OILING THE PATH OF BEAUTY

The woman who has a dry, lifeless skin—which means, of course, an early crop of wrinkles—should hail the oil Kettle as her best friend, for it can supply to her skin what it lacks. Twice a week, before going to bed and after a very hot bath, she should give herself an oil and lavender rub. A hot body will absorb the oil at once. If the skin is thin, let the oil massage be administered gently; if a little too fat, then be very vigorous in the manipulation except in massaging the bust. Here the movement should be circular, following the contour of the breast, and very gentle. Rub the soles of the feet vigorously, for this speeds up the circulation.

For a flabby bust, an aromatic oil mixture is better than the pure olive oil. It has the advantage of making the skin white and smooth, as well as of adding firmness to relaxed tissues. You can prepare this oil rub at home by mixing 1 1/2 ounces of oil of sweet almonds and five grams of oil of bitter almonds. To this add one gram of benzoin, one gram of balsam of tolu, both powdered; and put the whole over a very slow heat for the entire day.

Olive oil, slightly warmed, if applied to the edges of the eyebrows at night will aid in acquiring more luxuriant eyelashes, just as its preserving application to the line of the eyebrow will make a much thicker brow.

Olive oil is used in manicuring—sometimes the hands are soaked in warm olive oil instead of hot, soapy water; but more frequently just a touch of the oil is applied to the nails at the very last and a tiny pad of absorbent cotton is used to polish them. A soft luster is the result.—Bettina Van Ness in the December Mother's Magazine.

"Wear-Ever"

Four-quart Aluminum Kettle

For ONLY 98c on or before November 23, 1915.

Without grease and without water a delicious pot roast can be made in the Kettle.

Place the kettle empty over a low flame. In the heated kettle, sear the roast on all sides; then turn the fire down to a mere flicker. When half done turn the meat over. Thus cheaper cuts of meat may be made as palatable as more expensive cuts.

The "Wear-Ever" Windsor Kettle may be used for many purposes every day in the year.

The steamer section—which regularly sells for $1.40—combined with the kettle may be used for all the purposes to which a steamer may be put. It is an excellent colander. The price of the Steamer alone—on or before November 23, 1915—is 98c.

The price of the Kettle and the Steamer ordinarily is $2.85. The special price for the limited time is $1.96.

You will get the Kettle—or the Steamer—at the special price, on or before November 23, 1915, at the following stores:

NEWS OF THE RAILROADS

FACE SHORTAGE OF FREIGHT CARS

Early Exhaustion of Surplus Rolling Stock Seen by Railway Companies

One of the most important indications of the general improvement in business conditions is the large increase in railroad earnings for September. October is expected to show even greater improvement.

According to compilations of the Interstate Commerce Commission, reports from roads operating 117,734 miles of line show an increase of 4.2 per cent. in total operating revenues per mile in September of this year. The average was $1,296 compared with $1,219 during the corresponding period last year.

Net operating revenues showed a gain of 18 per cent., or a jump to $484 per mile, from $408 per mile in September, 1914. Increases of 8.63 per cent. were shown in gross earnings of thirty-two roads for the first week in October, 11.28 per cent. for the second week and 17.49 per cent. for the third week, as compared with October a year ago.

According to the report of the American Railway Association, there was a big decrease in idle cars during October. On November 1 the total surplus of cars in the country was 28,239, as compared with 78,299 on September 1, the reduction having been 52,060 cars. On November 1 the gross surplus was $2,367, as compared with $8,061 in October.

A shortage of freight cars is faced the country over, and while the situation is not yet serious, an early exhaustion of the surplus of cars is anticipated.

RAILROAD RUMBLE

Employees of the Pennsylvania in the Middle Division will receive their pay for the first half of November beginning Friday, November 19, and ending on Friday, November 26.

Forty-one employees of the Middle Division of the Pennsylvania were disciplined for the week ending Friday, November 19, for allowing drafts of cars they were riding on to collide with others.

There's An Air of Winter Coziness 'Round The Home These Days

Warm, comfy hangings have replaced the light, airy kinds, and the steam radiator is singing its own little tune—strange how welcome it sounds!

