What Happened to Jane

By Virginia Terhune Van de Water

CHAPTER V

Jane Hardy had escaped Augustus Reeves on Sunday, but she was not so fortunate on Wednesday evening when she went to the regular weekly prayer meeting in the chapel.

"You walk with Mr. Reeves, mother," she ordered. "It's raining harder every second, and I am better able to hurry than you are."

"Oh, no, thank you, it won't be necessary," Jane assured him, "for mother was afraid it would rain, so she brought an umbrella."

"She is headstrong," pronounced the man disapprovingly. "Many young people are that way—especially an orphan like she!—but when she's settled down, is not in dollars and cents alone, but in the breaking down of those vital functions of the body that bring happiness and long life.

THE DREADFUL PIT

CHAPTER XLVIII.

Dangerous Delay. The ire of Hernandez was now thoroughly aroused. A quicksilver mine on the Lost Isle of Cinnabar—probably unworked for a century or more—meant millions, many millions.

CHAPTER XLIX.

False Impersonation.

In the interior of the chart room on board the battleship Missouri, Neal Hardin—ensign—was discussing with his brother officers the possibilities of the Alleanman war.

CHAPTER L.

What's the Matter?

"What's the matter?" queried another officer, getting out a section of another map. His senior told him, "And the longitude," he asked. His senior told him that.

ROLAND ADPAGE, 16.

What do you know about guinea pigs? They are great little workers!

Say, last year father was talking About having made his own living

Since he was 15 years old, and I said:

"You just give me a chance and I'll show you

That you're not the only one!" So he Laughed and said: "Here is $5, now

Let's see what you can do."

So I took the five and, looking through

The Telegraph for an investment, I saw

Some guinea pigs for sale, and so I bought some—and some chickens.

Well, I laid out a place for 'em in our back yard, according to

The Telegraph's directions, And pretty soon, what d'ye think?

I was selling guinea pigs and fresh eggs!

I advertised 'em in the Telegraph And had more demand than I had supply.

Father says that I am a born merchant;

That I had sense enough to realize

The value of advertising From the very first.

Anyway, I know that if I have anything

Good, or want anything good, I can either sell or buy

Through the Telegraph—The people's market.

Has Faith In Remedy

Mrs. H. S. Carlson of Wakefield, Nebr., testifies to the relief she experienced from the use of Fruitoia and Traxo:

"I used Fruitoia and Traxo with very good results. Having passed almost a cupful of gall-stones with the first bottle, my skin is clear now, and I have a good appetite."

Fruitoia is a powerful lubricant for the intestinal organs, softening the hardened particles that cause so much suffering and expelling the congested waste in an easy, natural manner.

Traxo is a powerful cathartic, clearing the bowels of bile and stimulating the flow of gastric juices to aid digestion and remove bile from the general circulation.

For the convenience of the public, arrangements have been made to supply Fruitoia and Traxo through representative druggists.
