MORE THAN 240 NEW GAME LAWS

Much Legislation to Protect Birds and Big Game; Follow Pennsylania's Lead

Washington, Nov. 11. — More than 240 new game laws were enacted during 1915-a larger number than in any previous year except 1911, according to Farmers' Bulletin 692, "Game Laws for 1915." Regular legislative sessions were held in 43 States, and in all of these, except Arizona, Georgia and Nebraska, some changes were adde in the statutes protecting game.

tions of the game bill in washington.

A number of bills were introduced for the purpose of harmonizing the State laws on migratory birds with the Federal regulations. In at least nine States changes were made which brought the seasons into substantial agreement, viz, California, Connecticut, Maine, Michigan, New Hampshire, Tennessee and West Virginia. In Illinois the seasons for all migratory bird except coot and waterfowl, and in Washington for the smaller shore birds, were made to conform with the regulations under the Federal law.

Uniformity was also secured by provisions in the law of Connecticut, Maine, New Mexico, North Dakota, Washington and Wisconsin, prohibiting hunting between sunset and sunrise. On the other hand, Delaware adopted a resolution opposing the migratory bird law, and Ohio and Rhode Island, which had harmonized their seasons on waterfowl this year.

Follow Pennsylvania's Lead on Aliens As a result of the decision of the supreme court of the United States on January 19, 1914, sustaining the alien hunting law of Pennsylvania, legislation prohibiting aliens from hunting or owning shotguns or rifles was enacted in at least four States—Massachusetts, New Jersey, North Dakota, and West Virginia—but certain exceptions based on property qualifications were made in Massachusetts and New Jersey.

were made in Masaschusetts and New Jersey.

Close seasons extending for several years were provided for certain kinds of big game and also for game birds. Hunting mountain sheep was suspended in Idaho, Montana, and Washington, and goats were protected until 1918 in Montana.

Moose were protected for four years in Maine, the first absolute close season on this species for 25 years—since the suspension of hunting, from 1878 to 1880. Antelope were given indefinite protection in New Mexico and Montana.

In Michigan, New Mexico and Oklahoma, prairie chickens were protected for several years. Michigan extended complete protection also to quail, imported pheasants, grouse and wood ducks for five years. Minnesota protected doves, woodcock, plover and wood ducks until 1918. New Mexico gave protection to pheasants, bolwhites, pigeons and swans. Oklahoma protected doves, grouse, wood ducks and curley. Several birds were removed from the game list and protected through the year. Oklahoma mave such protection to pelicans, gulls and herons. Tennessee declared ringneck pheasants, bullbats, robins and meadow larks to be nongame birds. In a few cases protection was removed from certain species—notably the turkey buzard in Delaware. Florida and North Carolina, owls and starlings in New Hampshire and cormorants in Illinois and North Dakota.

Notwithstanding the agitation in favor of protecting quail for several years in some sections, no bills of this kind were passed this year, and 59 States still provide quail shooting. The seasons were shortened six weeks in Nevada. Limits were established for the first time in Arkansas and New Hampshire, reduced in Iowa from 25 to 15 per day, in Oklahoma from 25 to 10, in Minnesota from 15 to 10, and increased in Nevada from 15 to 20. All but 14 of the States which permit quail hunting now have a limit of 20 birds or less per day.

Waterfowl

All the States now allow waterfowl hunting, but the wood duck is protected for several years throughout the Northern zone, and in the Southern zone in the States of California. Kansas and West Virginia. Daily bag limits were established for the first time in Arkansas and Connecticut, reduced in Oklahoma from 25 to 10, and increased in Missouri from 10 to 15. Most of the States now have a limit of 25 or less per day.

Open Seasons

Open seasons were lengthened in Montana on elk and deer two weeks; in Florida on deer and birds three weeks; in Minnesota on quall 20 days; and in Nevada on sage hens four and a half months, on grouse one month, and on quall two weeks. New Jersey reverted to the former plan of hunting deer on four consecutive Wednesdays, instead of five consecutive days. Seasons were shortened in a number of States. In the case of big game the deer season was curtailed in Arkansas three months, in Oregon and Washington two weeks. In New Mexico the seasons were generally shortened and arranged in two districts divided at latitude 35 degrees. In California the dove season was made later, and in Minnesota shortened 20