This room or that room in the majority of homes has been brightened by the addition of a new piece of furniture, or just as likely an entire suite has replaced the old one. Others are coming to the front daily.

Our Furniture Floor has never contained more suggestions for home beauty and home comfort as right now—every corner is bright with new ideas in furniture-craft, and there's much to see—much to expect.

Most popular of Period designs are prominent; found in quaint, individual pieces, as well as in complete suites for bed, living and diningrooms.

Diningroom Suite in the William and Mary Period

Quartered Oak in Jacobean Finish

Lines are truly distinctive of this Period, and especially noteworthy is the fine cabinet work. Buffet and serving table have dustproof partitions. Chairs upholstered in genuine Spanish leather.

Ten pieces—specially priced at $166.

Other matched diningroom suites are shown in Adam and Sheraton Period designs, in solid mahogany; also late styles in fumed, golden and Butler oak.

"Stitch, Stitch, Stitch"---

Of course, everyone has read this old school-day poem: "The Song of the Shirt"—how hour after hour the steady fingers labored with the needle—slow, dilatory work it was.

What a remarkable transition from this unending process to the rapid, drudge diminishing sewing machine of to-day!

Even so the modern housewife finds objection to certain antiquated features that tries her patience and wastes her time, in the matter of winding bobbins and in other ways.

The Eldredge Two-spool Sewing Machine eliminates all such annoyances—the most modern machine construction of the day.

You'll hear more about it.

Wear-Ever Aluminum Windsor Kettle

98c Instead of $1.45

Four-quart size with a tablet-long list of ways in which it can be used.

Users of aluminum utensils will corroborate the statement that Wear-Ever stands first in favor, because it stands first in wear—so different from the flimsy, unreliable grades so often found.

By taking advantage of this special price, you'll understand better, and especially after several months of hard usage, why the majority of women choose Wear-Ever in preference to other cooking utensils.

IF YOU HAD NINE HONIES---WHAT?

"Sweetheart" Editor of the Telegraph's Getting Lot of Tips on Love

What would you do if you had nine sweethearts?

That is the question the Sweetheart editor of the Telegraph asked, offering as a prize to the writer of the most original reply, a box party at the Majestic theater where Barney Williams and his Nine Sweethearts opened a three-day engagement to-day.

Would you pick out the prettiest or the wealthiest, the richest or any other of the "honey" with all of them. I think he ought just keep on enjoying the company of all of them, and in the end love will find a way, and he will discover that he really loves only one.

You say in your letter that he is a real man. I believe he is, but he seems like a very frivolous one to me.

Yours very truly,
A PLAIN GIRL.

Harrisburg, Pa., Nov. 15, 1915.

Dear Sir: I am submitting your letter as my answer, or rather my opinion, of what a man ought to do if he had nine sweethearts.

It may be alright for a man to have nine sweethearts, especially if they are all pretty and charming girls, but I do think it is impossible for him to be in "love" with all of them. I think he ought just keep on enjoying the company of all of them, and in the end love will find a way, and he will discover that he really loves only one.

You say in your letter that he is a real man. I believe he is, but he seems like a very frivolous one to me.

Yours very truly,
A PLAIN GIRL.

To the Editor of the Telegraph:

If I were lucky enough to have nine sweethearts, and they all looked good to me, I would remain single and go on dividing my attentions among the nine. Still I suppose it wouldn't be long before a young riot would start and I wouldn't have any. I don't know what I would do. Guess I'd go crazy.

A FELLOW WITHOUT ANY.

Dear Editor: If I had nine sweethearts I think I would drown myself. I had two at one time a few years ago and I felt pretty much like doing something desperate then.

NEVER AGAIN.

City, Nov. 15, 1915.

Dear Sir: What would you do if you had nine sweethearts? My answer is there are too many young folks doing that nowadays and are depriving some other man or woman the chance. I would marry the woman or man for the best disposition which in future years means all to you both. Pick the one with the best disposition.
