dentist who have promoted their profession. Dr. Daniel Hale Williams has the distinction of having performed the first successful operation upon the human heart. He was made a fellow in the American College of Surgeons in recognition of this feat.

Dr. C. E. Bentley, of Chicago, was the first president of the Illinois Dental Society and was the chief organizer of the great dental congress held in Chicago in 1905. Dr. Bentley's first suggested dental examination for school children at a meeting of the Illinois Dental Society some years since. His recommendation is now in active operation in most of the large cities throughout the country.

During the half-century of his freedom the progress of the negro has not been confined entirely to art and science. His education and advancement have been along all lines. He is succeeding in business, he is learning the trades, and even in the poorest districts of the South he is rapidly becoming a freeholder.

PROJECTING YOUR PERSONALITY
Can any man's life be held to be incomplete if it is continued in the life of a friend? Was Arthur Hallam's life incomplete when Tennyson prolonged it forever by "In Memoriam"? or the life of Socrates when Plato continued it in his immortal dialogues? Confucius said wisely, "Have no friends not equal to yourself." By that he must have meant, "Make your friends equal to yourself by giving them freely of your best." Thus you make sure of a continued life whatever happens to yourself, as a manufacturer entrusts the secrets of his manipulations to his younger partners.—The Christian Herald.
